SUMMARY.

An American writer says the Germans are bent on the destruction of the city of Verdun. "Verdun," he says, "is another Reims."

A communique says that after an intense bombardment the enemy attempted a coup-de-main on part of the French front line.

This failed completely, and the French big guns dispersed marching troops.

There were a vigorous bombardment and mining activity on Monday in the Argonne and Woevre.

Sir Douglas Haig reports that the British carried out successful crater fighting near Hohenzollern redoubt.

The British made a successful assault on a German salient at St. Eloi, second line trenches over 600 yards being taken.

Travellers from Schleswig-Holstein state that the British burned a granary at Randerup.

A communique reports increased German aerial activity on the Dvinsk front. The Russians dropped twenty bombs on Dvinsk.

An enemy message says the Russians violently attacked von Hindenburg's armies north-west of Jacobstadt.

The message adds that the Russians suffered enormous losses, and that unsuccessful attacks were made at Postavy.

It is pointed out that the Berlin wireless speaks of the advance at Jacobstadt without claiming that the attack was repulsed.

An American message says one hundred and twelve trains passed through Liege towards Russia in a single day.

A Salonica message says five aeroplanes at dawn raided the city and cruised for half an hour, eighteen civilians being killed.

The Italian anti-aircraft guns along the Isonzo brought down three aeroplanes, five airmen being taken prisoners.

A Rome communique says: Italians captured strong entrenchments at the Salleto, Freikofel and Cavallo Pass, taking prisoners.

A Berlin message says the English carried out an unsuccessful aeroplane attack on the North Frisian coast.

It is estimated that five German cruisers, 20 destroyers, five aeroplanes, and a Zeppelin took part in the recent engagement.

One of the Alcantara's consorts, The Andes, participated in the fight with the German light cruiser Greif.

The Andes was dexterously handled. She evaded the torpedoes and rained shells upon the raider.

Germany officially denies the loss of a submarine in the Greif engagement.

It is believed that 100 lives have been lost as a result of the torpedoing of the steamer Sussex.

A passenger states there was a painful rush for the boats, men pushing women out of the way.

A Washington press correspondent announces authoritatively that Germany believes the Sussex was mined.

It is reported from Washington that the situation is acute.

The American press demands instant action against Germany, but the State Department refuses to be hurried.

The Atlantic Transport Company's steamer Minneapolis has been sunk, eleven persons being killed.

The 25 Americans aboard are safe. One hundred and sixty-three of the crew have been landed at Malta.

An Amsterdam message says experts have proved conclusively that the Tubantia was sunk by a German torpedo.

The Dutch Government has stationed the Atlas, a specially-equipped rescue ship, near the Noord Linder lightship.

It is stated that the Turkish Minister of Finance announces the imminent bankruptcy of Turkish banks.

Mr. Hughes will shortly be made an honorary Bencher of Gray's Inn.

All his engagements for many days have been cancelled. His temperature on Monday night was 103.

A Great Council of all the Allies has been opened in Paris. Intense interest is being evinced.

At the conclusion of the Paris Conference Mr. Asquith will go to Rome, where a further conference will be held.

Ministerial circles declare that all along it was intended that Mr. Bonar Law should attend the Economic Conference.

Lord Sydenham advocates the appointment of an air board on the lines of the old ordnance board.

A meeting in London has decided that steps must immediately be taken to organise relief for the Antarctic expedition.

Allegations regarding negotiations in connection with the proposed State monopoly of petrol were brought before the Assembly.

The Premier announced that an inquiry would be held by Royal Commission, consisting of Mr. Justice Pring.

It is alleged that there has been an attempt to obtain illicitly large sums of money from the British Imperial Oil Company.

The secret commission alleged to have been demanded would have run into several thousand pounds during the period in question.

Mr. Griffith, as Minister who had charge of oil negotiations, made a short statement on the matter.

He said the disclosure had come as a thunderclap to him, and he asked the House to suspend judgment until later.

The Premier stated yesterday that the Government was considering the most suitable way of celebrating Anzac Day on April 25.

In the Legislative Council the Trades Union Amendment and Liquor Referendum bills were discussed.

Sixty fitters employed on the destroyer Derwent, now being constructed at Cockatoo Island Naval Dockyard, are on strike.

The trouble is due to inability to settle a demarcation dispute.

The Mayor of Perth is indignant at the Minister for Defence's refusal to restore facilities for welcoming returned soldiers.

The Commonwealth Prices Board sat yesterday in Melbourne, and considered applications from bakers.

Mr. J. H. Catts, the chairman, said it had been decided that the board would hear the evidence of master bakers to-day.

The introduction of a system for the bulk handling of wheat in Victoria is recommended by experts.

A personal appeal has been made to every railway employee here to "keep the trucks moving" owing to large wheat stackings.

Sir Gerald Strickland yesterday appealed to those who could not fight to do more to show their appreciation of bravery.

There appears to be every prospect of a split between the Liberals and Progressives over the Wagga seat.

The Premier has been informed that the Imperial Government is inviting tenders for the lease of Ashmore Islands.

The islands, which are in the Indian Ocean, are rich in guano and other fertilising substances.

The Chief Secretary warns the public of the danger attendant on the consumption of some oysters purchased in the bottle.

In connection with the Tasmanian election, it is generally agreed that the most probable result will be 15 a side.

Mr. Scaddan considers the right way to provide for wounded soldiers and their dependents is by a State tax.

A considerable number of investments changed hands at the Stock Exchange on Saturday, mostly on the firm side.

There was considerable activity in tin stocks in the Mining market. Barriers and copper were quiet.

New-laid eggs were reduced yesterday to 1s 10d. Bacon was unobtainable for delivery earlier than the end of April.

Heavy supplies of onions were received, and the best samples were to be had at £4 15s. The market for maize was weak.

Locally-grown fruit was in good demand. Another large Tasmanian shipment was in.

Forecast.—Cloudy to showery on the North Coast, fine elsewhere, and cool generally, with southerly winds.

YOUR WINTER UNDERWEAR.

—HAVE YOU BOUGHT IT YET?

We are putting a personal question to readers—this being a matter of close personal interest. Are you provided with underwear for the cold days?

If not we urge you to buy NOW. It is nearly time already to change over to warmer weights and underwear is already scarce.

The fulfilment of early contracts has brought us ample stocks for present needs—noteworthy values that are free of the recent increases and are undoubtedly the very best productions available at the prices quoted.

SELECTED WAR BOOKS.

"LEARN to be DISCRIMINATIVE in your READING," says CARLYLE. To gain a COMPREHENSIVE and INTELLIGENT knowledge, and to GRASP with PROPER APPRECIATION the SIGNIFICANCE of daily HAPPENINGS in the WAR zone, DISCRIMINATIVE reading is ESSENTIAL.
ENUMERATED BELOW are CAREFULLY SELECTED BOOKS of REFERENCE, by WORLD-FAMED authors, presenting in CONCISE form INFORMATION which enables one to DISCUSS the various PHASES of the EUROPEAN CRISIS with FAR GREATER KNOWLEDGE than could be IMPARTED by CABLES from the SEAT of war. ECONOMY that is BEYOND COMPARISON is ASSURED by the INFLUENCE of ANTHONY HORDERNS' FAMOUS LOW PRICES.

WAR BOOKS.

THE DARDANELLES. An epic told in Pictures, containing 92 full-page plates, from photographs, together with a Description of the Operations, from General Sir Ian Hamilton's despatch. Many of the photographs in this book were taken under fire. They constitute a unique souvenir of a phase in a campaign that ranks above the greatest military feats the world has hitherto known. TRIANGLE PLAYS.
AT THE LYCEUM.
ALL THIS WEEK,
Until Saturday.
SPLENDID ENTHUSIASM,
GENUINE DELIGHT,
EULOGISTIC PRAISE
greeted the second program of superb drama and comedy at Saturday's opening of the new program.
The Emotional Acting of Bessie Barriscale and Frank Mills in

"THE GOLDEN CLAW"

was a revelation and a delight.

The soul-searching story of the wife who first caressed and then was tortured by Mammon's Golden Claw brought tears to many a woman's eyes.

And the woman, having tasted of the sweets of life, shall go in pursuit of a phantom pleasure—and ever on, until she shall find herself at the brink of the abyss from which she cannot draw back. And with her shall be a man, dragged over that road of pleasure which he and thousands of others have helped to build for a woman—for many women, who had thrown to the winds their finer feelings, their deeper instincts, and their true sense of womanhood.

The absurdly funny and unbelievably thrilling comedy extravaganza, completely eclipsed anything heretofore seen in screen comedy.

"THE SUBMARINE PIRATE"

An ambitious waiter steals the plans of a new Submarine from two unpatriotic inventors. After purchasing an Admiral's uniform from a second-hand store, he gets command of the submarine by use of stolen papers, and starts on a career of piracy. He holds up passenger steamers, fights warships, lords it over his own crew, and generally enjoys a hilarious time until mistaken instructions leave him hanging to the periscope of the submerged vessel—and then a hungry shark appears—a full description is impossible, but take our word for it, this comedy outdoes anything you have ever seen.

Presents

THE NATIONAL PICTURES,

"BRITAIN PREPARED," showing

BRITAIN'S PART IN THE WAR.

THE PATRIOTIC DEMONSTRATION
at the initial presentation on Saturday night surpassed anything seen in the Town Hall for months and months.

A JOY TO BE THERE.

In introducing the Films at the Town Hall on Saturday night:—

SENATOR GARDINER,
Assistant Minister for Defence, found himself faced by an immense audience, when at 8 p.m., he stood in front of the large screen to officially commend the films to New South Wales. He said it was somewhat unusual for a representative of the Government to be taking such an attitude, but "this is a matter of nation-wide interest."

Growing Tributes of the Sydney Press:—

"SYDNEY MORNING HERALD."

"Immense audiences, both afternoon and evening, greeted the new National Pictures, 'Britain Prepared.' This amazingly interesting series of naval and military scenes instructs the receptive mind how war not only scars and wounds this suffering world, but also involves it in a wondrous whirl of work. . . All this was shown to the delight of thousands.'

"DAILY TELEGRAPH."

"Small wonder it was that the British Press received them with the utmost enthusiasm, for they emphasise in every inch of the gliding film the incontestable truth that Britain, the mighty and invincible, is awake again, and all will go well with the people."

"THE SUNDAY SUN."

"Britain Prepared" are wonderful pictures. . . . There was a lesson in every foot of the series, and every foot should act as a recruiting agent, speaking with the voice of thunder of the work that has to be done and the duty of everyone to do his share.

"THE SUNDAY TIMES."

"There must be something radically wrong with the make-up of any person who can see 'Britain Prepared' at the Town Hall without a thrill running up and down the spine, and without warm tears of pride starting all unbidden to the eyes. One is made to feel that it is indeed a proud thing to-day to be British."

EVERY AUSTRALIAN SHOULD SEE THESE STIRRING PICTURES, FOR

NO MORE INSPIRING LESSON

on the Majesty of British Power, no more stimulating sight for the eyes of patriots, could be found than in a visit to these films.

THREE NOVELS.

Some celebrated novelists lately had a voting competition as to which were the three best novels in the language. The result, from a woman's point of view, is distinctly disappointing. Vanity Fair, Tom Jones, David Copperfield, in the order named, took the most votes. None of them a "woman's book" either, from the standpoint of the writer or the reader. But most of us with any literary judgment would endorse, at any rate, number one. We know that Vanity Fair reaches high-water mark, though in our heart of hearts we love David best. Tom Jones, warned off probably by R. L. Stevenson's summing up, we know very little about. "It is a man's book," we say, and let it go at that. David Copperfield, though he only runs into third place, contains, however, the greatest character in English humorous fiction; indeed, one of the greatest in any fiction, "that giant grotesque, Wilkins Micawber," as G. K. Chesterton calls him, pairing him off with Sairey Gamp. Nothing in any other books can come into the same class as either of them.

When people discuss Vanity Fair and talk about the wickedness of Becky and the "cruel cynicism" of Thackeray—which cynicism really is but kind-heartedness, and a feeling for sentiment just a little disguised, they usually forget the Pinkertons and the twist which the "Semiramis of Hammersmith" gave to Becky's growing mind. How every girl on reading the book, gives a start of sympathy when Becky hurls back the bouquet at poor Miss Jemima. "How cattish of Becky," murmurs the right-thinking; but there it is—Becky was a fearful cat. It was her innate cattishness that destroyed her character. Otherwise she would not have despised poor old Rawdon. Becky's husband, though we are not supposed to find him admirable, is always loved by the girl reader of Vanity Fair, who, to the same degree of intensity, loathes his brother Pitt. If Becky had only loved Rawdon and been motherly to her little boy, she would have been an adorable person. As it is—well, she is just Becky, and we must take her as we find her. But Thackeray excelled in drawing cats. He knew the innate cattishness of some women in a most uncanny way. The queen of all cats now, who is she but my Lady Castlewood? Does it not make one surge with rage when reading Esmond to unravel all her absolute lack of breadth, depth, height, and every other dimension, in her want of appreciation of her glorious daughter Beatrix. It was all her mother's fault that Beatrix turned out so badly. Why, most mothers, with a daughter like that in the house, would have just worshipped the ground the splendid creature walked on. But not the sainted Rachel. She realised that Beatrix was just a little over the average, and so she was jealous of her. Pooh: a cat, and nothing else.

What made the voting novelists all remember Vanity Fair so well was that the war has brought it up again. We talk of the characters of the book, and discuss them as if they were living people; but do we remember the writing? To get a hint of how to describe an event by not saying anything about it, turn up to the account of Waterloo. Of course, this is world-famed, and is one of the reasons why the book is the greatest novel in the language, and one can imagine that living writers look up the passages critically in the hope that they may glean some hints of how to "write-up" this war. There are only a few references to Waterloo, and the suspense, agitation, and horror of the coming fight are all shown, while the reader is kept in Brussels fidgetting with poor Jos over his post horses. Then there is the celebrated ending of the first part, which comes just as abruptly as a shot from a rifle; and then, of course, the final words, so tender, and yet so sad. "The play is played out."

All three novels belong to an age that is past. That is one reason why the great authors who lived in the century before last and in the early days of last century come to us now with such a freshness. When we take up a book which is an old familiar friend how it soothes and rests our wearied hearts and our strained nerves. Into the stories—mostly short stories—in the magazines the shadow of the war is creeping. It is altering literature to a certain extent already. Will the age to come produce a really great novelist? He will need to be a giant indeed to surpass those who have gone before.

MELBOURNE NOTES.

Lady Helen Ferguson, Lady Stanley, and Dr. Edith Barrett addressed a large meeting at Bruthen (Gippsland) last week on Red Cross work. Afterwards they were entertained by the local branch at a supper party.

* * * * *

Fine weather on the Lady Mayoress's Button Day undoubtedly helped to make it the success it was. Flags were flown from public buildings, and collectors were permitted to travel free on tramway cars. At the winter gardens the Premier spoke during the luncheon hour, and the Royal Park Camp Band marched from the Town Hall to the Stock Exchange, where a concert was given by M. Jacques Bol, the eminent Belgian tenor; Miss Olive Kingston, and others. At the Block Arcade the People's Liberal party had a rose kiosk at the Collins-street entrance. Over 600 collectors were selling the special button of the day in the city streets, and nearly 1400 among the suburbs. There were 150,000 buttons to be disposed of at 1s each, and it is expected that when accounts are adjusted the sum total will exceed all previous efforts, for besides the buttons a variety of merchandise was sold at a Continental market outside the Town Hall, and at various kiosks throughout the city.

* * * * *

The Rev. Dr. Rentoul, at the last meeting of the National Council of Women, referred to the social evil and the drink evil, menacing especially the very young soldier. There should be, he considered, authorised woman police and woman inspectors, just now in Melbourne for the sake both of young soldiers and thoughtless girls.

The women members of the Melbourne Shakespeare Society held a meeting recently to discuss arrangements for Anzac Day, which will be celebrated on April 28, the Friday following Easter Tuesday—the actual anniversary of the landing of troops on Gallipoli. The Shakespeare Society's kiosk will probably be a model of Ann Hathaway's Cottage, the sellers wearing Shakespearian dress.

Nine churches in the Williamstown district are co-operating in holding prayer meetings each Thursday on behalf of soldiers and sailors. These meetings are for the mothers, wives, and sisters of men who are fighting. Ministers of the various churches warmly commend this movement, and appeal for increased support.

Madame Crivelli and her co-workers for the French Red Cross enlisted the aid of the company of Shakespearean professionals (now appearing under the leadership of Mr. Allan Wilkie and Miss Frediswyde Hunter Watts at the Princess Theatre) at a fete given at Government House recently. In a mimic forest facing the main entrance to Government House "As You Like It" was played before a large audience, including their Excellencies Sir Ronald Munro Ferguson, Lady Helen Munro Ferguson, and Sir John and Lady Madden. The illusion was well maintained—Australian gum trees and shrubberies taking the place of the antique oaks of the Forest of Arden. Within the building a good business was done by stall-holders, £140 being realised. Dr. Helen Sexton is in charge of the Australian ward of the French Red Cross Hospital in Paris, to which the proceeds of the fete will be sent.

VERONICA.

THREE "RETURNED WOUNDED."

They stood in the doorway of the depot devoted to a certain battalion's comforts fund, and stared in. There were three of them; two were mere boys, and of these one had lost a leg, and Number Two his right arm. The third, a cheerful person with his cap at the back of a crop of curly hair, exhibited with some pride a great scar across his head. He was the most talkative of the trio, and informed us that "that chap there—him with one leg—wants to look out one of his mates."

We invited them in, and asked them questions; they were willing to talk. Yes, the tall, thin boy with the crutches told us, he'd been wounded some time ago—last August—soon after he got out there, and been in hospital pretty nearly ever since. He'd only been back a few weeks, and he wanted to write and tell his mate he was home again, but couldn't remember his number.

We found that for him easily enough, and then he asked wistfully, "I s'pose you don't know if he's been wounded since? Could you find that out?"

We produced the casualty list of the battalion, and went through it, the search being followed with interest by Curly Head as well, while his friend commented in matter of fact tones as the pages were slowly turned: "Morgan; I knew him. He's dead. . . . And Paddy Myles; he's killed. . . . Major Dash? He's killed, ain't he? Thought so." And so on. But his mate's name was not there.

"I think he must be all right," we said, joyfully. "Of course, the list isn't complete; but, still—"

"I expec' 'e's died o' wounds," said Curly Head, cheerfully. It was apparently his pleasure to look upon the darkest possible side in the brightest possible way. His friends kept each a half-apprehensive eye on him, evidently not quite sure how some of his comments would be received; but, finding that he was accepted without question, they grinned happily at his sallies, in spite of the hospital pallor that still lingered on their cheeks and the indefinable shadow in their young eyes.

Number Two, when questioned about his arm (by which we meant that portion of it which was left to him), admitted that it was rather cold, and would be better warm. "If y' had half an old sock y' could give me to put on it."

We found half a sock that had been unravelled to be re-knitted, and fixed it on for him, he watching us warily to see if we were going to faint at the sight of the poor stump. We did not faint, and took our visitors for a little tour of the depot, that they might see how and where their shirts were made and the wool for their socks spun. They were particularly interested in the spinning wheels, which turned so busily nearly all day, and produce such thick, soft, wool; but Curly Head became restless, and turned towards the sunlight and the street again.

"Come on Wingy and Peggy," he remarked, with his most beaming smile. "That's what I call 'em—Wingy and Peggy."

Grinning broadly, thanking us profusely, "Wingy" and "Peggy" took their leave, and we, who had with difficulty throughout the interview kept the tears from flooding our eyes, now felt no rising of tears, but only the surging up of a deep and bitter contempt for those men who are still content to stay in the safety and comfort of their own homes and let such boys as these go out to fight and suffer for them, either to come back no more, or to pay the cost of their cheerful sacrifice for the rest of their long and crippled lives.

"ASTERISK."

ROSEMARY DYE.

In undertaking the carding, spinning, and dying of our own wool, we busy women of to-day are going back to the methods of our grandmothers, and it seems to me that when faced with a difficulty in procuring any matter we require for this work, we cannot do better than have recourse to the simple materials that they had at their command. I do not know that rosemary has even been used for dyeing before, because as far as I know the idea is my own, but I find it very effective.

Mine is an old English wheel, small, portable, and so sensitively constructed that it can produce wool as fine as fine cotton thread and as soft as fleece.

Permanganate of potash has been proved too caustic in its operation to make a satisfactory dye unless some corrective is added to the solution; and the gum-leaf dye, while no doubt the cheapest for bush spinners, to whom fuel is not a consideration, is too slow and troublesome for many householders, who regard the outlay on gas for ten hours as a serious bar to its adoption.

Now it happened that last winter I sent into the western districts for large quantities of the rosemary that grows so freely there in the old gardens, and made up a quantity of it in packets for sale as a hair wash. The undertaking proved quite successful, and added not a little to my Australia Day collection; but so freely did the rosemary come in that I had a large surplus left on my hands. The virtue, however, remains in the stems and leaves of the dried herb for many months, and the idea of using it as a dye came to me as happy inspiration.

Take about a pint of finely chopped rosemary and bring it to a boil in a quart of water. Simmer this for twenty or thirty minutes, till a deep tea-stain is produced. This can be further darkened by allowing the rosemary to steep for some time in the cooling liquid. When it is desired to use for dyeing, strain, add a small quantity of table vinegar, and bring to a boil.

Let the homespun be well washed in warm soapy water, and rinsed, ties of string being fastened through the skein at intervals, to prevent the strands from tangling. Put this wet wool into the rosemary at boiling point, and allow it to remain gently boiling for about half an hour.

Subsequently dip the wool into hot or boiling water, and do not wring out, but allow to dry on a flat surface, after being gently pressed in a towel or old cloth.

I find this process of dyeing very easy and pleasant, as the sweet-smelling herb is so cleanly to handle, while the shade obtained is a soft, warm honey-colour. Rosemary being an ideal hair-wash, it stands to reason that the rosemary oil will prove rather beneficial to the wool fibre than otherwise, and I find that it imparts a soft, fluffy finish to the texture of my homespun.

Most districts in our wool belt can furnish abundant quantities of rosemary; it weighs so light that even without the concessions allowed to patriotic materials, the freight is but a trifle: and it can be stored dry in bags or boxes for an indefinite period.

ROSEMARY.

SOLDIERS' ENTERTAINMENTS.

A meeting of the executive committee was held on Monday afternoon at the committee rooms, 8 Spring-street. Judge Backhouse presided. Others present were Capt. Chaplain Richmond, and Mrs. Roth, Mrs. Geo. Earp, Mr. Gillanders, Mr. Sydney Peck, and Miss Amy Bice. The report read by Mr. Derkenne showed that considerable progress had been made.

Concerts and entertainments had been given at Liverpool, Casula, Holdsworthy, The Warren, Garrison Hospital, Victoria Barracks, and Milson Island. The credit-balance showed £148 8s 10d. The demand for concerts is increasing, and the entertainments are very much appreciated by the soldiers.

On behalf of the soldiers at Milson Island, who were without a gramophone, Miss Amy Bice, at a concert at Liverpool Camp, made an appeal to the soldiers present to subscribe to that object, with the result that £5 8s was collected. A gramophone and records have been sent to Milson Island.

A special feature of the exhibition of Red Cross work at Crow's Nest on April 5 at the Protestant Hall will be the knitting competition. Competitors are to come supplied with No. 12 needles, 4-ply wool, and not less than 60 stitches cast on. Entries close on April 3.

Prior to the fete which is to take place at Ascham, April 27, in aid of the 20th Battalion and Flying Corps comforts fund, a gift afternoon will be held at the depot, 63 Pitt-street, on March 31, at 3 o'clock, to obtain articles for the Battalion stall under the direction of Mrs. Lamrock, Mrs. Willis, Mrs. Pring, and Mrs. Edols.

THE SKIRT OF THE FUTURE.

A rather startling picture of Phyllis Dare in one of the illustrated papers shows her with a farthingale, a real hooped skirt after Velasquez, and nobody could think for one moment that it is becoming. The effect is that of a lamp shade. The skirt is short, too, and this is a great error of taste, because the huge circumference of the hoop requires a long skirt to carry it off. The portrait of the little Spanish princess, afterwards Queen of France, who was immortalised by the great painter is fairly familiar. So very grown-up does little Maria look in her skirt a la mode of that time, that it gives the beholder a shock to read her age, 12 years. It is more than unlikely that we shall ever see the farthingale as an article of everyday attire. Another fashion hint from London gives the panier of the later eighteenth century, a charming fashion recalling Goldsmith's comedies and Dolly Varden, and all kinds of delightful things and people. The hip draperies require much skill. They have evidently been introduced to meet the just complaint of the tall woman, who looks a trifle on the absurd side in the fashionable short skirts. For a wonder, the tall, willowy person has been left out of court by this year's authorities. Short women look well in short skirts, and also they seem to be years younger. But a tall girl in like attire is a veritable maypole. We are told that narrow skirts are coming back for the benefit of those who find the short and wide cut a tiresome fashion.

THE NEW LILY-SHAPED COLLAR.

Shawls promise to give the very latest touch of elegance. The Carmen shawl, with long fringe, forms the foundation idea of the new draperies. Lace shawls also are in demand. They are draped from the shoulders, always a trying procedure, as the average court-train draped from the shoulders of the conventionally clad bride, bears witness. Lace draperies and flounces mingle with the fur on some of the higher-priced costumes. For dancing skirts, by the way, nothing long is seen, and there are some dancers who look with favour on high-laced brocade boots instead of dancing shoes.

"COUNTRY SHIRKERS."

In answer to the strictures of "Alpha," herself hon. secretary of a Red Cross country branch, in the "Page for Women" of last Wednesday, on those women unready to respond to the claims which our soldiers possess on the industry of our womenkind, several correspondents have taken up the cudgels for the country women. Another hon. secretary of a country Red Cross branch writes:—

It is not in the country towns that we must look for our women shirkers, but in the city boarding-houses, where numbers of single or "unoccupied" women congregate. Their chief diversion at the beginning of this month was attending the mannikin parades at one of the big city shops. When asked if they knitted socks or did any other patriotic work, these women replied that "they had no time."

Now, the woman in the country almost invariably has her house to attend to. After seeing to the meals and the children, she devotes much time to various branches of patriotic work, and has her evenings free for her husband and her own sewing.

In many country towns the weekly sewing circle has been dispensed with, and instead each lady forms a small circle of womenfolk near her—no matter what their status or creed—and so we find tiny sewing or knitting circles dotted about the far-spreading district.

The heads of many city circles are openly deploring the falling off of their first workers, so Alpha is wrong in thinking this a weakness of the country woman only. Alpha also deplores the fact that the women in the country take an afternoon off for tennis, golf, afternoon tea, or a call. If Alpha were well up in the lives of the average country town she would know that the knitting bag goes to all these functions with the country woman. An afternoon a week spent on the courts or on the links does no harm to the player's output of work for the Red Cross. As I am myself a secretary of a country branch of the Red Cross, and also captain of the local lady golfers, I can state that some of our best workers, most industrious sewers are the women who are on the links twice a week. They work all the better for the exercise in the open air. But Red Cross activities are not the only ones in even a small country town. Most have their Belgian Clothing Depot, which, with us, is worked by the ladies of one church. The comforts fund does its share, and included another lot of workers. The Girls' Club, which is noted for its patriotic work, gathers in quite a different lot again. The only patriotic work which includes the same workers as the Red Cross is the Belgian Collectors' Committee, which was specially appointed from the Red Cross workers.

I hope I have shown that our countrywomen are not shirkers, even if we do keep one afternoon a week for golf. We have given our brothers and our sons just as readily as the city women. Each mail takes away parcels of socks and other comforts for our own boys, yet this does not hinder or lessen our work for the various patriotic funds of societies.

Let us hope that "Alpha" will be the "first and the last" to cast aspersions on the grand and self-sacrificing work done by our country mothers and daughters throughout Australia.

A RED CROSS SECRETARY.

THE WOMEN'S PEACE ARMY.

The promoters of the women's peace army movement in Australia—Misses Adela Pankhurst, Cecilia Johns, and Vida Goldstein—have forwarded their manifesto against war. This branch forms part of the International Movement for Peace, which met at the Hague, under the name of the Women's International Committee for Permanent Peace. This movement has its news sheet, the "International," and the latest number to hand shows that messages have come from women in 16 countries, protesting against war. The belief of the peace movement is that munition-makers force wars on Governments for the sake of profits. It advocates, among other identities, universal disarmament. There are agencies of the Peace Army in Sydney and Brisbane. The headquarters are in Melbourne.

The Army Service Comforts Depot, 18 Barrack-street, will hold their usual monthly meeting at the depot on Monday, April 3, at 2.30 p.m. All interested in any committee of the A.S.C. are cordially invited to be present. The raffle for the water-colour will that day be drawn, and the committee request that all ticket-butts be returned before the day of the meeting.

Thirtieth Sock Competition.—Prizes given by Mrs. Sargent, £1 1s and 10s 6d. Entries close April 12; to be sent to M. Roberts, Castle Hill.

FROM NEAR AND FAR.

The hon. secretary in charge of the clothing depot, 5 Hamilton-street (between Bond and Bridge streets), notifies all interested in the work for the war victims in Poland that the next shipment of garments will be forwarded via Genoa to the Polish Committee, Vevey, Switzerland, about April 10. Workers will be welcome to make up the remaining cut-out garments.

The evening students' freshers' welcome was held on Thursday evening at the University Union Hall. About 300 were present, a fair percentage of whom were women, being teachers, office girls, typists, and other workers. Professor Holme was chairman. Several of those on the platform were connected with the Christian Union. The speeches all tended to the effect that a university evening course in no way hinders a man or woman from giving efficient attention to his day duties. Education broadens the aspect on life, and thus give the educated person the opportunity of being more useful in the world. The idea that a degree is of market value (as in securing a position), but of no real practical use, is quite erroneous; the influence of an educated man on his fellow creatures must be for good.

The Randwick Presbyterians recently celebrated their Sunday School anniversary. The Rev. Mr. Read, who was at one time stationed at Brussels, delivered an address. At the prize-giving in the school hall, Mr. A. W. Meeks presided. Major D. A. Storey, camp commandant at the Showground, an old boy of the Sunday School, addressed the children. Mr. Meeks' son, another Anzac hero, and an old boy of the Sunday School, also spoke. Over 100 young men, who were members of this church, have enlisted. One of the boys won the D.C.M. at Anzac. This record is an eloquent tribute to the influence of the Rev. C. H. and Mrs. Talbot.

The women clerical workers of Sydney have organised into a body known as "The Clerical Women's Patriotic Club." The club meets once a month. Various circles are being formed. One circle comprises over 100 clerical workers, who are prepared to give their services in the evenings and week-ends to do any kind of clerical work, thus cutting into their already limited spare time. Another circle directs its energy towards helping lonely and friendless soldiers. Another circle has enthusiastically taken up the scheme for assisting to place returned wounded soldiers in homes, not only at French's Forest, but throughout the suburbs. A general meeting of the Clerical Women's Club was held at Stanway House last evening. The committee boasts of very capable leaders, the officers of the circle being:—President, Miss Daphne Armstrong, Mitchell Library, Macquarie-street; vice-presidents, Miss Carter, c.o. Messrs. Burns, Philp, and Co., Bridge-street, Miss Harnett, c.o. Messrs. Parish and Stephen, Hunter House, Hunter-street; joint secretaries, Miss Huxley, 114 Pitt-street, City 4548), Miss Hale, Royal-chambers, 3 Castlereagh-street (City 4484); treasurer, Miss Frank, Government Printing Office, 72A Phillip-street; committee, Miss Armstrong, c.o. Chas. M. Terry, 5 Hamilton-street (City 9047); Miss Battye, Messrs. Angus and Coote, Kent-street; Miss Berry, c.o. Dr. Gordon Craig, Macquarie-street; Miss Griffin, 29 O'Connell-street; Miss Haywood, the Mines Department, Bridge-street; Miss Key, c.o International Harvester Company, 37 Broadway, Glebe; Hon. organising secretary, Mr. George Fitzpatrick.

The many attractions included dancing, cards, and a good musical programme arranged by the Misses Campbell and Leiper, the latter acting as accompaniste, was contributed to by the Misses D. Huxtable, N. M'Millen, E. Bruce, M. Gallaghar, and Misses Scheidel; and orchestra, Messrs. H. Spratt and D'Avoren. An interesting sale at Christie's was that of the late Mr. Lewis Waller's valuables. Beautiful trinkets and jewelled pins given him by King Edward and King George were sold, and the prices fetched were very moderate. His celebrated "Monsieur Beaucaire" suit in green velvet, with a white satin waistcoat, richly embroidered with gold thread, a crepe-de-Chine skirt, and a blue riband with a good paste star went for £4. This suit was originally made for the Earl of Shrewsbury, who wore it at the diamond jubilee ball at Devonshire House.

Women dog fanciers in England are making a good thing out of breeding greyhounds. At the recent dog show at Hackney, London, the exhibit which aroused the greatest interest was a beautiful greyhound, Finely Wrought, belonging to Miss White. PENELOPE'S WEEKLY NOTES.

FISH.

The fish shops, including those owned by the State, are at present displaying most attractive windows.

With meat so dear, fish has now, to a large extent, receded from its position amongst life's luxuries, but in many homes it is regarded in Lent, no matter how expensive it may be, as a necessity rather than a luxury. Consequently one of our most important foodstuffs in the eyes of numerous housewives today is fish. Fortunately it is of almost limitless variety.

In considering prices the palm for cheapness must go without question to the State shops. There we may buy oysters in the shell, and excellent ones, too, for as little as 6d a dozen. Many people—particularly women—object to buying oysters in the shell, on account of the trouble involved in opening them. Not everyone has at hand an opener, and the commonest method of using a penknife leads to frequent accident. An easy way to open them is to wash the shells, and then place them in a warm oven for two or three minutes. The shell can then be easily removed, and the oyster will be found to be just delicately warmed, and ready to be served, with lemon. Oysters are very good served with bacon, macaroni, vermicelli, or potatoes. They may also, with advantage, be curried, turned into white sauce, broiled, stewed, and fried.

Oysters may be kept alive for several days, and in good condition, too, if treated as follows:—Wash and scrub the shells, and lay them in a deep pan with the flat shells uppermost. Sprinkle them with oatmeal, and cover them with plenty of cold salt water, resprinkle with oatmeal, and change the water every day. Put the pan in a cool place, and it will be found that so kept, oysters will even fatten.

To return to our State fish shop. Fish sausages, rivals, in appearance, at least, of their pork and veal cousins, are there to be purchased for 6d a pound. Young mullet, excellent for frying purposes, are only 4d a pound; garfish 8d, and fine crayfish 11d each.

Crayfish, by the way, are very good in a curry, scalloped, or fried. The following is a good recipe for frying them. Pick out all the white meat, and cut it into neat dice. Make a good batter, seasoning it with pepper, salt, and anchovy sauce. Then drop into the batter two or three of the pieces of fish, lift them out, in a tablespoonful of the batter, and fry in plenty of hot fat. John Dory fried in oil is most delicious. Leatherjackets are 4d, gurnard 3d, nannegai (a well-flavoured fish) 5d, and flathead 3d a lb.

At the other fish shops, one needs a fatter purse. There oysters run from 1s to 1/6 a dozen, and crayfish from 1/3 to 1/6 each. Garfish are 1/ a dozen, whiting 1/4 a lb, butterfish 1/ a lb, and mullet 5d, 6d, and 8d each. Bream are very good at present, but dear, costing up to 1/ a lb, according to the shop at which they are purchased. Prawns abound at 6d and 9d a pint. Lobsters are dear, one of any size at all costing 2/ and 2/6.

Eggs are now too dear to be much used in pudding and cake making. When they cost, as they do to-day, 2/6 a dozen, one turns from all recipes advocating a liberal use of eggs. Butter is still 1/4 a lb, the best cheese 1/0½, and bacon rashers 1/6 a lb.

Apples have absolutely rained upon us of late. Not only have our own orchards sent us plentiful supplies, but New Zealand, America, and Hobart have contributed many thousands of cases. It is indeed a case of it never rains but it pours. Only a little while ago we were lamenting the dearth of apples in our markets, and now the very street barrows are overflowing with them. Many of these barrows are selling large, rosy fruit, fit, the passers-by often consider, to take a prize at a country show, for 1/ a dozen. A few weeks back we should have been charged 3d each for such apples, which is our present day price for oranges. Plums are still plentiful at 3d a pint, and grapes at 4d and up to 9d a pound. Pears are, one may safely say, as good as ever, and their price keeps pace with apples, running from 6d to 2s a dozen. A new shipment of bananas has quite lately arrived, the fruit being good, and 1s to 1s 4d a dozen. Rockmelons are very plentiful, but not cheap, even a small one costing 9d and 1s. Strawberries are rarely to be seen, and when met with are as much as 2s 6d a punnet. Peaches are 1s and 2s a dozen; cape gooseberries 6d a basket; ripe figs 1s a dozen; mulberries 1s a basket; and passionfruit slightly dearer—8d a dozen.

The greengrocers are plentifully supplied with potatoes, and growers must feel sad at the descent in price of this most popular of our vegetables. They are now only 2d a lb, but housewives are anxious to see them fall yet another ½d a lb. Rhubarb, improving in quality, is 3d a bunch. Tomatoes are still cheap, being 6d and up to 1s 6d a dozen. French beans yet linger with us at a price favourable to the narrow income—9d will buy a peck of them. Peas may now be well recommended, their price runs from 2s to 2s 6d a peck. Marrows are abundant at 3d, 4d, and 6d each; likewise cabbages. Spinach, beetroot, and lettuce are 2d a bunch; and cobs of sweet corn may be bought at the rate of 2s a dozen. Mushrooms are still in season, and 1s a basket; and that strange-looking vegetable, the egg plant, has well arrived, small plants costing 4d and large ones 6d each.

HOME AFFAIRS.

THE NEW HAIRDRESSING.

When thoughtless Letty in the play informs her long-suffering and hungry husband that she used the last egg that morning for a shampoo, she gave away a household hint of great worth. Even with eggs at 2½d each, it does not represent a vast expense for a hair wash, and authorities are all agreed that the egg shampoo is the "best ever." This is the way it is made. The egg is beaten up to a froth, and mixed with hot water. The yolk only is used. The mixture should be well rubbed into the scalp until a lather is formed, then several rinsings in warm water. Boiled water is softer, therefore, better for the hair, for hard, water is good for neither hair nor face. For hair that has become harsh, a few drops of oil rubbed into the roots with the tips of the fingers will work wonders. But best of all is the constant and regular brushing night and morning, which will remove dandruff even better, perhaps, than a lotion or pomade.

This is an excellent pomade for dandruff, should one be required. It is a prescription. Precipitated sulphur, 1½dr.; cocoa butter, 2½dr.; oxide of zinc, 1½dr.; castor oil, 2drs.; lanoline, 2½drs.; otto of roses, 2 drops. It should be well rubbed in at night, and a fine tooth-comb used in the morning to remove the loosened scurf. Castor oil gives a glossy appearance, and when there is nothing else available, that evil-tasting and smelling remedy will be found a faithful friend. To give a gloss "that wont come off," brushing is the best of all specifics. A soft silk handkerchief used as a polisher is rubbed along the hair from root to end. The piece in each band and the strands of hair taken separately and smoothed with the silk, will help to get the effect desired. Without glossy sleeness, the new hairdressing looks dowdy and ineffective. The coiffure that is brushed away from the face and up to a kind of cone is now seen in a modified form. Although smart and neat, it is too hard for the majority of women.

We never can get away for any long time from the fascination of the curl and the fringe, and both of these coquetries appear on well-dressed heads. The new fringe is worn only in the centre of the forehead, and replaces the "dip," which most girls affect when they wear a bandeau. This circlet is anything but new; in fact, it dates from classic times, and its long vogue arises from its effective way of setting off a small and well-shaped head. The fillet binds men's heads as well as women's, as seen in statues and in old pictures, and the clustering curls of Mercury looks beautiful when bound in this way. The up-to-date fillet crosses the forehead, and it is becoming to most girls, except to those who have an "out-size" in heads. Since the close style of coiffure came in, we get a chance to see and admire the beauty that lies in a well-formed head. The combs and big pins, too, set off the shape of the head to great advantage. Real old Spanish combs are greatly in demand. For evening wear they are placed high up on the hair, and in the day-time they are stuck in on one side, and help much to keep the hat in its right place. With the comb, young girls wear the prevailing smooth coiffure, but matrons adopt a softer mode—the Geisha roll suits the matron almost better than the maid, and especially if the hair is slightly grey or even snowy white, loosely waved in front.

To women verging on grandmotherly years, high on the head styles of coiffure come as a great acceptance. The parting, always a difficult matter to adjust, becomes less and less easy of attainment as years roll on. When "spreading is the parting straight," it should be more and more impressed upon the matron that the hard line should be covered up, and the hair brought as low on the forehead as may be. When one is resolved on dressing the hair in "Madonna bands," or in any way that calls for a straight parting, the precise stop at which the parting should be made must be found to a nicety. There is always just one particular place where it will look right. Jewelled combs and hair pins may be worn with dignity by the middle-aged woman in the evening, but any thing trivial or gimcrack would be absurdly out of place. A very high and ornately carved tortoise-shell comb would, perhaps, be too suggestive of youth to be suitable, but matrons are so well catered for nowadays that a suitable pin or comb can easily be found—if the necessary money be also available.

We are threatened with all sorts of queer revivals, among others of those three little stiff sausage curls on each side of the face, which the days of Charles II. knew. They are not at all becoming to the modern face, to which experts say they give a "common" aspect. Stiff sausage curls are never pretty. The only kind of curl that wins admiration is that known as the "wilful" or "tendril" variety, which resolves itself into untidiness outside fiction. Artificial curls that are pinned in or gummed on keep tidy; the other sort does not. The new little fringe just in the centre of the forehead boasts a little kink of its own, but not a curl.

The "buster Brown" bow replacing the hat on the head of a smal child is the final flourish to the basin crop, which accompanies it. This straight cut makes the hair grow thickly and vigorously, but the fashion is in great danger of being done to death. A side parting is universal with girls of all ages until the school girl merges into the "young lady," who "puts up her hair." For the girl of sweet sixteen and thereabouts there is also but one fashion, the long plait tied with wide ribbon bows, the side parting, and perhaps the hair drawn low on the forehead under a ribbon band. The old style of leaving the hair loose was an agreeably pretty fashion, but one seems to see less and less of it every day.

SEASONABLE RECIPES.

Some Uses for Potatoes.—Cold boiled potatoes can be made into tasty cakes by pressing them through a sieve, then season with salt and pepper, add the yolk of an egg, a little milk, and some chopped parsley. Form them into little round cakes, brush over with the beaten white of egg, and brown them in the oven. A little onion juice is sometimes added, or some grated cheese makes a change. These little cakes should be served hot for a luncheon or supper dish.

Mince Cakes.—Cold beef minced, breadcrumbs, two or three cooked potatoes, parsley, salt, and pepper are needed. Add the meat and breadcrumbs to the mashed potato, bind with half an egg beaten slightly. Form into round cakes, brush with egg, and roll in breadcrumbs, garnish with parsley when fried a rich brown.

Potatoes absorb much salt. For this reason a liberal quantity should be added to the water when boiling potatoes. A few slices of raw potato added to soup that is too salt will correct the fault if left to boil for a few minutes.

Half a raw potato dipped in bathbrick will remove the stains on discoloured knives if rubbed well on before using the knife board.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Wedding Gloves.—S.M.K.: For wedding wear white gloves are correct, no matter what costume is worn. It is difficult to answer the question about the bridegroom's tie, etc., as you do not state what kind of suit he is to wear. A white tie is always correct in a kingsway or sailor knot. A grey sac suit would look nice for a bridegroom, whose bride is wearing a brown travelling costume.

Persimmon Jam.—B.M.T: Peel and stone the fruit, unless very juicy, put enough water to cover the bottom of the pan. Measure the fruit and boil 1½ hours for every 6lb. Boil with sugar added in equal measure for one hour. For jelly the process is very similar, but there is no need to peel the fruit. The time is the same; before adding the sugar the pulp must be strained. The jam is preferred to the jelly.

"Pen-painting".—Mrs. J. H: All necessary instructions were given in the article referred to. Any fancy needlework shop will supply you with materials and further directions if wished.

Depot address for Mrs. H. C.—The Comforts Fund for the 6th Light Horse: Miss Joyce Allen and Holdship, 2 Undercliffe Flats, Edgecliffe. Decidedly it would be safer to send the parcel through the depot. Your question about fruit refers to an advertisement.

Correspondents are reminded that anonymous queries remain unanswered. Several have been passed over this week on that account.

AN ANONYMOUS LETTER.

Anonymous letters in war time may be a little "different" from the contemptible productions which such affairs usually turn out to be. A woman in the suburbs recently received one of these precious missives, and as it contains a statement which shows that a false impression is about concerning women's work and the census taken by the National Council of Women, this anonymous epistle is not without interest. The writer had evidently been subjected to inconvenient inquiries for not enlisting, for he says, "You were asking me all sorts of things about why I did not go to the war, a young man, and unmarried. Why, you are not such an old woman yourself. Why don't you go to the war, by filling up the census and doing war work?" The impression has to a certain extent got abroad, as shown by the above instance, that women are liable to be called up to do some kind of emergency war work. It would seem hardly necessary to say that, of course, women are not doing anything of the kind, except that girl clerks are filling the places of men gone to the front, and a great boom is reported in the trades that machine soldiers' clothing and requirements. These are such confusing times that it is not to be wondered at if uninformed members of the public become a little mixed in their ideas of what women can do and cannot do.

A casual inquiry elicits the fact that women's work is just about normal, rather brisker than normal perhaps. Involuntary work for our army one finds that the general has given way to the particular. There is decidedly less knitting done than when the first eager rush was on, but no body has ever yet made an official statement that any of the armies of the Allies on any of the fronts are badly supplied. With regard to working for and writing to soldiers, Colonel Burnage made a most touching statement at his welcome at the Wentworth Hotel on Saturday night. He described as an actual eyewitness the excitement that greeted the arrival of the mailbags at the front, and then the look of sorrow and dejection which came over the face of the boy who did not get a letter or card. He would "light up" and stroll away, pretending not to mind; but the colonel said his own sympathies went out to such unremembered men.

These remarks appear to have drifted away from the subject of the title above, and yet there is a thread of connection. The "tuquoque" argument of the man who will not enlist falls very flat indeed on a woman's ears, and at the same time it should be widely understood that "war work" as such, for women does not exist here. The only war work which we can do is voluntary, and of a personal character, and the more of that we do the better.

WRITTEN HOMEWORK.

Although the pronouncement of the last teachers' conference was against written homework, yet even the fiat of the department (which does not always endorse the resolutions of the teachers) would fail to do away with the long study in the evening hours which children must devote to homework.

It has been suggested that such things as manual work, gardening, nature study, etc., might take the place of written homework, but those who think thus have lost sight of the fact that the future of a great number of the pupils of to-day depends more or less on their success at examination. The University, the Public Service, the banks, and other commercial establishments—are not the intermediate and leaving certificates the "open sesame" to these? And which of our children who devote their evenings, even while at the primary school, to the subjects mentioned (not one of which has any place in the papers set at the qualifying certificate or any other examination) would obtain any such certificate? Even if no work be given by the teacher, the ambitious student must grind away "on his own" in season and out of season if he wishes to get through the text books, let alone "learn and inwardly digest" them. While the syllabus remains as it is, and the High School course continues as at present, just so long must the earnest and conscientious student do written work at night, as well as by day.

I do not know that in moderation written homework is an altogether mixed evil; there are some good points about it. If parents would only properly supervise their children, and insist from the beginning on a fair amount of homework being done, the problem of the exodus into the street at night of young Australia, and its immoderate devotion to picture shows, would be solved. The proper performance of some such task is a weapon of restraint which parents should not be slow to use. It is noteworthy to observe that almost all those who have any success at public examinations come from quiet, studious homes, where the evening is spent by most of the members in literary pursuits. There is still another aspect of the question; it is by means of homework that the parents are best able to form an opinion as to the progress or otherwise of their children, and under ordinary circumstances is the best test which can be offered both of pupil and teacher.

HOPE.

THANKS FROM BELGIUM.

Mrs. E. Morgan, of Annandale, writes:—I am enclosing a copy of a letter received this week from Belgium; it will show many workers in the cause that the goods have been received, and may bring back many workers who gave up, thinking they were probably giving to the enemy. The clothes mentioned are a lot of little things, such as children's petticoats, shirts, and drawers, all made out of pieces left-over from pyjamas and shirts made for our soldiers by our local Red Cross branch, where nothing goes to waste. Many kind friends have sent in small pieces of stuff and calico, for which we are thankful. Amongst a package of 17 petticoats I pinned in three notes to the Belgian children, and the following letter is the result:—

17-19 James-street,
Oxford-street, London.

Mrs. Morgan.

Dear Madam,—I am writing for the mother of the little girl who received the petticoats with your name attached, because she is only a Flemish-speaking peasant, who could not make herself intelligible to you. Her gratitude, however, was very easy to read in her face. I wish you could have seen it. The people of Belgium are so much touched to think they are not forgotten; that they have good friends all over the world. The weather is very cold just at present. If it was not for the fund I cannot imagine how the poor, sick sufferers in this part would get on at all. The well-to-do inhabitants of Furnes left a year ago, when they first began shelling it badly; but it is surprising how many of the poor have stuck it out. We provide food and clothes for 325 children, who come to a school improvised by the Government, just outside the town. Thanking you again, in the name of the children of Furnes, yours faithfully,
K. JAMES TAYLOR,
Ministre De L'Intervieuer, Oeuvre des Cantines Scolaires, Furnes.

A COW FOR FRENCH'S FOREST.

By Easter it is reckoned several families will be settled at French's Forest; one family consists of five children, and there are others. The children must have milk. With the object of raising enough to buy and feed a cow, Mrs. Leed, 38 Birkley-road, Manly, is seeking subscriptions. About £10 or £15 will be needed to purchase the animal. The shilling fund which Mrs. Leed has opened has already met with gratifying success, and she has no doubt of soon achieving the cow.

For the sock competition in aid of 2nd Battalion all competitors must send in socks before April 1, with motto and class attached, to Mrs. Cuthbert, Nelson-road, Lindfield, or Chess Club, Lindfield; name and address of competitor with motto to be enclosed in sealed envelope. Socks will be exhibited, and prizes (three half-guineas) distributed at Chess Club, from 3 till 6 p.m. on Saturday.

ON THE CHOICE OF A NEW HAT.

"A NOTE BY JEAN."

The necessity, and also the joy, of the moment, is, of course, a new hat.

And, this season, it so happens that the choice of the new millinery is a matter of greater pleasure than usual, on account of the amazing variety which means a successful choice for everyone.

A visit to David Jones' Millinery Showroom will speedily convince every woman that their stock—which features all fashion's newest modes—guarantees a hat which will exactly suit her type of face, her costume, and her purse.

There are large hats and small hats, crowns which are quite unobtrusive, and others which are most aspiring; trimmings of ribbons, or flowers, or feathers, or wings to choose from, and a dozen different schemes of arrangement for each.

At 8/11 there is an exceedingly becoming hat for sports wear, made of felt with tagel linings under brim, and narrow rows of tagel round crown. The trimming is a neat band and bow of corded ribbon, in colours, black and white, brown and saxe, burnt and pink, with tagel linings to match.

With 10/6 you can purchase a practical hat for sports wear, in couche velvet, with white piping on crown and round brim. Lining under brim of tagel straw. This is in medium size with adjustable brim, and just a splendid hat for the "between-seasons." In black and white only.

Another style, for 11/6, is a picot tagel hat in medium-size Breton sailor shape, and can be supplied in Nigger, Navy, or Black, trimmed with self-coloured ribbon with check edge.

A close-fitting shape in black couche velvet is marked at 14/6, trimmed with band of black ribbon, simply caught in front with steel buckle.

The "D. J." standard lines of trimmed millinery displayed are really more remarkable values than ever.

A small, closely-fitting shape in black couche velvet is marked at 15/6. The trimming consists of a small posy of flowers in centre front—the brim is slightly rolled at back.

One of the "Guinea Hats" is a medium-size droopy shape in black velvet. The crown is finished with 3 bands of skunk fur and dull blotting-paper pink rose in front.

At 25/ a picture shape is made of couche velvet in black. The crown is slightly shirred; the trimming is a wreath of tiny flowers in bright colours.

These are only just a few typical examples of the splendid values displayed at David Jones'. You will find it well worth while spending a little time in inspecting them, and will be pleased at the same time to know that at this store you are never under any obligation to purchase when inspecting the displays, so that you can feel at liberty to satisfy yourself as regards the sound values and truthfulness in all printed statements of DAVID JONES, LIMITED, opposite G.P.O., Sydney.

THE RED KITE.

BY WILLIAM A. HENRY.

[ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.]

CHAPTER XXIII.—Continued.

After that it seemed to Chetwood that the "Red Kite" was flying as that mighty mechanical bird had never flown before. Above the sides of the well speech became more difficult, as the rushing wind beat with an aggressive clamour on the mouth of the speaker.

Below, on the deck where the unconscious boy lay, it was different. Comparative calm reigned there, and Chetwood and Gardiner, crouching down by the boy, were able to continue their ministrations almost unhampered. They had succeeded in stanching the blood, but the Lamb had shown no sign of returning consciousness.

Gardiner was surveying him gravely.

"It's not only that smashed arm of his," he was saying, "it's the shock. We've got to look things in the face, Stanley. The youngster's in for a bad time."

Chetwood gazed miserably at the white face.

"I never thought it would come to this," he said. "It never seemed possible, somehow or other. I could picture you and myself hit, or the others. But not the Lamb. It seemed too—too brutal. I should have thought Providence would have—worked differently. But here we are, you see! I was a fool, a criminal fool!"

Gardiner stretched out his hand across the boy, and laid it for a moment on Chetwood's shoulder.

"If it comforts you to abuse yourself, old boy," he said, "peg away at it! But no amount of that will alter facts. You and the rest of us would do just the same again—because we'd have to. You were no more a fool than was this poor boy here."

Chetwood nodded his head in Brand's direction.

"The Lamb's no kith and kin of mine—by blood," he said. "But he's always seemed all that. I can understand now what he felt—in that Norwegian fiord—and then—there's Constance!"

"Yes," said Gardiner, "there's Constance. She'll be up against it—hard. But she's a brave girl, Stanley, I'm certain of that."

For a time there was silence between them. In the well the Lamb had begun to moan, faintly; above, the wind whistled and roared, blustering in mad rage about the figure of James Brand, a figure that remained as motionless as though carved in stone. Far below, plain and hill, valley and stream, opened and folded their varying panoramas with an extraordinary rapidity.

Certainly, the quickest journey ever made by the "Red Kite" seemed the longest to two of its crew. What James Brand was feeling, the others had no means of knowing. He remained silent as death, a figure of bowed tragedy at the helm. As the minutes and half-hours went by the boy's moans grew louder. From time to time, Chetwood and Gardiner would peer eagerly forward, longing for a sight of the grey waters of the sea. All the time the "Red Kite" tore on, and the hours of the short winter's day as steadily diminished.

At length, Chetwood gave an exclamation, and touched Gardiner's arm. Gardiner, gazing to the front, nodded. Before them was spread the dull expanse of the winter sea. Chetwood gripped the side of the well, and wrinkled his forehead in calculation.

"About two hundred miles to go," he said, "and scarcely an hour to do it in!"

"We may scrape in, even now," muttered Gardiner. "If only there was a moon—but there isn't."

"There's one thing," said Chetwood. "Now that we've got as far as this we could drop down in Bournemouth or Dorchester, if we're done on the post."

"We could," assented the other, "so long as it was a town with a hospital."

"But it wouldn't be the same thing as Tawmouth," went on Chetwood. "If we could get him there, Constance could be with him, to-night. I promised her I'd bring him back. I never thought it would be like this. And I'd hoped—good heavens! What hadn't I hoped."

He groaned. A flutter of snow was driving downwards from heavy grey clouds. The atmosphere had grown perceptibly darker. But after a minute or two the snowflakes died away. Dusk was approaching, but the horizon had become clear.

Presently, as the "Red Kite" sped on to the west, a faint orange glow appeared to the front. The clouds fell away; the sky became clear. The sun was setting, dyeing the edge of the sea as rich a tint as its winter power allowed. The sight aroused a new hope in the two watchers.

"Good old West-country!" cried Chetwood. "It's doing all it can to help us. We're going to have a dead clear evening, and the benefit of all the light that there is. If this will only last as far as the Exe, we may get there yet."

He rose from his crouching position, and went to stand by the side of James Brand. The latter nodded, as though he understood the reason of his presence. The glow had begun to fade. Minute by minute it died away until the grey of evening overcame its last flicker.

Suddenly, Chetwood gripped Brand's shoulder hard, and pointed to the right.

"That's Exmouth!" he cried. "We're almost there. Keep on as you are—a shade more to the left!"

Five minutes late, a yeoman sentry on the Tawmouth green was startled by the apparition of an extraordinary object, which silently and without the slightest warning dived downwards out of the evening dusk on to the turf. Racing to the spot, rifle in hand, he saw the dim forms of three men in the well, surrounding a slighter and prostrate figure.

In response to the man's challenge, Gardiner rose to his feet.

"Bring a lantern!" he ordered. "Smart now! And a stretcher."

Recognising Gardiner's uniform, the sentry saluted, and summoned aid. A little later, a rapidly swelling procession passed along the sea-front on its way to the hospital. Then the doors closed behind the stretcher and its bearers, and the crowd reluctantly fell back.

Chetwood sighed in an access of momentary relief as he saw surgeons take charge of the Lamb. Now, at all events, everything would be done that human ingenuity could devise. He, Gardiner, and Brand were waiting outside the room into which the boy had been taken when one of the doctors came out hurriedly. Chetwood hastened to intercept him.

"What do you make of him?" he asked eagerly.

The doctor was a keen-faced middle-aged man with a happy manner of inspiring confidence in others.

"Can't tell yet," he said briskly. "He'll keep us busy for some time, that's certain."

"There's no—no immediate danger?" pursued Chetwood.

"Good gracious, no!" exclaimed the other. "There's the arm, of course, and the shock. But so far as we can tell at present, there's no reason to anticipate any danger to life. It's unpleasant for you waiting here, isn't it? Makes the thing seem so much worse. Why not run out to Beechlands and be back here in a couple of hours' time?"

Chetwood felt a warm wave of new hope surging through his being.

"I will," he said.

His heart, as he left the hospital, was infinitely lighter than when he had entered it. Presently, the three found themselves on the shadowy sea-front. A knot of figures, blacker than the night, surrounded the aeroplane. They fell back as the three men arrived at the spot.

"Can you see to fly to Beechlands, Brand?" asked Gardiner. "I rather doubt it. It's getting as dark as pitch."

"I don't mean to fly to Beechlands," said the other.

"I thought not," said Gardiner. "We must arrange to have the 'Red Kite' guarded to-night. And then we can get a trap—at least I suppose we can, can't we, Stanley?"

Before Chetwood could reply, James Brand interposed.

"There's no necessity to have it guarded," he said. "I'm going to fly again to-night, but not to Beechlands."

"Where are you going to fly to?" asked Chetwood, after a pause of astonishment.

Brand seized both his listeners by the arm in an unusual access of demonstrativeness. They could not see his face, but it was clear to them that he was shaken by deep emotion.

"Let's come and sit in the old 'Red Kite!'" he said. "Then we can talk for a minute or two. It won't be much more than that before I'm off."

"But, my dear fellow," protested Gardiner, "You've never given us a hint of this. What's the meaning of it? Where are you off to?"

They had clambered into the aeroplane; Brand stretched out his arm into the night.

"Over there," he said, "where I can help to roll a few more of those accursed pickelhaubes into the mud!"

(To be continued.)

LEASE OF ISLANDS.

The Acting Prime Minister has informed the Premier that the Imperial Government is inviting tenders for the lease of the Ashmore Islands, in the Indian Ocean. The islands in question are rich in guano and other fertilising substances.

Do not be put off with any "just as good" remedies when you ask for Clements Tonic. Get the original from your chemist, AND NO OTHER. It does good, because it is good; and in this instance you cannot have too much of a good thing.—Advt.

POULTRY.

(Questions relating to fancy or commercial poultry keeping, diseases, etc., should be addressed to "Ancona," "Herald" Office.)

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

G.C.: Pullets of all breeds at their first laying produce, say, from ten to twenty eggs, then take a spell, and shortly commence again and lay steadily. It is not a matter of feed, which, as you describe, is correct.

Narrabri: The trouble with your turkeys is roup, a very difficult complaint to get rid of. The Department of Agriculture a few years ago published a pamphlet on "Turkeys in Health and Disease." Write for a copy.

E.V. (Tempe): The trouble may be attributable to several causes, but, beyond stating the age of ducklings, you give no information. How are they fed, and otherwise managed? Your friend's ducks may be dying from the same cause, but, in the absence of particulars as to feed and housing, it would be difficult to say what the disease is.

A.F.: If you write to any of the Sydney booksellers they will send you a list of books on poultry-keeping.

E.J. (Balmain): Turkeys cannot be reared successfully in the suburbs, even when a good space is available. There are country districts where the hen turkey hatches and rears her own chicks with scarcely any attention, while in other places the utmost care, feeding, and management will not tend to bring the youngsters to maturity. You need not expect to have any success in Balmain with this variety of poultry.

Russia: Poultry, if kept in clean, open-fronted houses, and fed with pollard, bran, wheat, maize, grit, and green stuff, do not require the medicines you mention. The blood spots in eggs would not be the cause of the deaths. Discontinue the use of sulphur, Condy's crystals, and salts. The morning food would be better to consist of about two parts pollard and one part bran, with the addition of some meat two or three times a week. The mixture should not be in the nature of a mash, but crumbly.

Entries for the poultry section of the Royal have closed. There has been an excellent response by suburban and country breeders. Interstate entries are not yet available, but the latest report from the secretary is to the effect that the feathered section will be a record one.

There are two purebred poultry sales to-day at the Municipal Markets. The Poultry Farmers' Co-operative Society have a special sale of Sussex fowls only.

A meeting of poultry-farmers has been convened for Wednesday next to discuss the question of stamping or branding cold-store eggs. It appears that there are approximately 800,000 dozen eggs treated in this manner annually, and they are taken off the market in the glut period. In the scarce season these are put on the market, and, being sold largely for pastry purposes, do not affect the price of new-laids. The meeting will, no doubt, discuss the subject from all points of view with the object of relieving the market in the season of over-production.

The current Hawkesbury College egg-laying competition will terminate on Friday evening next. The figures to the present time indicate that there are not likely to be any new records made in the average of the flock of first-year hens. It is evident that of all the college tests this one will be the most exciting, two or three pens in both sections at the present time being separated by but a few eggs. On the 21st inst Mr. Ramsay led by but 12 eggs from the Fairfield Farm, and will likely finish a winner, with not much to spare; while in the first-year hens Messrs. Graham, Cameron, Jarman, King, Forrest, and Jobling will probably finish in the order named. In the section to test the merits of comfortable housing against sleeping in the open, only a few eggs will separate the two sections; while in the test for the best individual layers, a hen of Mr. Dalrymple's on the 21st inst had 275 eggs to her credit, the next being one of Mr. Cameron's with 261.

This week's slump in eggs was quite expected by the trade. The 2s 2d per dozen of the last week or two was much beyond March values, and when an abnormal rise takes place in this month a fall is invariable. Some poultry-farmers have been speaking of 3s per dozen during the next and following month, but the anticipation is not likely to be realised. When half-a-crown is reached higher wholesale rates need not be expected, despite the fact that the quantities in cold store are many thousands of dozens below last year.

The pure-bred poultry sales of last week were well attended by buyers, and excellent prices were realised for every bird showing good breeding. With the reasonable rates now obtaining for all classes of poultry foods, many breeders are increasing their stocks, and invariably with pure breeds. The prospects for the poultry industry were never brighter than at the present time, and those who stock up, feed well and carefully, will have no regrets.

COMING SHOWS.

Royal Agricultural Society	April 20, 26
Combined Clubs	May 5 and 6

NOTES.

Mr. H. M. Somer, secretary of the Royal Agricultural Society, reports that splendid entries have been received for the dog section of the Easter Show. Last year the entries totalled 385, this year they number close on 700, which is about a record for the society. The display in several of the breeds will be unusually attractive, especially in the fox terrier and bulldog sections.

A very fine pair of Scotch Terrier puppies (dog and bitch) were recently selected by Mr. I. I. Moss from the kennels of Mr. Samuel Hordern to the order of Mr. Archibald Bowman, Tamarang Station, Quirindi. The puppy dog was by Kirribilli Chief (imp.) from Retford Heather, and the bitch puppy by ch. Clonmel Monk (imp.) from Retford Lass. Both are dark brindles.

Mr. T. S. Peaker, hon. secretary of the Sydney Silky Yorkshire and Australian Terrier Club, notifies that his club has withdrawn from the Kennel Club of New South Wales, Incorporated, and that the members are exhibiting at the Royal Easter Show.

Mr. R. Clare, hon. secretary combined show, writes:—Schedules for the show to be held on May 5 and 6 next will be available by the end of this week, and may be obtained from any of the participating club secretaries, the general secretary, Mr. R. Clare, 36 Tweedmouth-avenue, Rosebery, or from Messrs. Walther and Stevenson, George and Hunter streets, Sydney. The British Terrier Club is giving prizes ranging from £1 to 2s 6d in each class, in addition to specials. The Bulldog Society is not far behind, and the smaller clubs have framed their prize list on a sliding scale. The show will be held under the rules of the Kennel Club of New South Wales, and it is expected that the entries will be numerous. Applications for schedules have already been received from the country, and also the other States and Tasmania.

CATHEDRAL STREET.

The Minister for Lands gave notice in the "Government Gazette" of last Friday that he is of opinion that it is expedient, under the provisions of the Public Roads Act, to close the part of the road known as Cathedral-street, extending from Boomerang-street and College-street to St. Mary's-street, and Anzac-avenue. All persons interested are at the same time called upon by the Minister to set forth in writing addressed to the Minister within one month from Friday last any objections which may appear to them to exist to the closing of the said road or part thereof.

At the expiration of the month allowed, the whole case will be reviewed, and the objections lodged dealt with by the Metropolitan Land Board.

OUR WHEAT HARVEST.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Complaints are being made by politicians against British shipowners for not sending more ships to take away our wheat. The pigeons are coming home to roost. For several years our politicians have helped to bring matters to the present pass, and now they are trying to throw dust in the eyes of our producers, so that the blame for the non-removal of our produce will not fall on them. Arbitration was to stop strikes, yet during the last few months, when every encouragement should have been given to British shipowners, we have seen ships lying idle or leaving in ballast because the men refused to obey the arbitration awards and go to work. We have seen numerous instances of ships being unable to coal because the miners or coallumpers were on strike, or because the coallumpers refused to work, when expedition was necessary. Why should ships come here when they can get quicker despatch, shorter trips, and higher freights elsewhere? We penalise them by high port, pilotage, and light dues; in fact, there are no other ports in the world where it is so costly to send a ship. When our politicians enforce obedience to their laws, when ships can depend upon getting quick despatch, then, and not till then, should we expect shipowners to give us preferential treatment as against other countries.

THE WORLD'S GREAT WAR.

THE SIGNALLERS.

"A CLOSE SHAVE."

THE SERGEANT'S RESOURCE.

(BY DAVID CABLE, IN "LAND AND WATER.")

III.

The Morsed key signal for his own company buzzed rapidly on the signaller's telephone, and he caught the voice of the corporal who had taken out the repair party. They had found the break, the corporal said, and were mending it. He should be through—he was through—could he hear the other end? The signaller could hear the other end calling him, and he promptly tapped off the answering signal and spoke into his instrument. He could hear the Morse signals on the buzzer plain enough, but the voice was faint and indistinct. The signaller caught the corporal before he withdrew his tap-in, and implored him to search along and find the leakage.

"It's bad enough," he said, "to get all these messages through by voice. I haven't a dog's chance of doing it if I have to buss each one."

The rear station spoke again and informed him that he had several urgent messages waiting. The forward signaller replied that he who had several messages, and one in particular was urgent above all others.

"The blanky line is being pushed in," he said. "No, it isn't pushed in yet—I didn't say it—I said being pushed in—being—being, looks like it will be pushed in—got that? The O.C. has 'stopped one,' and the second has taken command. This message I want you to take in shrieking for reinforcements—what? I can't hear—no I didn't say anything about horses—I did not. Reinforcements I said; anyhow, take this message and get it through quick."

He was interrupted by another terrific crash, a fresh and louder outburst of the din outside, running footsteps clattered and leaped down the stairs, the door flung open and the sergeant rushed in slamming the door violently behind him. He ran straight across to the recumbent figures and began violently to shake and kick them into wakefulness.

"Up with ye!" he said, "every man. If you don't wake quick now, you'll maybe not have the chance to wake at all."

The men rolled over and sat and stood up blinking stupidly at him and listening in amazement to the noise outside.

"Rouse yourselves," he cried. "Get a move on. The Germans are almost on top of us. The front line's falling back. They'll stand here." He seized one or two of them and pushed them towards the door. "You," he said, "and you and you, get outside and round the back there. See if you can get a pick-axe, a trenching tool, anything, and break down that grating and knock a bigger hole in the window. We may have to crawl out there presently. The rest o' ye come with me an' block up the door."

Through the din that followed, the telephonist fought to get his message through; he had to give up an attempt to speak it while a hatchet, a crowbar, and a pickaxe were noisily at work breaking out a fresh exit from the back of the cellar, and even after that work had been completed it was difficult to make himself heard. He completed the urgent message for reinforcements at last, listened to some confused and confusing comments upon it, and then made ready to take some messages from the other end.

"You'll have to shout," he said, "no, shout proper loud, because I can't 'ardly 'ear myself think—no, 'ear myself think. Oh, all sorts, but the shelling is the worst, and one o' them beastly airyale torpedoes. All right, go ahead."

The earpiece receiver strapped tightly over one ear left his right hand free to use a pencil, and as he took the spoken message word by word he wrote it on the pad of message forms under his hand. Under the circumstances it is hardly surprising that the message took a good deal longer than a normal time to send through, and while he was taking it the signaller's mind was altogether too occupied to pay any attention to the progress of events above and around him. But now the sergeant came back, and warned him that he had better get his things ready and put together as far as he could, in case they had to make a quick and sudden move.

"The game's up, I'm afraid," he said gloomily, and took a note that was brought down by another orderly. "I thought so," he commented, as he read it hastily and passed it to the other signaller. "It's a message warning the right and left flanks that we can't hold the centre any longer, and that they are to commence falling back to conform to our retirement at 3.20 ac emma, which is ten minutes from now."

Over their heads the signallers could hear tramping, scurrying feet, the hammering out of loopholes, the dragging thump and flinging down of obstacles piled up as an additional defence to the rickety walls. Then there were more hurrying footsteps, and presently the jarring rap-rap-rap of a machine gun immediately over their heads.

"That's done it!" said the sergeant. "We've got no orders to move, but I'm going to chance it and establish an alternative signalling station in one of the trenches somewhere behind here. This cellar roof is too thin to stop an ordinary Fizzbang, much less a good solid Crump, and that machine gun upstairs is a certain invitation to sudden death and the German gunners to down and out us."

He moved towards the new opening that had been made in the wall of the cellar, scrambled up it, and disappeared. All the signallers lifted their attention from their instruments at the same moment and sat listening to the fresh note that ran through the renewed and louder clamour and racket. The signaller who was in touch with the rear station called them and began to tell them what was happening.

"We're about all in, I b'lieve," he said. "Five minutes ago we passed word to the Banks to fall back in ten minutes. What? Yes, it's thick. I don't know how many men we've lost hanging on, and I suppose we'll lose as many again taking back the trench we're to give up. What's that? No. I don't see how reinforcements could be here yet. How long ago you say you passed orders for them to move up? An hour ago! That's wrong, because the messengers can't have been back telephone message? That's a lot less than an hour ago. I sent it myself no more than half an hour since. Oo-oo! did you get that lump? Dunno, couple o' big shells or something dropped just outside. I can 'ardly 'ear you. There's a most almighty row going on all round. They must be charging I think, or our front line's fallen back, because the rifles is going nineteen to the dozen, a-a-ah! They're getting stronger, too, and it sounds like a lot more bombs going; hold on, there's that blighting maxim again."

He stopped speaking while upstairs, the maxim clattered off belt after belt of cartridges. The other signallers were shuffling their feet anxiously and looking about them.

"Are we going to stick it here?" said one. Didn't the sergeant say something about 'opping it?"

"If he did," said the other, "he hasn't given any orders that I've heard. I suppose he'll come back and do that, and we've got to carry on till then."

The men had to shout now to make themselves heard to each other above the constant clatter of the maxim and the roar of rifle fire. By now they could hear, too, shouts and cries and the trampling rush of many footsteps. The signaller spoke into his instrument again.

"I think the line's fallen back," he said. "I can hear a heap o' men running about there outside, and now I suppose us here is about due to get it in the neck."

There was a scuffle, a rush and a plunge, and the sergeant shot down through the rear opening and out into the cellar.

"The flank trenches," he shouted. "Quick, get on to them—right and left flank—tell them they're to stand fast. Quick now, give them that first. 'Stand fast; do not retire.'"

The signallers leaped to their instruments, buzzed off the call, and, getting through, rattled their messages off.

"Ask them," said the sergeant anxiously. "Had they commenced to retire." He breathed a sigh of relief when the answers came. "No," that the message had just stopped them in time.

"Then," he said, "you can go ahead now and tell them the order to retire is cancelled, that the reinforcements have arrived, that they're up in our forward line, and we can hold it good—oh!"

He paused and wiped his wet forehead. "You," he said, turning to the other signaller, "tell them behind there the same thing."

"How in thunder did they manage it, sergeant?" said the perplexed signaller. "They haven't had time since they got my message through."

"No," said the sergeant, "but they've just had time since they got mine."

"Got yours?" said the bewildered signaller.

"Yes, didn't I tell you?" said the sergeant. "When I went out for a look round that time, I found an artillery signaller laying out a new line and I got him to let me tap in and send a message through his battery to headquarters."

"You might have told me," said the aggrieved signaller. "It would have saved me a heap of sweat getting that message through." After he had finished his message to the rear station he spoke reflectively: "Lucky thing you did get through," he said. "'Twas a pretty close shave. The O.C. should have a 'thank you' for you over it."

"I don't suppose," answered the sergeant, "the O.C. will ever know or ever trouble about it; he sent a message to the signalling company to send through—and it was sent through. There's the beginning and the end of it."

And as he said, so it was; or rather the end of it was in those three words that appeared later in the despatch: "It is reported."

(THE END.)

RANDWICK HOSPITAL

RED CROSS WORK.

HOW SOLDIERS ARE HELPED.

An extraordinary variety of duties is being cheerfully undertaken and efficiently performed by representatives of the Red Cross Society at the Randwick Hospital. There are now some 340 invalided soldiers receiving treatment there, and everything that kindness, generosity, and common sense can suggest is being done for the men.

For instance, every day some of the ladies carry the mailbag through the wards, and on some occasions they collect 200 letters and sell 10s worth of stamps. Other ladies have established a book depot, and they regularly circulate the books, carrying them to men who cannot leave their beds. Another band of workers daily provides the men with tea and refreshments. Cars from the motor and transport branch of the Red Cross call from time to time and carry the men off on excursions in and around the city. Every Monday the ladies from the produce depot distribute the week's supply of cigarettes and tobacco. Entertainments of various kinds are held regularly.

The Red Cross organisation has been greatly assisted by acts of prompt generosity. A lady was informed one day that men who are confined to their beds often ask for safety razors. A little later, 50 new safety razors arrived. Shortly afterwards, a gentleman heard that there was a demand for small mirrors. He at once said that he would send three dozen.

But something more is being done than merely providing for the comfort and entertainment of the soldiers. A number of ladies are engaged in teaching the men such arts and crafts as basket-work, wood-carving, toy-making, etc., and the invalids accept this tuition with genuine interest and pleasure. Representatives of the society's inquiry bureau are always at work collecting information about men who have been reported killed or missing. The Red Cross workers are always moving about among the men, directing them how to obtain admission to the convalescent homes or register at the employment bureau, send a cablegram, or obtain goods at the Red Cross store at the hospital. Arrangements are constantly being made to supply such things as an improved crutch, a cloth or special leather boot, or a new arm-sling. A man who has been recommended for violet rays treatment is shown how to obtain the treatment. A married soldier who is in a little anxious about his family is given an order on the produce depot for vegetables, fruit, and preserves.

A Red Cross office is now established at Randwick Hospital, and, in addition to the workers in the wards, there is always a man there on Wednesday afternoons and Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday mornings to answer inquiries and help the soldiers in any way possible. His work is particularly heavy after the arrival of a hospital ship. The workers at the hospital declare that their duties are made easier by the prompt, business-like, and yet sympathetic methods of the head office of the Red Cross when dealing with reports and recommendations, and the courtesy shown and assistance given by the military officers and the matron of the hospital.

MILITARY VICTORY ESSENTIAL

FAMOUS HISTORIAN'S VIEW.

M. Aulard, the famous historian of the Revolution, writes in the Paris "Journal" a most interesting article, in which he upholds the contention that the war can only be ended by some decisive victory, and not by mere economic exhaustion of either side alone.

M. Aulard declares that the delusion that the Allies only require to hold out to win has caused us much damage since the battle of the Marne, and, if persisted in, may ruin our cause. Germany may be tired, but she is not exhausted. We have too often been told that our blockade would reduce the Central Empires to starvation, but they are only forced to restrict their appetities and follow a regime that will do most of them much good. If the mark sinks even to 30 centimes at Geneva this will not stop Essen from building guns. It is the most dangerous mistake to imagine that Germany will fall on her knees for want of food, or money, or men.

Let us suppose that a hermetical blockade were made, and that Germany was actually reduced to absolute starvation and obliged to sue for peace. "I say that this would be the worst peril, and the certainty of the most terrible disaster for us in a very short time. The only peace that we could impose on an enemy whose armies occupy French and Russian territory, and the whole of Servia and Montenegro, with almost the whole of Belgium, would be one that would perhaps restore Alsace-Lorraine to us, and the other occupied countries, but would leave intact, in all its strength and glory, Prussian militarism."

He can hear the Kaiser proclaiming, "We have not been beaten; none of our foes has been able to invade us. It is hunger and the blockade that have forced us to lay down our arms. With our military honour safe, our prestige and our future are as bright as ever." M. Aulard proceeds:—"If we cannot break the military power of Germany by arms, we cannot do it by a treaty. The Prussianised Empire of Germany would subsist as before, an eternal threat against us. Prolific Germany would make up its losses in men more quickly than France. Our sterile victory would soon divide us Allies, and it would not be long before united Germany would fall upon us piecemeal, to destroy us finally."

The conclusion he draws is that we can only gain the victory out of which a solid and lasting peace can be founded, and militarism can be destroyed, by beating the German army. "Such a real victory is assured by the number and valour of our troops, provided they are furnished with all the guns, ammunition, aeroplanes, asphyxiating gases, and other adjuncts they need, and, above all, if a powerful effort is made methodically and in unity of talent of conception and utilisation of the splendid soldiers and resources we possess."

The above is a reproduction on a reduced scale of a message received from the Royal Arsenal, Woolwich, England, packed in a case containing certain stores consigned to the Royal Australian Naval Ordnance Depot at Spectacle Island. This was evidently the work of one of the employees, who, although working at top pressure, found time to express his admiration of the Australian people, and is no doubt voicing the sentiments of many others in this department of the Homeland.

WITH THE FRENCH.

FINE FIGHTING FORCE.

A VISIT TO THE TRENCHES.

(By H. S. Gullett, Official Australian Correspondent with the French Army.)

From the Marne battleground and the line of the great drive to the Aisne you learn the cheering lesson that the European country-side quickly recovers from the ravages and horrors of war. Over this rolling area to-day the peasants go sloddily on with their winter tasks. The cultivation is in its proper stage, and in the vineyards the stakes are neatly piled waiting the return of sunshine and growth. There is nothing in the faces of these old men and boys and women to tell of the prodigious days of little more than a year ago.

The simple peasants between the Marne and the Aisne have reaped a good harvest since then, and sold it at war prices. For evidence of those days one must take the crosses which here and there mark the graves by the roadside, the wrecked houses, and the shattered churches. Many dwellings escaped, but the churches never.

RHEIMS TO SOISSONS.

I passed from the Rhine along the line of Soissons, and in the course of a few days made a number if visits to the front trenches. Let me be frank, and say at once that I saw no fighting, and heard only a few big guns at a distance, and the flight of two rifle bullets. The experience was intensely interesting, chiefly as showing how quiet even a vital section of this western front can sometimes become. The day after our visit there was considerable fighting there. Rheims, which is within easy gun distance from the enemy's position, was as quiet and almost as desolate as the streets of Pompeii. The town is not a ruin, as Ypres is, but the charge against the German for his work at Rheims is infinitely blacker than it is at Ypres. Some military necessity might possibly be pleaded for the demolition of Ypres, although it would not be attemped by any nation but the Germans, for the outrage upon Rheims there is no shred of justification. One can only repeat that there is overwhelming evidence that the achievement of the German gunners was deliberate and wanton.

IN THE TRENCHES.

We entered the trenches and walked a considerable distance. I asked the inevitable question as to our distance from the enemy. "A few hundred yards," replied an officer. We peeped through loopholes, and, becoming bolder, stood up and looked at leisure over the parapet. The usual prospect—a tangled mass of barbed wire, and then a strip of field, with a heavy growth of decaying grass and self-grown crops. "The enemy," they said, "is just over the ridge." In the course of 20 minutes we saw only two French soldiers on the parapet. I protested that this could not be the first line of trenches. "Where were the soldiers?" The officer laughed, "I will show you." We walked some distance along the deserted ditch and came to the door of a dug-out. He lifted a canvas curtain and called. A response came from far off in the darkness. We took an electric torch and descended, step after step, for 20 feet or more. "There," said the officer, "is the garrison, warm, dry, and ready." Some slept on the dry straw, some read, others were writing.

We looked into their faces, most of them bearded, and saw men in the prime of life and condition, and apparently in the best of spirits. As we come into the trenches we had passed numbers of men on their way out to rest, and had been surprised at the absence of drawn and sleepless faces, and the coating of mud which are general with similar men in Flanders. Now we understood. Here the country was undulating, and the soil light and porous, and the French had achieved trenches as dry and warm and safe—barring a heavy attack—as the homes of the defenders' wives and families. We were seeing trench life at its best; you might have worn bedroom slippers, despite that it was December, and kept your feet free from damp. With outposts in position, and sentries surely placed, and with artillery observers at work, and the famous 75's vigilant and well supplied with shells, most of the men might sleep the day and night through, and France have no uneasiness. It was a revelation in the best practise of war, which is, except when on the definite aggressive, to guard life as jealously or even more jealously than in time of peace, and to give every soldier the least possible discomfort.

FOOD AND EQUIPMENT.

When the time arrives, floods of these young Frenchmen will rush headlong against all the death-dealing devices of which the Germans are capable, but meanwhile they are given every consideration, which is consistent with the holding of the line and the prosecution of the war. Their food is, of course, different to that of the British, but on an equally generous scale. He gets plenty of beef and vegetables, all the bread he needs, coffee interminably and a quarter bottle of wine every second day, and much else besides. The Government provide him with plenty of tobacco, and he commonly smokes cigarettes in summer, and the pipe in winter. He is so well dressed and equipped that when you see him marching with his big pack you marvel at the wonderful manner in which he swings along the roads all day, if need be, at between four and five miles an hour. He can march the British soldier to death. Those unaccustomed to French troops are invariably surprised at their grand physique.

MISERABLE GERMAN PRISONERS.

We were lucky enough to see some German prisoners who had just been captured. The French, from the generals to the soldiers, make no secret of their belief that they have the enemy beaten. They do not say that they can get far into his line at a given time; they know too well that they can't—not yet. But as on the British front, they know that they have the enemy well hammered into good inoffensive behaviour all along the line, and that at any hour they can give him a sound local thrashing. Although a general laughingly denied it, I am sure that the score of prisoners lined up for us at a divisional headquarters, with the mud of the German trenches not yet dry upon their clothes, had been a special capture for our edification. Little feats of that sort are now of nightly occurrence up and down this Western Front. We wished we could have believed that these miserable cowering lads, one of them with trembling lips and tearful eyes, were representative of all the reserve Germany is now calling up to her many overstretched fronts. But they are too deficient in fighting or manly qualities to justify us in coming to that happy conclusion. They ranged from 16 to 19 years, and were about as poor and undergrown lot of mankind as it is possible to conceive. They looked a lot of physical and mental degenerates from some correction school; quite possibly they were. But although it would be dangerous to use them for the purpose of drawing conclusions, at least one can confidently say that such a group of weedy undergrowth could not be found among all the millions of the armies of France and England. Their story, which was borne out by their papers, was that they came from one of the industrial provinces along the Rhine; that they were called up last May, given very little training, and sent to the front in October immediately after the great allied offensive. One carried a letter written some days before, and returned to him by the German censor because in it he spoke of the horrors of the trenches and the strength of the enemy, and expressed a wish that the war was over. The French officers regarded that with special interest, because their quality confirmed the general opinion that the September and October fighting definitely marked the beginning of the deterioration in the German troops. Apparently they were at full strength so far as first-class troops went before that time; since then they have been obliged to fill up the ranks with men who would never have been used had the position not been looked upon as desperate. One noted, however, that these unfortunate lads were well dressed and equipped, each one wearing sound knee-boots.

THE TRENCH MORTAR OFFICER.

A FIELD IMPRESSION.

BY ADRIAN STEPHEN, R.F.A., "SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE."

"Seven o'clock, sir. Shall I get breakfast?"

"What is there for breakfast?"

"Bacon, sir."

The T.M.O. turned over on his wire bed and surveyed his servant dreamily. "Bacon," he repeated. "I think I have heard that word before." His voice hardened. "It seems to pursue me down a long vista of mornings. You might say the word cheerfully, as though the bacon really weren't all fat. If you can't vary the breakfast, at least vary your tone. Dismiss."

The T.M.O. crawled gingerly out of his sleeping bag, and proceeded to wash in a cavas bucket outside his dug-out.

"Here's a shell coming, sir," shouted the servant.

"Well, stop the blooming thing; can't you see I'm busy?" He returned to the dug-out in time to support one corner of the roof, which was drooping supiciously as a result of the shell.

He spent an acrobatic breakfast, supporting his home with one hand and eating the bac—(no, I won't say the beastly word)—with the other. "Life," he muttered, "is not worth living." He was rescued from pessimism by a frenzied messenger who announced breathlessly that an infantry officer had thought he saw a German in the enemy's front trench. Would the T.M.O. come at once and fire a 50lb bomb at him (.e., the German)? The T.M.O. received the news with masterful self-control.

"Jones," he shouted to his servant, "come and hold the dug-out up while I go down the trenches."

"Perhaps, sir," suggested Jones, "I could prop it up with something."

"A distinct idea, Jones. Masterful fellow, I always said you had brains."

The T.M.O. dragged on his thigh gum boots and set off to his gun, which was in the reserve trench, a matter of 10 minutes' walk from the dug-out.

At the commencement of the trench he paused. "Why don't the bally infantry clean their trenches for me?" he queried to the world at large. The next moment he trod on nothing, and a sump hole received him.

He swam ashore in time to see a sergeant gravely saluting him.

"Did I notice you smiling, sergeant?" he spluttered.

"Oh, no, Sir." (a liar, obviously; but a tactful one.)

"If it had been a staff officer, Sir"—commenced the sergeant. Their eyes met—and twinkled.

The T.M.O. reached his gun, looking like a slab of animated trench. He called the gun detachment together, and prepared for action.

An infantry officer sauntered into sight. "I'm afraid that German beggar has gone," he said to the T.M.O. "In fact, he wasn't a German at all: he was a stump; but I rather want to see how your jolly old mortar works." The T.M.O. did not lose his temper—he was a perfect gentleman. Taking the gun to pieces he explained it thoroughly.

"Thank you," said the infantry officer, who had been watching an aeroplane during the demonstration. "I don't understand a word you've said; perhaps if you were to fire a round from the old bus'—"

The T.M.O. put the gun together. "Range 500, fuze 11," he ordered.

Just then a captain strolled along.

"Hullo, that's a new sort of mortar, isn't it? Ugly-looking beast; what? How does it work?"

After another exhaustive explanation the captain suggested that the "old jigger" should be fired.

The T.M.O. placed two sticks on top of the trench in line with a German sap, and proceeded to sight the gun on to the sticks. "Bring out a bomb," he thundered in his best martial voice.

But a staff officer appeared on the scene. "Good morning, is this the trench mortar? Very interesting. Now, how does it work? Can you explain?"

The T.M.O. drew a long breath.

"Perhaps if you took it to pieces?" suggested the staff officer. When the gun had been dismantled to its smallest detail, the staff officer confessed, with the usual modesty of his tribe, that he didn't quite follow the explanation. Would the T.M.O. please fire a round? Once again the gun was prepared for action. At that moment a brigadier-general joined the group. "A mortar, eh?" he exclaimed. "How does it—"

"Excuse me, sir," hurriedly broke in the T.M.O., "but the Boches invariably drop their Minenwerfers just where you are standing, and at about this time, too."

The audience then remembered that it had business elsewhere, and went on its way with alacrity that only duty can inspire.

"What target, sir?" asked the number one gunner.

"Target," panted the T.M.O., mopping his brow, "any old target; only, for heaven's sake, fire, and get it over."

A loud bang—a huge watermelon bomb sailing through the sky; a dull thud in the enemy trench, and then—silence. The bomb had not exploded. A dud! A dud!

A messenger ran up to the T.M.O. "Please, sir, the staff captain wants your ammunition report, showing how many rounds expended and how many exploded."

The T.M.O. waved him away, and buried his face in his hands. Was it all a ghastly joke? "Shall I fire again, sir?" asked the gunner.

"Not now," groaned the T.M.O.; "some other time; some other war." He set off for his dug-out. A salvo of shells and four Minenwerfer bombs fell in the trenches around him, making the earth rock. They were a peevish hint that the efforts of mortars are not appreciated by the Teutonic mind.

He hardly noticed them. He was wondering whether a certain sump-hole could have possibly engulfed those exalted personages who had just preceded him. After all, a sump-hole is no respecter of rank. Thus he wondered, and wondering thus, fell into the sump himself.

"Life," he gurgled "is not worth living."

After lunch his servant confronted him with a pile of army forms.

"There is one form here, sir, that asks how many English, French, Russian, Belgians, and Italians there are in the battery."

"What about Germans?"

"They are not officially on the strength, sir."

"Well," concluded the T.M.O., with dignity, "please inform the staff captain that this is a battery, and not a foreign opera company."

The sergeant placed the pile of forms on the table. "Those must be filled in by 4 o'clock, sir." An ominous silence. "Hand me the whisky," commanded the officer, in funereal tones. "Do not disturb me till 4 o'clock. If by that time I have not mastered these forms, you will find my body hanging from the roof."

"The roof is not too strong, sir."

"Leave me!"

The sergeant tip-toed out, feeling that he was a party to the making of tremendous history.

When evening came, the officer stepped from his dug-out, pale but triumphant, yet he looked older, much older. Army forms have that effect. Around him were the charred rafters and the lonely, jagged walls of a ruined town. The moon shining through this skeleton turned its desolation into beauty—the spectral beauty of memories and of dreams.

Softly through this dead village floated the sounds of music, bringing haunting visions of the past and gay hopes for the future.

"Life," murmured the T.M.O., "is worth living after all—even here."

A LIVING SHIELD.

Sir Andrew Wingate, at a meeting of the World's Evangelical Alliance at Queen's Hall, London, recently, related a story of a woman in a French village who, terrified by the explosion of a shell in the street, rushed with a child in her arms towards a group of British "Tommies." The soldiers closed round her, and a second shell immediately burst near. One soldier lay dead, and two or three were wounded, but the woman and child were unscathed. For child, for woman, for Christ—no wonder, he said, Britain was proud of her soldiers, able in the moment of danger to remember their manhood.

VETERAN'S DEATH.

A COMMAND AT 68.

ECHO OF BESUD.

The distinguished services rendered by the late Colonel Harry Kilgour, when he was an officer in the Fifth Northumberland Fusiliers, are the subject of an interesting article in "St. George's Gazette," the regimental paper. The colonel, who had retired from the army, offered his services again when war broke out, and at the age of 68 was appointed to command the 2-5 Devons. He died in Egypt on November 24, 1915, and was buried next day at Cairo with full military honours.

Mr. Charles Kilgour, of O'Connell-street, Sydney, is a brother of the late colonel, while another brother, Mr. Arthur Kilgour, is a pastoralist in Queensland. A third brother was the late Mr. William Kilgour, formerly director and manager of Messrs. Dalgety and Company, Sydney. Colonel Kilgour visited Australia once, many years ago, when he held the rank of lieutenant.

"Thirty-five long years ago, during the second campaign of the second Afghan War" (writes "Grenade" in the paper mentioned), "no officer was held in higher honour by his regiment, or better known throughout the army in India, than the senior subaltern of the Fifth, a subaltern of 13 years' standing, his name was Henry Kilgour.

"Fourteen years of foreign service had not accelerated promotion in those days; the two senior captains were both brevet lieutenant-colonels, the next three brevet majors; it was not unfitting then that the senior subaltern, who was also a company-commander, should be graded as acting captain.

"His services have been briefly narrated in the 'Times' of November 29, 1915. The curt notice that he served in the expedition to Besud conveys very little meaning in the present generation, yet it was a brilliant little fight, and in it Kilgour was recommended for the Victoria Cross.

"Besud is a small walled village in the vale of Jellabad, on the left bank of the Cabul River, not easily to be distinguished from a hundred others in that part of the world.

"Four mud walls with round towers flanking them at each angle, and the invariable, well-defended gate. All rising out of a sea of emerald green crop, with tufts of fresher green showing above the walls, where tender leaves had recently displaced the peach, the apricot, and the almond blossom, which are the glory of northern India and the frontier.

"Stony ground and crops alternated from the round boulders on the river brink up to the foot hills, whence rose barren, rocky mountains, culminating in the snowy range of the Safed Koh.

"Such was the scene when I Coy. of the 1-5th advanced in extended order on the left of a fighting line destined to storm the village.

"Two tiny antiquated 7-pounders, predecessors of the screw mountain gun, supported the attack, and had just breached the curtain wall between two of the flanking towers, and the firing line was dealing with the loop holes to cover the final rush, when suddenly the senior subaltern ordered his own company to cease firing, and dashed out by himself towards the nearest tower. Col.-sgt. Woods alone appreciated his officer's intentions, and followed him. Arrived at the tower, each helped the other up between the loopholes to the flat roof on top, and the pair disappeared from view by jumping into the village together.

"Dashing down the door of the tower, Woods was the first man in, and shot a Pathan who seized his rifle, the only shot fired inside. He bayoneted the next with such violence that the bayonet, a sergeant's sword in this case, could not be withdrawn. Quitting his rifle, Woods seized the third man by the throat, and broke his neck, falling on top of him in the scuffle. Kilgour then got to work with his sword, and Woods picking up a dead man's knife helped him to clear out the tower. Thirteen they killed between them, and only two bolted. These two went to Ghazi, and charged through the breach straight for the commanding officer, Major Rowland, who killed them both forthwith with his sword, though he got a nasty cut in doing so.

"The village was carried directly afterwards, but there was very little killing left to do.

"So ended what the men loved to call the Battle of Besud, and the name is painted yet on the drums of the companies who were there.

"Returning home with the 1st Battalion in December, 1880, the following year Kilgour, a real captain at last, was gazetted brevet-major for his action, and Woods received the Distinguished Conduct Medal, a rare distinction in those days, from the hands of Queen Victoria herself.

"After a year at Portsmouth and another in Ireland, in 1883 Kilgour became adjutant of the Northumberland Militia, then just converted by Mr. Childers from light infantry into the 3rd Battalion Northumberland Fusiliers.

"It was during his five years' tour at Alnwick that a blow from a cricket ball brought on a long and dangerous illness. The devoted nursing of his great friend and brother adjutant, Captain Teddy Bingham, of the Percy Artillery Volunteers, and surgical skill summoned from Edinburgh by his C.O., the present Duke of Northumberland, alone saved his life. But Kilgour never lacked devoted friends. Captain Biddulph, another adjutant of Northumberland Volunteers, carried him off to the South of France directly he was convalescent.

"Rejoining the colours in 1888, he served with the 2nd Battalion in India at Pindi, Peshawur, and Benares, and returned to the 1st Battalion at Aldershot in 1893.

"In 1900 he was appointed to command No. 25 Regimental District at Chichester, and presided over a sensational court-martial at Dover before retiring in 1904.

"During the early years of his soldiering he visited Australia, and the first Australian cricketing team to visit England contained many of his friends. Throughout his service his own slow bowling and fielding were well known wherever army cricket was played; a good shot and keen fisherman, no better sportsman or cheerier companion ever lived.

"In 1895 he married the widow of a brother officer, Major Reginald Thurlow, and on retiring in 1904 settled down near Andover, where he lived most happily.

"It was characteristic that at 68 years of age he should volunteer to lead a regiment again in the field. His death in harness may well shame the young manhood of England who are not yet serving the State."

The Fifth Northumberland Fusiliers have rendered good service since the war began.

THE LATE COL. HARRY KILGOUR.

AFTER THE WAR.

MANY COMPLEX PROBLEMS.

WHAT THE NATIONS WILL CLAIM.

After having shown the certainty of the defeat of the Central Powers, a well-known French writer, M. J. Rosny, in an article in "L'Illustration," discusses the results of the victories of the Allies. The peace negotiations, he thinks, will be extraordinarily difficult, delicate, and complex. Germany will create every difficulty that trickery and cunning diplomacy will suggest, and she will part with her territory only as a last resort. Germany will show less reluctance in agreeing to the cession of Austro-Hungarian territory—as was indicated by Prince von Bulow's mission to Rome—except where it affects the route to the Orient. It is not expected, however, that Austria will servilely agree to the cession of her territory. The writer considers that Turkey, unless she is invaded, will continue to be a dangerous element in the diplomatic situation, and it is to Germany's interest to maintain the integrity of Turkey.

But even greater difficulties may be caused by the fact that five great Powers, and a number of smaller ones, will be seeking rewards for their share in the victory. Italy will want a portion of Austria, and perhaps other grants, and France, recognising that Italy's intervention calls for eternal gratitude, will not be inclined to deny the justice of her claims. The demands of the Italian population are urgent: 36,000,000 people are crowded into a country very much smaller than France.

The possession of Poland and Galicia is apparently Russia's minimum demand. Slavism may demand other territories, particularly those taken by the Prussians, and the ancient Poland, now in three divisions, may be rebuilt. Further, Russia will not wish to have fought in vain in the Caucasus.

Japan will never surrender the Asiatic territory she took from Germany; her influence in the development of Asia is great and growing.

Britain is considered to have strong claims, but it is hoped that she will not prove too greedy. The South Africans, who have captured, or are capturing, territory in Africa, cannot be expected to surrender their conquests, Britain's influence must also be very great in the disposition of Asia Minor.

Then there are the claims of Belgrade, Servia, Roumania, Greece, and Spain. These will all cause much trouble and heart-burning before the borders of the new Europe are fixed.

The writer goes on to examine the internal condition of each nation in relation to the post-war settlement. The moral tone of France that has been created by the war he considers excellent. The nobility and self-sacrifice of the French, shown by the war, prove their deep vitality. Great Britain should do much to regulate in future the peace of Europe. She will work patiently to secure a durable peace and unity among the States of Europe, as she has done in the past, but she must recognise now, in the face of Teuton barbarities, that if complete harmony is to be achieved there must be a great change in the spirit of the German people. But the writer foresees that, while Britain will enjoy much material prosperity, she will be torn by bitter social crises.

By joining the Allies, Italy fixed her destiny. She is a young nation, with a tremendous power for expansion, and France, her Latin sister, will rejoice to see her development. Her children have gone in great numbers to South America, and in that direction her influence will be great. But Italy is more liable even than France or England to serious social crises.

The situation in Russia is more obscure, incoherent, and tragic than in the other Powers. The Russians have not reached the same stage of social development, and the problems provided by the desire for Polish autonomy, the presence of millions of Ruthenes in Galicia and Bukowina, and questions relating to Finland, the Jews, and the Lithuanians, no less than the growth of democracy and the desire of the people for better living conditions, will provide the Russian Government with much embarrassment. The growth and development of this great Power must remain a menace to Germany.

The writer, in conclusion, points to three great changes which are taking place outside of Europe. He thinks that the nations of South America will form a vast federation, with a power and influence not dreamed of to-day. Japan, he believes, will complete the organisation of the Mongol world; while China, now in a condition of chaos, will throw off the yoke of the white man within fifty years and become a formidable Power. Grave social troubles will develop in the United States, after a period of great prosperity, and "the men of the trusts" will be driven out.

ON THE TIGRIS.

MEDLEY OF BRITISH CRAFT.

WORK AT BASRA.

The "Cape Times," of Capetown, publishes an interesting letter written by a South African officer now serving in Mesopotamia, says the Central News. The letter states:—"The River Tigris plays havoc with the surrounding country when it gets above itself from melting snows coming down from the Caucasus, when it frequently tires of its own course and tries another. The river is the only drinking water, and you can imagine the state of it when Orientals have anything to do with it.

"We have all kinds of craft up here, improvised for use higher up. The Clio, a sloop, was marked down in 1914 to be destroyed as obsolete, but she, with her sister ships Odin and Espiegle, has done great work in the battles. Now that we have got as far as Amara and Nasariyeh, the vessels that give the greatest assistance are steam launches with guns on them, and flat-bottomed Irawaddy paddle-steamers. We have transformed the place wonderfully already—cut dykes to control the water in flooded areas, made bridges to cross creeks at will, and made roads where none existed before.

"I was much struck with the cleanliness of Basra and the absence of smells. We have restored order, and gained confidence and trust, quite wonderfully. The inhabitants are now very orderly. Of course, all sentiment here will be affected by successes or otherwise up the rivers. We are principally in occupation in these parts on the west of the river, on which bank Basra stands.

"We are town planning, building bridges (permanent ones), and generally improving the place every day, acquiring land in a fair and orthodox way, which the inhabitants and owners appear to be strange to, but, all the same, appreciate. We have established customs, and gradually the place will recover its former prosperity, in spite of the absence of the Germans, and no doubt increase very much.

"Some of the Arab tribes are doing a lot for us, and so relieving troops for the front. I believe the Turks have any amount of arms buried and hidden in the mosques, which, of course, we cannot, and do not, verify. The Mullahs are the only ones openly hostile to us just now. The difficulties as we advance are increased to a certain extent, though country and climate are improving. Our aerial service is increasing; we have now an R.N. flight section, which has hydroplanes as well."

LAW REPORT.

HIGH COURT.

(Before Sir Samuel Griffith, C.J., Mr. Justice Barton, Mr. Justice Duffy, and Mr. Justice Rich.)

FEDERAL LAND TAX DISPUTE.

SPECIAL CASE STATED.

A special case for the decision of the Court was stated by Mr. Justice Rich, who heard, in the original jurisdiction of the High Court, an appeal by Nea Vivian Flemmich, against an assessment for taxation purposes made by the Federal Commissioner of Land Tax. Mr. Pike, instructed by the Commonwealth Crown Solicitor, appeared on behalf of the Commissioner; Mr. Loxton, K.C., and Mr. Milner Stephen, instructed by Messrs. Stephen, Jaques, and Stephen, appeared for the appellant Flemmich.

The case stated by Mr. Justice Rich was that, by the will of the late Henry Charles White, who died on February 24, 1905, certain land in the parish of Pottinger, county Bando, was devised to trustees upon trust for his three daughters for life. Under powers given them by the will, the trustees, on August 30, 1906, conveyed portion of the land to Mrs. Flemmich (one of the daughters) in fee simple, and on the same day she leased the land to the trustees for 21 years from August 1, 1906. The trustees have been assessed, and have paid land tax for 1911-1912 as primary taxpayers in respect of the land, of which the appellant and her sisters were joint owners under the will. For that year Mrs. Flemmich was assessed upon a taxable value of £59,040. This amount was arrived at by estimating her one-third interest for life under the will at £49,544, and her interest in lands held in severalty at £14,496 (being £19,796 value of land, less £5300 deductions). The amount of tax was set at £739 3s 5d. From this amount, said his Honor, appellant was entitled, under section 28 of the Act, as a secondary taxpayer to such deduction, as was necessary to prevent double taxation, and questions have arisen as to the proper mode of ascertaining the amount of such deduction.

The amount payable by appellant as a secondary taxpayer is less than that payable by the trustees as primary taxpayers. The respondent Commissioner claimed that the deduction was £521 13s 6d, leaving £208 8s 11d as the amount of tax which appellant is liable to pay. The Commissioner had taken the unimproved value of the land at £49,544, plus the £19,796 for land held in severalty, making a total of £69,340, and did not deduct £5300, the value of the lessee's interest under section 28 of the Act. Appellant's contention was that the £5300 should be deducted, which would reduce the assessment by £564 17s, and leave £165 5s 5d as the amount of tax payable. The same contention arose in respect of the tax for the years 1912-13, 1913-14, and 1914-15.

The question for the consideration of the Court was by what method the deduction to prevent double taxation ought to be ascertained.

The Chief Justice delivered the unanimous judgment of the Court, which was in support of the contention raised on behalf of Mrs. Flemmich before Mr. Justice Rich. If the Commissioner's contention were sound, said Sir Samuel Griffith, the result of its operation would not only not prevent double taxation, but would actually help to impose it.

The whole matter was then settled by Mr Justice Rich, calling on the appeal against the taxation assessment, and allowing the appeal, with costs, against the Commissioner.

HOTELKEEPER'S APPEAL.

Mr. Blacket, K.C., and Mr. Watt, instructed by Messrs. P. B. Colquhoun and King, agents for Mr. F. F. Mitchell, of Cooma, appeared on behalf of George Rolfe, licensee of the Prince of Wales Hotel at Cooma, to appeal against a majority decision of the New South Wales Full Court, which declined to upset a decision of the licensing magistrate at Cooma. Mr. Lamb, K.C., and Mr. Watt, instructed by Mr. J. V. Tillett, Crown Solicitor, appeared in support of the magistrate's conviction.

Rolfe was proceeded against in September, 1915, on information laid by the inspector of police at Cooma, on a charge of permitting drunkenness on his licensed premises. The evidence was that a woman who was described as hopelessly drunk, was discovered in a stall of the hotel stables, which were admitted to be part of the licensed premises. The following facts elicited by the police court were that the woman was taken from the street into the hotel yard and stables by the groom, and her relations were sent for to take her home. It was not suggested that she had procured drink at the defendant's premises. The day of the occurrence was a Sunday (September 12). When the constable informed the licensee, Rolfe, he (Rolfe) said he knew nothing of it, and had not seen the woman. Miss Rolfe then had the woman brought into the house and put in a bed, while her husband was sent for to take her home. The magistrate convicted the licensee, and fined him £3, with 17s costs.

On October 6, 1915, an application was made to Mr. Justice Sly for a writ of prohibition directed against the magistrate and inspector of police, and an order nisi was issued, pending the hearing of the appeal. The appeal to the Full Court was heard on November 1, 1915, before Mr. Justice Pring, Mr. Justice Street, and Mr. Justice Ferguson. Mr. Justice Pring held that a prima facie case had been established against the licensee by the presence of drunkenness on his premises, and it rested upon him to prove that he and the persons employed by him took all reasonable steps to prevent it. His Honor saw no reason to disturb the conviction recorded by the magistrate, for the reason that the gate leading into the hotel yard was not kept locked, there being thus nothing to prevent people, whether drunk or otherwise, from coming on to the premises through the gate. His Honor also thought the magistrate was entitled to come to the conclusion if he liked that the groom did not take the woman into the stable for the purpose of sheltering her. Mr. Justice Street was of the same opinion. "We have no power," said his Honor, "to disturb the conclusion of a magistrate on a finding of fact, if it a finding at which reasonable men (a jury) could arrive on the evidence." Mr. Justice Ferguson dissented, having arrived at the opposite conclusion. The circumstances showed, said his Honor, that no reasonable steps taken by the licensee would have prevented the particular occurrence, and he could not conceive that it was the intention of the legislature that a licensee should be called upon to show any more than that. The licensee was not required to take or disregard the ordinary dictates of humanity. It was clear that the woman was in such a state that to put her out of doors might very well have been regarded as cruel and inhuman.

This appeal to the High Court was on the grounds that appellant was convicted against the evidence, and that the Supreme Court was in error in deciding that in the circumstances proved, the onus rested on the appellant of proving that either he or the persons employed by him took all reasonable steps to prevent drunkenness on the premises.

The case stands part heard.

SUPREME COURT.

BANCO COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring and a jury of four.)

The action Booth v Municipal Council of Sydney, arising out of the resumption of plaintiff's property at Darling Harbour for the opening up of Day-street, is still part heard.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly and a jury of four.)

DISPUTE ABOUT WOOL.

Crisp v Louis.

Mr. Boyce, instructed by Messrs. Blaxland, Mawson, and Rose, of Cooma (by their agents, Messrs. Iceton, Faithfull, and Maddock), appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. James and Mr. Breckenridge, instructed by Messrs. Arthur J. M'Donald and Kemmis, for the defendant. This was an action brought by David Crisp to recover the sum of £200, balance claimed to be due to him under an agreement made between him and the defendant, Michael Louis, in connection with an alleged agreement as to the sale of wool. The case has already been detailed.

Defendant denied the promise alleged, and also pleaded that even if it was made he had been guilty of no breach.

The jury returned a verdict for plaintiff in the amount claimed.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly without a jury.)

DISPUTE ABOUT AN OPTION.

Manchee v Bartlett.

Mr. E. M. Mitchell, instructed by Messrs. Sly and Russell, appeared for the plaintiff. Frank Henry Manchee, who sued Albert Claude Bartlett to recover £100, money received by defendant from plaintiff for the use of the defendant, being a deposit paid in respect of an option under an agreement dated March 11, 1915, which option was not exercised. The case for the plaintiff was that he rented from defendant certain country at Penrith for pastoral purposes for a period of six months for £150, the agreement dating from April 1. There was a further term that at the end of the lease plaintiff should have the option of purchasing the property for £3300, and in respect of that part of the agreement he paid of deposit of £100. When the six months' lease had run out plaintiff elected not to purchase, and now sued for a return of his deposit.

Defendant, who was represented by Mr. Boyce, instructed by Messrs. Weaver and Allworth, pleaded not indebted, and said that on the legal interpretation of the terms of the agreement as to the option plaintiff paid £100 as an earnest of the bargain, and was to forfeit it to the vendor if he did not exercise the option. In view of the probable purchase plaintiff was given the six months' lease at a very low rental.

His Honor, after hearing evidence and argument, reserved judgment.

CASE SETTLED.

In the case of Smith v Halligan and another, arising out of the alleged detention of certain plans and specifications, etc., for a building at Dapto, a settlement was arrived at. Mr. Kelynack and Mr. Beeby, instructed by Messrs. Sly and Russell, appeared for plaintiff; and Mr. E. M. Mitchell, instructed by Mr. J. E. Gosling, for the defendants.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Ferguson and a jury of four.)

SALE OF CHAFF.

M'Farlane v Smith.

Gertie M'Farlane, trading as C. W. M'Farlane and Co., of Orange, sued Mrs. E. M. Smith and Cornelius Smith, carrying contractors, of Redfern, to recover £191 1s 11d in connection with the sale of a quantity of chaff.

The defendants pleaded that they were never indebted, and in a further plea they entered a cross-action by way of a set-off as to £75 10s 1d. They claimed that the chaff was not true to sample, but was mainly inferior, decayed, and rotten.

Mr. Watt, instructed by Messrs. Fred. E. Wood and Hill, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Monaghan, instructed by Messrs. Harold T. Morgan and Morgan, for the defendants.

The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff for the amount claimed.

IN EQUITY.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

MOUNT OXIDE MINES, LTD., v GOULD AND OTHERS.

The hearing was continued of the case in which Mount Oxide Mines, Ltd., sued four of the directors—Sir Albert John Gould, Francis William Bacon, Thomas Brougham Birkbeck, and Gerald Francis Allen, and J. Earle Hermann, Ltd. (in liquidation), for £25,000, for the alleged negligence in connection with the management of the mine.

Francis William Bacon, one of the defendant directors, continued his evidence. When he was in London he was trying to sell the mine. On his return, he was seldom more than a week or 10 days away from Sydney. He was chairman of a board meeting held in May, 1913. He noticed that the minutes of several meetings were not signed by the chairman. His reason for not signing them was that they were not properly written up, and he wished to be more conversant with the details.

At his Honor's instance, the minute book of the meeting of May 22 was shown witness. The latter, when asked by his counsel, Mr. Leverrier, K.C., why, at the meeting of June 11, he did not sign the minutes of the previous meeting, said that the reason was that he wanted further particulars as to financial matters. He could not say why the minutes of the June 11 meeting were not confirmed. He could not remember whether the latter minutes were written up at the meeting on July 8.

His Honor: Do you keep the agenda book?—Yes.

Do you make up the minutes as the meeting proceeds?—Yes.

Continuing, witness said that on August 7 he left Sydney for Townsville. He was away for three weeks. While at Townsville he got a telegram from Gould, which could not now be found. He remembered in substance that the contents of the telegram related to an offer from London, stating the Oxide Company was offered 170,000 shares in the Fanti Company, the latter taking 250,000 shares, and providing £80,000 as working capital. Out of this sum £26,000 was to be devoted to pay off debentures. Witness telegraphed a reply to Go.ld, strongly advising acceptance of the offer.

Witness was shown certain documents. He remembered signing several hundred scrip certificates.

Mr. Knox, K.C., objected to a statement made by witness.

Mr. Leverrier said: "He thinks he is at a Star Chamber inquiry."

Mr. Knox: "I suppose people can tell the truth, even at a Star Chamber inquiry."

Witness said that he signed the scrip as a rule at the offices of Cocker or Hermann. Everything seemed very businesslike, and he never suspected anything wrong. He had no reason to doubt Cocker's probity. He could not identify transfers now shown him. He had not seen much to do with Cocker as the chairman had.

When asked by Mr. Leverrier what reputation Hermann had up to the sale of the mine, witness said that he knew nothing against his honesty. For his own sake, he made a number of inquiries about Hermann from men of wealth and standing. They told him that they had heard things about him, but as far as they knew, they found nothing wrong about him. "Hermann," said witness, "treated me well, and put me into speculations which turned out well; others did not turn out well, but that was not Hermann's fault. I had no reason to doubt his honesty. He was a sharp man of business as a company promoter, and, like others, he was out to do the best he could for himself."

Cross-examined by Mr. Knox, witness said that he was present at a meeting at which security was given to Mander Jones. He was in the chair, and signed the document. Regarding transfers, it was usual when issuing them to destroy the old scrip. He remembered the meeting of August 8, 1911, at which a lot of financial business was done.

Mr. Knox: Had financial matters been before the Board from August 22, 1912, to August 8, 1914—a period of 15 months?—They do not appear to have been.

Were there any letters or telegrams from Williams about the financial position of the company before the meeting?—No.

Was a resolution passed about Fawcett investigating affairs at the mine and the excessive cost of work?—Witness knew that expenses were very high, and that Williams had failed to carry out instructions. Approximately, £1500 was to be sent to the mine monthly. At the meeting of May 22 comments was made about Williams's adverse comments. He did not know anything about Williams having given away the financial position of the company. Williams had a staff of seven at the mine, including a typewriter and cook, and there were only four miners. Fawcett was instructed to dismiss Williams. Witness heard from Hermann that Williams had cabled to London that he had not sufficient money to pay expenses. He took no steps to see if Williams's complaints were justified. The resolution passed at the meeting, antagonistic to Williams, was Hermann's instance.

Continuing, witness said that he first saw Mercer at the office of Hermann, who introduced him to Mercer, and said that the latter proposed to give an option over the mine on certain conditions. He knew then that something was in the air. At this meeting Mercer told a company was proposed to be floated for £475,000, and that the Oxide Company was to get 170,000 shares, and that the London people would lend Hermann £20,000 on the security of his Mount Oxide shares. This £20,000 was to be a loan to Hermann for him to take up defaulters' liabilities. The outstanding shares were said to be:—Scantlebury 5000, Noble 1000, Terrey 4000, and Freeman 1200. Witness understood that Hermann was going to take over some of the shares.

Mr. Knox: Was the whole of the £20,000 received to be used in paying for shares belonging to Hermann?—The money was to be used in paying debts and carrying on.

Had you since the examination in the Master's office frequently discussed this case with Hermann and the directors?—Yes; I had very good reason to discuss it. At a meeting the question of ore at the mine cropped up, and Mercer said that he was to get it as collateral security. Allen had said that the ore was worth nothing. Mercer stipulated for the security of the ore.

Can you understand a mining expert like Mercer asking for security of 3000 tons of ore if it were worthless?—Yes; it prevented us dealing with it.

Do you know much about a reverberatory furnace?—I candidly admit that I don't know what it is.

No more do I.

Witness, referring to the unpaid shares, said that he saw letters from Noble and others repudiating their liability.

Mr. Knox: Don't you know that you and Hermann formed a board meeting?—Yes. Regarding signing the agreement, he thought it better to have present Allen, an independent director.

His Honor: It looks as if the minutes of December 23 had been altered.

Witness said he saw Allen sign the agreement.

Mr. Knox: Do you consider that the chairman of a directors' meeting should see that the minutes are taken?—Yes; minutes were taken. Cocker made rough entries in a book, and the chairman used his agenda book.

His Honor: In whose writing is the alteration in the minute book?—In Hermann's—the additions as well as the alterations. Regarding the meeting of December 19, it was obvious that the date had been altered from Monday to Thursday.

Mr. Knox: Which is correct; your statement before the master about what directors were present at the meeting, or what you say now?—The latter: You "bamboozled" me at the Master's office.

Why did you sign cheques given you by Hermann for the Cloncurry account on a Melbourne form?—He must have given me some sound reason for it at the time. The company had not an account with a Melbourne bank. Hermann's writing was in the body of the cheques.

Did not it strike you as strange that Hermann should negotiate an option with Mercer without a board meeting?—No. He had not spoken to Gould before the execution of the agreement with Mercer. Gould was away. Witness did not call a meeting to sign the agreement. His not signing the minutes was because they were not written up as he thought they should be.

What did you do to have the minutes put in order?—Apparently nothing.

This concluded Barton's evidence.

Thomas Brougham Birkbeck, one of defendant directors, said that he had been a mining man for many years. Shortly after he was appointed director of the company he arranged with Cocker to let him know when anything important was on. Witness gave a list of his attendances at the meetings. He disclaimed having authorised the issue of certain documents. He had never seen the report prepared for the shareholders, nor an inset in the minute-book. Only at two meetings had he authorised any business. Williams told him that witness's name had been used by Hermann in connection with several documents. Witness wrote to the secretary, Cocker, complaining of this. He went to the mine to see things for himself. Mercer went with him. The mine he thought opened up well.

Witness was still in the box when the Court adjourned.

(Before Mr. Justice Street.)

MOTION BY THE MOUNT OXIDE MINES, LTD.

Mr. A. M. Harper, instructed by Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co. appeared for the Mount Oxide Mines, Ltd. (in liquidation), and Harry Jamieson and Wm. Harrington Palmer, the liquidators thereof, creditors of J. Earle Hermann, Ltd. (in liquidation), and moved for an order that, notwithstanding the order of the Court, dated September 8, 1914, to wind up the respondent company, the applicants may be at liberty to commence and proceed with a suit in Equity in which applicants are plaintiffs, and Sir Albert John Gould, Francis William Bacon, Gerald Francis Allen, Thomas B. Birkbeck, Joseph Earle Hermann, and J. Earle Hermann, Ltd., are defendants. According to the joint affidavit of applicants, Jamieson and Palmer, the suit referred to was one in respect of a sum of £20,000, which, in the course of their duties as liquidators of the Mount Oxide, Ltd., they ascertained was paid by way of loan to J. Earle Hermann, Ltd., on or about the month of January, 1913, in pursuance of the provisions of an agreement dated December 23, 1912. They further stated that, by clause 12 of the agreement, it was provided that the £20,000 should be applied for the benefit of the Mount Oxide Mines, Ltd., and at least half thereof should be expended for the company's benefit in developing the mining property of the Mount Oxide Mines, Ltd. In the course of their duties as such liquidators they had ascertained that there were no records in the books of the Mount Oxide Mines, Ltd., showing the receipt by the company of the money or any part thereof, or how it was expended or that such sum or any part thereof, was applied for the benefit of the Mount Oxide Mines, Ltd., or showing any particulars whatever as to the application of such sum or any part thereof. They had been advised by counsel that J. Earle Hermann, Ltd., was liable to account to the Mount Oxide Mines, Ltd., for the £20,000, and acting on such advice a suit had been commenced against respondents.

Mr. Wickham, instructed by Messrs. Vero Read, and Bell, appeared for respondents. J. Earle Hermann, Ltd., to oppose the application, and read the affidavit of H. T. Bell, a member of the firm of Messrs. Vero Read and Bell, setting out reasons why the order should not be granted, and also stating that J. Earle Hermann, Ltd., had filed a memorandum, submitting in the suit to such decree or order as the Court might make, and that as no relief was prayed in the statement of claim, served on the official liquidator against them, no defence had been prepared, nor had respondents taken any part therein.

Mr. Harper, on behalf of his applicants, said that respondents were made defendants only for the purpose of obtaining accounts, and if plaintiffs obtained judgment in the suit they would not press for execution against respondent, J. Earle Hermann, Ltd.

The case stands part heard.

IN DIVORCE.

(Before Mr. Justice Gordon.)

DECREES ABSOLUTE.

His Honor made absolute the decrees nisi granted in the following cases, and declared the marriages dissolved:—William Boffey v Amelia May Boffey, Winifred Lillian Malcolm v Frederick William Malcolm, Sylvia Garton Dunn v Herbert Dunn, Ellen Eliza Dwyer v Peter John Dwyer, Lilian Frances Scott v William Lamond Scott, Walter Thomas Wardrop v Florence Wardrop, Ivy May Canning v William Joseph Canning, Eva Jane Johnson v James Johnson, Bedelia Bridget Conway v Joseph Conway (otherwise known as James Conway), and Florence Powell Poole v Frank Powell Poole.

COKER v COKER.

Mr. Bignold, instructed by Mr. E. W. Warren, appeared for the petitioner; and Mr. Flannery, instructed by Mr. J. J. Hagerman, for the respondent. In the suit Wilson George Coker sought a decree for restitution of conjugal rights by his wife, Ethel Hope Coker (formerly Cochrane). The marriage was celebrated at Willoughby on September 13, 1899, according to the rites of the Congregational Church.

Mr. Flannery announced that on Tuesday last the respondent instructed her solicitor not to oppose actively the present application, therefore he was not appearing that day to cross-examine any of the witnesses, or act for the defence. He thought it right to mention that petitioner was formerly an insane patient.

His Honor: Is your client willing to go back and live with her husband?

Mr. Flannery: She says she is not willing to go and live with him. I am only here to produce papers which may be called for.

His Honor: It is very unsatisfactory. Here is a case where the husband brings a suit for restitution, and his wife, in an order is made, may disobey it, and then the marriage may be dissolved. In England this disobedience would not be a ground for divorce, but a judicial separation might be granted. That would concern only the two persons interested, but when a marriage may be dissolved, the public also is concerned. In any case, I shall send the matter on to the Crown Solicitor.

Evidence was then opened, and Mr. Flannery soon afterwards withdrew from the court. It was stated that the petitioner had more than once been confined in institutions for the insane, and witnesses called on his behalf stated that at no time, as far as their observation went, had he been in any way inclined to violence or shown any homicidal tendencies.

His Honor, after the evidence had concluded, said the matter raised considerable difficulty. He might even refer it to the Full Court, but in any case he should not decide at once. He reserved his decision.

ASKEY v ASKEY.

Mr. M'Kean, instructed by Mr. E. R. Abigail, appeared for the petitioner, Hannah Maud Jane Askey (formerly Casburn), who sued for a divorce from her husband, Horace Lesley Askey, on the grounds of misconduct and desertion. The marriage took place at the Church of England, Narrandera, on December 27, 1909. A decree nisi, returnable in six months, was granted.

CARROLL v CARROLL.

Mr. E. R. Abigail appeared for the petitioner, Edith Mary Newton Carroll (formerly Bowles), who sued her husband, William Newton Carroll, for restitution of conjugal rights. The parties were married on February 16, 1905, at Toowoomba, Queensland, according to the rites of the Church of England. A decree was granted as prayed.

HEALEY v HEALEY.

Mr. E. R. Abigail appeared for the petitioner, John Joseph Healey, who sued his wife, Ruby Elizabeth Healey (formerly Garfoot), for restitution of conjugal rights. The marriage was celebrated at Wickham according to the rites of the Church of England, on November 1, 1913. A decree was granted in terms of the prayer.

RASMUSSEN v RASMUSSEN.

Mr. R. W. Fraser appeared for the petitioner, Sarah Amanda Rasmussen (formerly Davis); the respondent, Johannes Andreas Rasmussen, did not appear. The marriage was celebrated at Sydney on December 22, 1896, according to the rites of the Wesleyan Church. This was a suit for divorce on the ground of desertion, and a decree nisi, returnable in six months, for the dissolution of the marriage was granted on that ground.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Heydon.)

CONSENT TO APPEAL.

Mr. Vero Read, on behalf of Bacon and Co., Ltd., and others, applied for consent to appeal against the award of the Printing Trades Group No. 8 (process engravers) Board.

The consent asked for was granted.

REGISTRATION CANCELLED.

The registration of the Federated Stewards and Cooks' Union of Australasia was formally cancelled, on the application of Mr. Pennington, who appeared for the union.

APPEAL AGAINST MAGISTRATE'S DECISION.

Giovanni Petrucco appealed against a decision of Mr. G. C. Addison, Chief Industrial Magistrate, who fined him £2 for an alleged breach of the Building Group, No. 6 Board, award. Petrucco was proceeded against at the instance of Inspector Taylor for not paying a man employed by him doing plastering work the minimum wage of 1s 7½d per hour, as stipulated in the award, instead of 1s 5d per day as a labourer. Among the grounds on which Petrucco appealed was that the magistrate was wrong in holding that a workman was necessarily a plasterer because he happened to be using a trowel when the inspector called at the job. Mr. Beeby appeared for Inspector Taylor.

His Honor reserved his decision until after he had inspected similar work being carried out.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

(Before the Registrar.)

HEARING OF CREDITOR'S PETITION.

Re George A. Crandell, ex parte Mary Frost. Mr. Barnes, of Messrs. McElhone and Barnes, appeared for the petitioning creditor. A sequestration order was made, and Mr. C. F. W. Lloyd was appointed official assignee.

SINGLE MEETING AND PUBLIC EXAMINATION.

Re Amy Shearer, Mr. Lloyd, official assignee, examined the bankrupt. The public examination was concluded.

PUBLIC EXAMINATIONS.

Re Michael Langan. Adjourned to 4th prox.

EXAMINATION UNDER SECTION 20.

Re Amy Shearer. Mr. Schrader appeared for the official assignee. Adjourned to 4th prox.

CREDITOR'S PETITION.

Re Joseph W. Kent (known as Mick King), late of Katoomba, hotelkeeper, ex parte Ernest Alfred Knight Hudson, trading as Mulyan and Company, of Katoomba, storekeepers. Hearing fixed for 3rd prox.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT.

(Before the Chief Justice, Sir William Cullen, and juries.)

MOSMAN ROBBERY.

RYAN AND LEWIS CONVICTED.

The trial of James Ryan and Albert Lewis, charged with the robbery, being armed, of about £600 in notes and gold, from Walter H. Kelly, a bookmaker, living at the corner of Belmont-road and Vista-street, Mosman, was concluded.

After four hours' deliberation, the jury returned a verdict of guilty against both prisoners.

Ryan, against whom there were four previous convictions, including one for assault and robbery, for which he had received four years at Adelaide, and one for burglary, for which he had received five years in Sydney, was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude. Lewis, whose record was clean, was sentenced to three years' hard labour in Goulburn Gaol.

ACQUITTED.

Elizabeth Carruthers, a middle-aged woman, was charged with a serious offence.

The jury intimated that they did not wish to hear counsels' addresses. They then returned a verdict of not guilty, and Carruthers was discharged.

CASE UNDER BANKRUPTCY ACT.

Timothy Bonner was charged with incurring a debt with Peters' American Delicacy Co., Ltd., on November 4, 1915, by falsely representing that his name was Edward M. Bonner. Mr. Harris prosecuted for the Crown. Bonner was defended by Mr. J. J. Kisly. The case arose out of the fact that Timothy Bonner was made bankrupt on October 19, 1902, and had not since been released, and had entered a business with H. T. Bell, a member of the firm of Messrs. Vero Read, and Bell, setting out reasons why the order should not be granted, and also stating that J. Earle Hermann, Ltd., had filed a memorandum, submitting in the suit to such decree or order as the Court might make, and that as no relief was prayed in the statement of claim, served on the official liquidator against them, no defence had been prepared, nor had respondents taken any part therein.

Mr. Harper, on behalf of his applicants, said that respondents were made defendants only for the purpose of obtaining accounts, and if plaintiffs obtained judgment in the suit they would not press for execution against respondent, J. Earle Hermann, Ltd.

The case stands part heard.

Mr. E. R. Abigail appeared for the petitioner, John Joseph Healey, who sued his wife, Ruby Elizabeth Healey (formerly Garfoot), for restitution of conjugal rights. The marriage was celebrated at Wickham according to the rites of the Church of England, on November 1, 1913. A decree was granted in terms of the prayer.

RASMUSSEN v RASMUSSEN.

Mr. R. W. Fraser appeared for the petitioner, Sarah Amanda Rasmussen (formerly Davis); the respondent, Johannes Andreas Rasmussen, did not appear. The marriage was celebrated at Sydney on December 22, 1896, according to the rites of the Wesleyan Church. This was a suit for divorce on the ground of desertion, and a decree nisi, returnable in six months, for the dissolution of the marriage was granted on that ground.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Heydon.)

CONSENT TO APPEAL.

Mr. Vero Read, on behalf of Bacon and Co., Ltd., and others, applied for consent to appeal against the award of the Printing Trades Group No. 8 (process engravers) Board.

The consent asked for was granted.

REGISTRATION CANCELLED.

The registration of the Federated Stewards and Cooks' Union of Australasia was formally cancelled, on the application of Mr. Pennington, who appeared for the union.

APPEAL AGAINST MAGISTRATE'S DECISION.

Giovanni Petrucco appealed against a decision of Mr. G. C. Addison, Chief Industrial Magistrate, who fined him £2 for an alleged breach of the Building Group, No. 6 Board, award. Petrucco was proceeded against at the instance of Inspector Taylor for not paying a man employed by him doing plastering work the minimum wage of 1s 7½d per hour, as stipulated in the award, instead of 1s 5d per day as a labourer. Among the grounds on which Petrucco appealed was that the magistrate was wrong in holding that a workman was necessarily a plasterer because he happened to be using a trowel when the inspector called at the job. Mr. Beeby appeared for Inspector Taylor.

His Honor reserved his decision until after he had inspected similar work being carried out.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT.

(Before the Chief Justice, Sir William Cullen, and juries.)

MOSMAN ROBBERY.

RYAN AND LEWIS CONVICTED.

The trial of James Ryan and Albert Lewis, charged with the robbery, being armed, of about £600 in notes and gold, from Walter H. Kelly, a bookmaker, living at the corner of Belmont-road and Vista-street, Mosman, was concluded.

After four hours' deliberation, the jury returned a verdict of guilty against both prisoners.

Ryan, against whom there were four previous convictions, including one for assault and robbery, for which he had received four years at Adelaide, and one for burglary, for which he had received five years in Sydney, was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude. Lewis, whose record was clean, was sentenced to three years' hard labour in Goulburn Gaol.

ACQUITTED.

Elizabeth Carruthers, a middle-aged woman, was charged with a serious offence.

The jury intimated that they did not wish to hear counsels' addresses. They then returned a verdict of not guilty, and Carruthers was discharged.

CASE UNDER BANKRUPTCY ACT.

Timothy Bonner was charged with incurring a debt with Peters' American Delicacy Co., Ltd., on November 4, 1915, by falsely representing that his name was Edward M. Bonner. Mr. Harris prosecuted for the Crown. Bonner was defended by Mr. J. J. Kisly. The case arose out of the fact that Timothy Bonner was made bankrupt on October 19, 1902, and had not since been released, and had entered a business with H. T. Bell, a member of the firm of Messrs. Vero Read, and Bell, setting out reasons why the order should not be granted, and also stating that J. Earle Hermann, Ltd., had filed a memorandum, submitting in the suit to such decree or order as the Court might make, and that as no relief was prayed in the statement of claim, served on the official liquidator against them, no defence had been prepared, nor had respondents taken any part therein.

Mr. Harper, on behalf of his applicants, said that respondents were made defendants only for the purpose of obtaining accounts, and if plaintiffs obtained judgment in the suit they would not press for execution against respondent, J. Earle Hermann, Ltd.

The case stands part heard.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Scholes and juries.)

Mr. A. F. Dawson, Crown Prosecutor.

HOMICIDE BY MISADVENTURE.

Richard Charles Applebee, 28, was charged with the manslaughter of Matthew Hugh Townie, at Leichhardt, on March 14. Accused was defended by Mr. R. R. Abigail. The case was one in which a disturbance occurred in the Pyrmont Bridge Hotel between a soldier and some civilians. The deceased man Downie made some remark about "cold feet," which was resented by Applebee, who was drunk, the influence of drink, and he and Downie adjourned to the street, and a fight took place. Downie fell to the ground several times, and sustained a fractured skull, from which he died two weeks afterwards.

After hearing the evidence, his Honor said he would exercise his power under section 24 of the Crimes Act, under which he could take a case of manslaughter from a jury if he thinks that nominal punishment only would be inflicted in the case of a verdict of guilty. Applebee was then discharged.

BOUND OVER.

Robert Vincent, 30, was charged with conspiring to cheat and defraud Christopher McAdam of divers large sums of money. He pleaded not guilty, and was bound over in his own recognisance to appear for trial if called upon. Mr. H. Levien appeared for Vincent.

ACQUITTED.

James Henry Brophy, 56, was charged with stealing a brooch from the person of Mary Russell, at Verandria, on February 3, 1916. The jury acquitted Brophy, who was discharged. Mr. E. R. Abigail conducted the defence.

GIVEN ANOTHER CHANCE

Michael Hickey, 50, pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking a plateglass window, the property of Sarah Simmons, at George-street West, on January 25. The prisoner admitted a record of convictions, on the last of which he was declared an habitual criminal. After serving seven years he was allowed out of gaol on license, and a few weeks afterwards this offence was committed. His Honor said he would give Hickey another chance to redeem himself, since to send him to gaol would mean that he would be required to stay in prison as an habitual criminal. Upon the payment of £9 compensation, Hickey was bound over to appear for sentence if called upon.

CHARGE OF ABDUCTION.

Henry David Quinn, 22, a returned naval seaman from H.M.A.S. Australia, was charged with abducting a girl out of the possession of her mother on November 12, 1915. Mr. Fanker defended the accused. The evidence was that Quinn married the girl, who is 16 years of age, on the date mentioned, over 21 years of age. The jury convicted Quinn, but added that they thought he had been deliberately misled as to the girl's age. He was remanded for sentence.

Mr. W. T. Flynn, of Sydney, appeared for the respondent in the divorce suit of Morgan v Morgan on Thursday.

A NEW CAR depreciates from one-third to one-half the first year. A good guaranteed rebuilt Car, bought at the right price, is a profitable investment that after years of service only shows a low rate of depreciation. We have rebuilt and soiled Cars that have had very little use going for half or less than half their original cost, and are good for years of use. We have sold hundreds of cars, and can refer you to satisfied clients throughout the country.
We have some of the best of new European and American Cars on hand for sale, and could arrange to take your small Car as part payment.
Should you write or call in we would be pleased to supply you with Price Lists of all these Cars. Some we can sell on terms. TURNER BROS.,

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

YANCO.

The statement made at Leeton by the Minister for Education, that the Government was pledged to appoint a resident commissioner on the irrigation areas, will give undoubtedly very general satisfaction to the settlers. This is a course which we have advocated persistently, as it is evident that progress on the Murrumbidgee areas will be much more satisfactory if the management is in the hands of a man living amongst the settlers and in direct touch with their wants. Already the settlement has reached dimensions which militate against effective management from a distance, and this will be the more accentuated the more the areas progress. As far as we know, Mr. Griffith's statement is the first direct intimation that a resident commissioner is to be appointed, and it is not quite apparent how this is going to be effected under the provisions of the bill at present before Parliament. Under this amending bill it is proposed to appoint a board of three commissioners, of which the Minister, ex officio, will be one. The present acting commissioner, Mr. Dare, is to be appointed a permanent commissioner, and presumably will attend to the engineering side of irrigation enterprises. Is the other member of the board to be a resident commissioner on the Murrumbidgee areas, in view of Mr. Griffith's statement? If so, in what connection will he stand with regard to other irrigation enterprises. The point is an important one, as to our mind the management of the Murrumbidgee areas, to be effective, will absorb all the resident commissioner's time and energy.

CONSERVING SURPLUS FODDER.

According to a local report, Messrs. Walter Bros., farmers in the Kyogle district, are profiting by the lessons of the drought. They are converting the grass, which has grown to a uniform length of two or three feet in one of their paddocks, into hay. This is said to be the first time this has been done in the district, and it is to be hoped that the result will be profitable to the farmers. They are doing what should be generally done in this country, where the rule, as regards fodder, is so often a case of feast or famine. During the last 20 years there have been conspicuous examples of the great profit that results from the conservation of fodder, which would otherwise be wasted. Yet, the waste goes on, and this season many millions of tons of rich food have dried up and been blown away, because there were not sufficient stock to eat, and not sufficient enterprise to conserve any considerable portion of it. In regard to this subject, the "Argus" recently wrote as follows:—

"The waste of feed on the average Victorian farm in a good season is prodigious. Waste not only of the natural fodder, but also that which the farmer goes to a considerable amount of trouble and expense to grow. This could be, to a great extent, overcome by conserving part of the surplus and feeding it to stock. If this were done, not only would the number of animals carried on farms be greater, but the earning power of the land would be materially increased. It is only fair to farmers to say that labour troubles are directly responsible for much of the wastage of valuable fodder. Assistance is often unprocurable at times of the year when it is most urgently required. That, however, does not apply in every instance, and a great deal more could undoubtedly be done in the direction indicated. During the spring of the year there is generally a profuse growth of pasture, a large proportion of which is not consumed by stock. Instead of this being allowed to become dry and innutritious, and spoilt by being trampled down, at least part could be made into hay. There is no better or more palatable stock feed than grass, or 'bush' hay, yet how few landowners go to the trouble of saving any? Every time a bad season occurs men who could have made provision for their stock by the exercise of this simple precaution are 'caught short,' and have either to buy cereal hay at high prices, or send their animals away for agistment. In the southern parts of the State fodder crops are frequently grown, part of which, more especially in a good autumn, is not even cut. If this were converted into silage it could be used during the winter, and made to show a substantial profit on the cost of making. The straw of such crops as maize, beans, peas is often allowed to rot, or is burnt when it could be turned to profitable account if fed to stock. Such prodigality cannot be condoned by any reasonable excuse. The remedy is to carry more stock on holdings where such waste takes place."

The above remarks apply with equal force to farming and stock-raising in this State.

BATLOW LAND.

Mr. O. C. Barberie writes:—I am pleased to know that a move is being made to settle Bago Forest, in the vicinity of Batlow. Some time ago a start was made to cut up this land for settlement, but the blocks—about 100 acres—were far too large, as a person could make a good living from 10 acres. At Batlow I averaged £100 per acre for 10 years from some kinds of fruit, although I knew nothing of fruitgrowing. After 25 years as a teacher I was in no better position, or had no more experience, than the average returned soldier. In fact, many of the latter have been on the land previously. It will be a mistake to allow blocks that are too large, as it is necessary to look after orchards well, otherwise they will deteriorate. The great trouble is the clearing, but if a sawmill is erected that drawback will be eliminated, and a profit will be made out of the timber, so if the Government take the matter in hand the land should cost little to clear; in fact, a profit should be made, as the timber, although considered locally not to be of much value, is suitable for building. Vegetables of all kinds grow to perfection, so a living can be made at this while the trees are coming on; but of course a railway is needed to enable the produce to be marketed.

DAIRYING IN NEW ZEALAND.

CHEESE MORE PROFITABLE THAN BUTTER.

The dairy year in New Zealand of 1915-16 is near its close, and it is interesting to note that it has been a season of singular prosperity. So far there have been shipped to London 688,225 boxes of butter and 401,115 crates of cheese. Adding to the cheese 20,000 crates sent to West Coast ports of the United Kingdom, the exports of cheese to the mother country reached 421,115 crates, and there is still a large quantity of cheese in store ready to go forward as soon as the shipping space is available. On the whole, production has been fairly good, though hardly up to expectation. Dry weather has interfered with the milk supply of the Dominion, and in some quarters the result has been almost disastrous. Milk producers have undoubtedly concentrated more upon the manufacture of cheese than butter, and notwithstanding the exceptionally high price ruling in the butter market, cheese has been a very much better paying proposition. Current rates in London for New Zealand cheese are 102s to 104s per cwt. and butter 162s to 164s per cwt. As a matter of fact, the New Zealand dairy farmers have this year done better than ever before in the history of their corporate existence. They have to thank the war for that. The New Zealand dairy farmer is making one-third of his cheese at about 2d per lb under ruling rates for the Imperial Government, represented by the New Zealand Government; also cheese and butter freights have gone up, and insurance and war risk rates have advanced. Also, incidental expenses are greater, but the margin of profit is great, and bids fair to remain so until, at any rate, the end of the war.

LEETON CANNING FACTORY.

LEETON.—Official figures in connection with Leeton canning factory show that nearly 19 tons of peaches were treated last month, also 15 tons of tomatoes, and small quantities of nectarines, plums, sweet corn, carrots, onions, pears, pie-melons, and watermelons.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

DELEGATE.—At a sheep sale held here, 4100 being yarded, merino wethers brought to 28/6, ewes to 24/9, crossbred wethers to 30/7, ewes to 30/, lambs to 24/4. Cattle are in great demand, and are realising very high prices. Prospects for the coming winter in this district are very good.

LISMORE.—The absence of rain is causing anxiety to dairy farmers. Many parts did not participate in the bounteous rains of a month ago, and the grass never got a proper start. Ploughing operations have been hampered, and the nights are getting appreciably cooler. Large areas of late maize are at the cobbing stage. A couple of inches of rain would relieve the situation, but considerably more is needed to replenish the watercourses.

MOLONG.—The conditions in the Cudal district, notwithstanding the urgent need of rain, are in a flourishing state. Feed is plentiful, and a large number of big stock from the dry western portions of the State have been brought here for agistment. Indeed, feed has never been so plentiful in this district at any of the corresponding periods of previous years. Wheat-carting has now almost finished, and ploughing operations are in full swing. A large additional area will be put under cultivation this year, in anticipation of high prices for wheat at next harvest.

AGRICULTURAL CLASSES.

LEETON, Tuesday.

Mr. Griffith, Minister for Education, was interviewed at Leeton by members of the progress association, who urged the establishment of an agricultural school at Leeton. The Minister said he recognised that such a school must eventually be established here, but in his opinion the area was not yet sufficiently developed. He promised, however, to at once take steps to establish an agricultural class in connection with the local school.

TAMWORTH SHOW.

TAMWORTH, Tuesday.

The annual show of the Tamworth P. and A. Association was opened to-day in delightful weather.

The district is in splendid condition, and can look back upon the most beautiful harvest of wheat ever garnered. Never before has the fact of its transformation from largely pastoral to an essentially agricultural district been so pronounced, for the railways have been called upon to handle record quantities of wheat. This transformation is the paramount factor in the rise of Tamworth to its position as the primary commercial centre of the north. Its reflection is seen at the show, where the agricultural products and dairy sections are improving, in face of the deterioration of several of the stock sections. This is particularly the case in the sheep section. Not a single merino was shown, and, apart from some good pens of Lincolns, crossbreds, and fats, the section held little interest. Horses were also disappointing so far as blood and Clydesdale stallions were concerned. Several good-quality mares, both heavy and light, were paraded, but it was disappointing to find so few draught colts and fillies. Trotting horses were weak, but hacks made a really good display, as also did ponies. Sixteen paraded for the 12st class, in which Miss Bowden's Orion was successful. The ponies jumped well, the performance of Mrs. Langworthy's Dandy, who cleared the rails at half-an-inch under 6ft, being warmly applauded. Dairy cattle made a fairly good show, especially Jerseys, in which Mr. D. Hayes's cattle, from Goonoo Goonoo Creek, figured prominently. Ayrshires were not in representative strength; but Messrs. Chaffey Bros. and Mr. E. Carry showed some good sorts. Milking Shorthorns were fairly numerous and of good quality. In the beef section Durhams showed to advantage. Messrs. Chaffey Bros.' Berkshires won most of the prizes in the pig section, but other breeds were neglected. Farm produce showed an improvement, but the samples of wheat shown were disappointing, the season, although favouring high yields, being against the quality. Mr. J. Warner, of Oxley, was most successful both in his collection of wheats and in strong flour varieties. Mr. H. Farthing, of Beetive, won in the class for any variety with Petotz Surprise, which weighed 69lb. Lucerne seed production is a profitable industry in the Tamworth district, but only one sample was shown by Mr. G. Warden. The display of market-garden produce was small, but of good quality. Mr. C. Jeffries Britten again acted as president, and Mr. J. H. Britten as hon. secretary.

DROVER'S PERMIT.

The law provides that every drover in charge of any travelling sheep shall produce a permit upon demand to any inspector, police constable, or justice, or to the occupier of any run through which or along the boundary road of which such travelling stock may be proceeding. A drover was fined recently for not producing a permit to travel 2400 wethers. His excuse was that a permit had been issued, but the person who obtained it had not handed it over to him.

McELVENNY.—In sad and loving memory of our dear mother, who was laid to rest, March 29, 1915.

A gentle voice said come,
And with farewell unspoken,
She calmly entered home.

Inserted by her loving daughter and son, M. and J. Roberts, and grandchild, Jack.

McELVENNY.—In loving memory of my dear mother, Rachael, who departed this life March 29, 1915, aged 65 years. At rest.

I mourn for you, dear mother,
But not with outward show,
For those who mourn sincerely
Mourn silently and low.

Inserted by her loving daughter and son-in-law, Bean and Jack Morris, and grandchildren, Caderick and Raymond.

McELVENNY.—A loving tribute of deepest affection to the cherished memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Rachel McElvenny, who departed this life March 29, 1915.

Short was the call she had from above,
Not a word to her loved ones could say;
She sank to her rest like a babe in its sleep,
And she silently passed away.

Inserted by her loving daughter and son-in-law, Hav and Bert Evans, and grandchildren, Bonnie, Valmai, and Keith.

McELVENNY.—In fond and loving memory of our dear mother, Rachel, who departed this life March 29, 1915.

Kind was our mother, and sincere,
Faithful to us she loved so dear;
Fond of her children, the light of her eyes,
Loving us all, she left us and died.

IN MEMORIAM.

PRINCE.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Angelina Prince, who passed away March 29, 1915, aged 72 years. Sadly missed.

Our sorrow was great, our loss hard to bear,
God knows we have lost a fond mother's care.
We mourn for you and miss you in silence unseen,
And dwell in the memory of days that have been.

Inserted by her ever-loving daughters and sons, Mary, Emily, Albert, George, Thomas, William, and Ernest.

SALISBURY.—In sad but loving memory of my dear husband and our dear father, William Salisbury, who departed this life March 29, 1911.

Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Secret tears do often flow;
For memory keeps our dear one near us,
Though he died six years ago.
You are always in our thoughts, dear dad,
It is sweet to breathe your name;
In life we loved you dearly
In death we love the same.

Inserted by his loving wife, sons, and daughters, sons-in-law, and grandchildren.

SIMPSON.—In sad but loving memory of my dear husband and my father, David Simpson, who departed this life March 29, 1912.

One of the best that God could send,
Beloved by all, a faithful friend;
Called home from those who deeply love
To gain a glorious life above.
With aching hearts, with tearful eyes,
We linger where our dear one lies,
And breathe those sacred words once more,
Not lost, but only gone before.

Inserted by his loving wife and son, David.

VOSE.—In sad, but ever loving memory of our dear daughter, Isabella, who departed this life, at Sydney Hospital, March 29, 1915, age 18 years 11 months.

This is the day of remembrance to all;
This is the day that is sad to recall,
May heaven look down on those she has left,
And God in His mercy will answer the rest.

Inserted by her loving mother and father, Thomas and Isabella Vose.

VOSE.—In loving memory of my dear sister, Isabella, who departed this life on the 29th March, 1915.

No sympathy is needed now,
Your cares are all at rest;
But happy they who now can say,
They loved and served you best.

Inserted by her loving sister and brother-in-law, Alice and Alex; and niece, Findlay.

VOSE.—In sad, but ever loving memory of my dear sister, Isabella, who died March 29, 1915, age 18 years, 11 months.

She left her home, she thought for the best,
Never thinking death was near;
Not dreaming that she never would Return to her home again.
A painful shock, a dreadful blow;
Oh, dearest Isabella we miss you so.
Our loss is great, we'll not complain,
But trust in God to meet again.
Rest dearest Isabella, sweetly rest;
They miss you most who loved you best.

Inserted by her ever loving sister, Emma, and friends, A. Connor.

VOSE.—In sad, but ever loving memory of our dear sister, Isabella, who died March 29, 1915, age 18 years 11 months.

Although one year has now gone past,
Since that great sorrow fell;
Yet in our hearts we mourn the loss
Of one we loved so well.
The midnight stars are shining
On a silent grave,
There, sleeping, without dreaming,
Lies the one we could not save.

Inserted by her ever-loving sisters, Minnie, Pearl, Amy, Lily, and Ann.

VOSE.—In sad, but ever-loving memory of my dear sister, Isabella, who died March 29, 1915, age 18 years, 11 months.

It is just one year ago to-day,
Since darling Isabella passed away;
It is sad, yet true, we cannot tell why.
The good are the first that are called on to die.

Inserted by her ever-loving brother, John.

VOSE.—In sad, but ever-loving memory of my dear sister, Isabella, who died March 29, 1915, age, 18 years 11 months.

Her end was peace, she fell asleep,
On earth to wake no more;
There she sleeps, but never weeps,
Happy for evermore.

Inserted by her ever-loving brother and sister-in-law, Thomas and Ruby Vose.

VOSE.—In sad, but ever-loving memory of our dear granddaughter and niece, Isabella, who died March 29, 1915, age 18 years, 11 months.

We who loved you sadly miss you,
Though we know God knew the best,
When he eased your pain and sufferings,
And he laid you down to rest.
Time may pass, but memory lingers,
Around the grave not far away,
Where they laid our darling Isabella,
Just one year ago to-day.

Inserted by her ever-loving grandma, grandfather, and uncle, Albert Broom.

VOSE.—In loving memory of our dear niece, Isabella, who departed this life March 29, 1915. Rest in peace. Inserted by her loving uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Broom.

VOSE.—In sad, but ever-loving memory of my dear friend, Isabella, who died March 29, 1915, age 18 years, 11 months.

In life I loved you dearly,
In death I do the same.

Inserted by her ever-loving friend, Wally Franklin.

VOSE.—In loving remembrance of my dear mate, Isabel (Bella), who departed this life March 29, 1915, aged 18 years and 11 months.

Dearest Bella, you have left us,
We can see your dear face no more.
You have left this world of sorrow
For that bright and shining shore.
You are gone, Bell, but not forgotten;
Never shall your memory fade.
Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger
Round the spot where you are laid.
Many happy hours we spent together,
Your sweet face in memory still;
But death has left a vacant place
This world can never fill.

Inserted by her mate, Emily.

VOSE.—In loving remembrance of my dear friend, Bella, who departed this life March 29, 1915.

It's just twelve months ago to-day
Since my dear friend has passed away.

Inserted by her loving friend, Gladys Maddison.

VOSE.—In sad but loving memory of my dear friend, Bella, who departed this life March 29, 1915.

A better one God could not send—
A loving sister, daughter, and faithful friend.

Inserted by her sincere friend, Erskine R. S. Jackson.

WARD.—In loving memory of Willie Ward, who passed peacefully away March 29, 1915. Inserted by his loving father, mother, brothers, and sisters, also grandma and family.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 29, 1916.

THE ALLIED CONFERENCE.

The conference of the Allies at Paris will be held in circumstances very different from those surrounding any of the meetings of French and British Ministers by whom it has been arranged. At the last meeting of the combined War Councils in January the Allies could look back on a long vista of dangers escaped. There was no longer any serious risk of a disaster in Mesopotamia. The Allies had entrenched themselves in a strongly-fortified position at Salonica, which they were ready to hold against any contemplated attack. The Greeks, placed between fear of the future wrath of the Germans and the immediate pressure of the Mediterranean fleet, had decided to adopt a form of neutrality, which enabled General Sarrail to use their territory as he pleased. The Russians had already given proof both in Asia Minor and Galicia that their powers of recuperation had been undervalued by their enemies as well as by Mr. Lloyd George. But though many fears had been dissipated, there were few positive acts to justify the confidence which every Minister expressed as a matter of course. The Allies had still to believe in tendencies and potentialities which must be expressed in terms of a great victory before they could be expected to influence the mind of German, or even of neutral, subjects. In the interval the Allies have been supplied with definite facts sufficiently important to outweigh all the formulae of optimism. The capture of Erzerum has shown to the world how little Germany can do to help her vassals, and how all the fruits of the policy of the Emperor and his Chancellor are destined to be destroyed while she is occupied in an endeavour to maintain herself in Europe. The attack on Verdun has caused the most sceptical to believe that the prospects of German aggression are banished. The French have proved that the energy, the endurance, and the skill of their artisans are matched by the courage and stamina of their soldiers and the skill and originality of their generals. While deprived of the richest of their provinces, they have been able by stupendous exertions to place themselves on the same level as the nation which has been preparing for war while they have been absorbed in political and social disputes. While their soldiers have been earning for themselves the chief glories of the war, the movements of the British army have given an example of that unity of action which had been secured by the earlier military conferences. The extension of the British front, though planned before Verdun was attacked, has undoubtedly set many troops free for its defence. We shall not again find instances of failure of co-ordination such as those which led to the failure of the French advance last May. So far as the western front is concerned, though the French and British armies are separate and have separate positions, there is a complete unity of direction proceeding from the nation which still holds far the largest share of the front, and whose generals have so far shown by far the greatest aptitude for warfare.

The enumeration of these changes is enough to remind us that the movements of the Allied troops cannot depend on a conference arranged far ahead as this has been. They depend on the caprice of the enemy as long as he has the initiative, on the state of our preparations, and to some slight extent on the weather. Nor do we expect a conference of 37 delegates, representing eight sovereign States, to initiate any novel schemes of attack or defence. The most the delegates can do is to ratify the decisions of the military chiefs, to secure information as to the number of troops which each nation can place at the disposal of the War Council, and to discover the basis on which the spoils of victory may be allotted in the treaty of peace. Either of these three tasks would be of sufficient importance to justify this assemblage of delegates, with all its amazing parade of defences against an attempt to destroy so many statesmen by one blow. The conference will be, in the first place, a safeguard against the offers of peace which have been made already, and are bound to be repeated as the German case becomes more desperate. M. Sazonoff recently spoke of the offers made to Russia and rejected. We have tolerably good evidence that some sort of approach was made to Belgium, only to be repulsed by a repetition of assurances on the part of the Allies. All these overtures by Germany are based on a propaganda of slander which each of the Allies will be in a position to meet after the full disclosure possible in a conference such as this. Besides being fortified against the system of belittling one to the other the Allies will be able to meet suggestions that any of the Allies is preparing to aggrandise itself at the expense of the rest of the world after the conclusion of peace. The British delegates have to face the charge that their countrymen will let anyone else do the fighting so that they may annex the trade, a charge which has been sedulously advanced in Russia, France, and Italy, and will derive some support from the advocates of an Imperial Customs Union. The Russians have to show that they do not intend to seize the Dardanelles as a means of closing the Black Sea to all commerce but their own, a charge which has had considerable influence on Roumania and Greece. Declarations and decisions on these points will influence the immediate course of the war as doubts and reservations have certainly checked it in the past. But the decisions of the conference most eagerly anticipated will undoubtedly be those which have an immediate influence on military operations. The Conference will have to ratify the plans of the generals for greater unity of action in the movements of men and of material and, indeed of the money which is behind both alike. So far the Allies have been guided by separate conferences, by the French missions to Russia, by the visits of Generals Kitchener and Joffre to Italy, by the return visit of General Cadorna to London, and by the successive meetings of the War Council in London and Paris. The plans then made will now be ratified by the nations in conference. Their object will be to counter the German advantage of mobility by a unity of action which will subject the enemy to so many simultaneous attacks that he will lose all freedom of movement. The French have long ago realised that the battle of the Marne was won by simultaneous attacks of their armies along the whole line from Paris to Belfort. They will insist that the war can be ended only by the joint action of all their forces in the West, the East, in Italy, and in the Balkans. The French, by their own example, have taught mankind that a single nation, with vastly inferior forces, can fight a world of allies unless those allies have unity of leadership and purpose; and it will be the work of this conference to give the Allies just that additional strength which will complete the ruin of Germany.

CITY AND COUNTRY.

When it is stated that the population of the metropolis of this State is over three-quarters of a million, the natural impulse will be to think of the vast empty lands behind. Critics in the country will at once take up their parable, and the story of the octopus will be retold with fresh embellishments. But in fairness to Sydney the reminder should be offered that it is the principal city of Australia and represents in its trade and influence the resources of a continent. More than that; it bids fair to be the greatest port of the Pacific south of the Line, and is steadily extending its range of activity in an ocean destined to become the centre of gravity for the civilised world. If this is considered to be so much vain-glory, a study of our trade and shipping statistics will show how continuously the exports and imports have grown in each lustrum since a new beginning was made after the financial crisis of 1893. Nothing has been more wonderful in the history of recovery than the growth of Australian production and the realisation of Australia's wealth during the last quarter of a century; and in this view Sydney must be regarded as an expression or an evidence of the extraordinary resources of the Commonwealth. The city in this regard has simply responded to the needs of the country. It must be admitted that Labour policy has tended to cripple the producer and to aggrandise the city worker. An influence has been at work which tends to make lopsided a development that should quite naturally turn one of the finest harbours in the world into a great and growing city fit to take rank eventually with New York or any of the mighty centres of trade and traffic in Europe or America. This is undoubtedly the grave point for consideration when our statisticians give the figures of progress which otherwise are being used as an argument for repressing the metropolis instead of helping it to do its legitimate work as an outlet for the State's activities and as a profitable investment for its wealth. We look to the country with anxious solicitude in these days of war, because everything depends upon our ability to realise its resources against the coming restriction and depression, when the world will have to begin afresh the work of many centuries.

How can there be any controversy between the country and the city in such a crisis as the present one? There should only be thought and room for the kindliest sympathy, especially when common cause must be made against administrations like the Labour Government of Queensland which is laying heavy hands upon the main meat supply of the Commonwealth under the plea that it is acting in co-operation with the War Office. The excuse becomes too flimsy when we realise how socialism-run-mad is proving to be the policy of the caucus in the Northern State. But this same passion for hitting the so-called capitalist and monopolist is affecting us as a people right through the Commonwealth. Interference is evident everywhere; and the trades unions are adding insult to injury by strikes which are a disgrace to our patriotism and loyalty in time of war. Senator Pearce has denounced the investment of capital in directions not associated with his needs as War Minister and he speaks otherwise as though the Government could rightly lay hands upon every man's savings or acquisitions and dispose of them as it pleases. War, no doubt, will justify anything—except the destruction of confidence. A policy of State-forced industrialism would undoubtedly draw many more people to the city, if it could be continued; but the ultimate effect would be to drive capital out of the Commonwealth and bring the centres of population to the cruellest want. As regards the country production will languish and at last fail if Labour Governments continually spring surprises upon the unfortunate farmer and pastoralist. Already there are unrest and apprehension over the follies and obstinacies of Ministers who pose as experts in affairs for which their training and experience are practically minus quantities. How can we hope to bear our accumulating burdens under the present tendencies in legislation and administration? The country is our foundation and rock of defence. Upon it everything else rests, and our primary industries can alone save us in the times of trouble which are surely approaching. An overgrown city finds relief for its surplus souls on the land, and then responds to increased production by becoming greater than ever. That has been our experience since 1893. Now, however, in the supreme crisis in the world's history there is a move to reverse the process. Borrowed money is maintaining a prosperity which has been genuine enough up to the present, but which must become fictitious; and any expansion of secondary industries by its aid or against the will of investors will inevitably cause desperate trouble for the city and serious mischief for the country. These latest figures of Sydney's growth, therefore, are a warning, not that an octopus has grown greater, but that our politicians are now at the parting of the ways. They can precipitate ruin or open the way for a magnificent insurance against the evil days which will follow peace.

LIQUOR REFERENDUM.

During the debate in the Legislative Council last night on the second reading of the bill to provide for a referendum on the closing hour for liquor bars, exception was taken to the form of voting. There was little opposition to the referendum itself, though the feeling was general that the Government had put a rod in pickle for its own back. Members did not disguise their opinion that Mr. Holman and his colleagues had evaded rather than faced a manifest responsibility; but they could not see their way to help them further round the corner in the choice of hours. Only the method of voting, therefore, was left to challenge. Mr. Garland's criticism was no doubt sound enough in that the principle of preference is made to look somewhat foolish by allowing a plumping vote. The wish expressed was also reasonable that nothing should be permitted to make a costly referendum fruitless, as this conflict of preference and plumping may do. Whether a limited preference, or the South Australian method of an implied preference, would meet the difficulty we do not offer to decide; but the main thing for the Council to consider is how far any amendment to the bill will be advisable. Mr. Holman with half an excuse may refuse to go on with the measure, and then try to throw the responsibility upon the Council. Nothing could make the Government's position much worse than it is, and the Premier seems to live very much in the impulses of each day. Yet if amendments are thought to be worth while, would it not be well to extend the period over which the referendum is to operate? To make the result of the vote run with the period of the war seems absurd. It is something, no doubt, and ought not to be thrown away; but the greater difficulties of an open liquor bar will come with the end of the war and for some months afterwards. Even the publicans recognise this and have notified their willingness to accept 9 o'clock closing for a period including six months after peace has been proclaimed. Such an amendment could not very well be refused by the Government because the argument is so strong; while Ministers might insist that any alteration of the voting provisions was vital, just as they did when the original 10 o'clock proposals were altered by the Council to 9 o'clock and the bill then before Parliament was as good as slaughtered as the Houses adjourned. It is understood that Parliament is to rise again in another fortnight or so, and in the limited time available there may be risks with the loss of the referendum itself. In all the circumstances the less the present proposals are altered the better. But the lengthened period is another matter; and common sense suggests that Mr. Holman will recognise the need for an extension of time. If he believes in any reduction of hours, or in the people's determination to have a reduction, he will logically be bound to accept a Council amendment for making the benefit complete and for as long as our returning uninvalided soldiers are in uniform. At the worst the proposed extension could be included in the referendum, but anything that tends to complicate the reference to the electors should be avoided. The task of the Council is a delicate one in any case, and the community would rather have the referendum on the Government's terms than none at all. It will wait to settle conclusions with Ministers and the caucus later on.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

His Excellency the Governor, attended by Captain Firth, A.D.C., was present at the Millions Club lunch at Baumann's Cafe yesterday.

His Excellency the Governor presided at a special meeting of the Executive Council yesterday afternoon.

His Excellency the Governor, attended by Captain Firth, A.D.C., was present at the Royal Sydney Apollo Club's concert at the Conservatorium last night.

Colonel G. J. Burnage, C.B., V.D., returned to Newcastle last night, and was given a great reception by 4000 citizens.

Dr. Mackenzie, who is on his way to the front from the New Hebrides, and Mr. Dennis, inspector of schools for Lord Howe Island, were among the passengers by the steamer Makambo, which arrived from the New Hebrides, via Lord Howe and Norfolk islands, yesterday.

Bro. E. Ford, president of the Burwood D.F.S. Medical Institute, was last week presented by the members with an illuminated address as a mark of esteem. Mrs. Ford was presented with a silver tea and coffee service.

WELCOMING RETURNED SOLDIERS.

PERTH, Tuesday.

The Mayor of Perth is indignant at the Minister for Defence's refusal on the ground of discipline to restore to the local committee facilities for welcoming returned wounded soldiers at Fremantle. The Mayor adds that on one occasion the committee had to sell 28 dozen eggs sent in for the returned soldiers, owing to the authorities not letting the committee know on application when the boat with the wounded men on board was likely to call at Fremantle.

STRIKE.

AT COCKATOO ISLAND.

Sixty fitters at Cockatoo Island are on strike, owing to being unable to settle a demarcation dispute.

For some time past there has been trouble at the island between the plumbers and the engineers as to what constituted their respective work, and when some plumbers were put on to fix flange joints, the fitters took exception to them carrying out the job, and brought matters to a crisis by striking. The ironworkers' assistants, being unable to work without the fitters, were put off temporarily by the manager.

The men on strike are members of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, and although there are several hundred members of that body employed at the dock, it is not expected that the trouble will extend.

SMALL ARMS FACTORY.

EMPLOYEES' GRIEVANCES.

LITHGOW, Tuesday.

The members of the Small Arms Factory Union engaged on both night and day shifts held a meeting at the Trades Hall this morning, to consider what steps should be taken in regard to the refusal of the manager to submit certain grievances to arbitration. However, Mr. Henwood, of the Trades and Labour Council, was able to persuade the men to appoint two delegates to interview the Sydney Labour Council on Thursday night, with a request that two members should accompany them to Melbourne to place the matter before the Minister. This was ultimately agreed to, although not unanimously. The president (Mr. H. G. Ransley) and the secretary (Mr. A. H. Butler) were appointed. The Amalgamated Society of Engineers is not affected by the trouble. There appears to be every prospect of an amicable settlement.

Y.M.C.A.

FUNDS NEEDED FOR WORK IN EGYPT.

According to the latest advices received from Egypt, the Y.M.C.A. was running a large outfit in the Moascar Camp. The outfit included a picture theatre and boxing stadium, and the Australians and New Zealanders cheered the Y.M.C.A. for coming to their camp.

Mr. Jessop, the general secretary, Y.M.C.A., at Cairo, in writing to Mr. Gillanders, says:—"Wherever there are soldiers we would like to have the Y.M.C.A. I know Australia appreciates what we are doing; we will guarantee to spend every penny sent us as a sacred trust for the good of Australian soldiers."

NATURALISATION.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

It was stated to-day by the Minister for External Affairs and Acting Attorney-General (Mr. Mahon) that very early in the approaching sitting of the Federal Parliament it will be necessary to pass a new Naturalisation Act to bring Australian naturalisation in line with the new Imperial legislation. Provision would be made for the compulsory registration of all foreigners entering the Commonwealth. It is probable that in the new law provision will be made enabling the widows of foreigners to regain their Australian status. One of the benefits of the Imperial legislation being adopted in the Dominion will be that naturalisation in any Dominion will extend throughout the Empire.

STEEL HELMETS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

It was stated by the Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) to-day that steel helmets are not to be issued to Australian troops by the Defence Department. If any extra equipment was considered necessary it would be issued by the British authorities.

WOUNDED IN FRANCE.

JUNEE, Tuesday.

Word has been received to the effect that Staff-sergeant Frederick Cole, of Junee, has been wounded in France, and is now in Southend Hospital.

ANZAC DAY.

GOVERNMENT PROPOSALS.

RECRUITING EFFORT.

The Premier, Mr. Holman, stated yesterday that the Government had had under consideration the most fitting way of celebrating the anniversary of April 25, 1915, a day that will go down in history as Anzac Day.

"I see no reason," said Mr. Holman, "why this movement should not be taken up throughout Australia, as was done on Australia Day, but also in New Zealand. It is in celebration of the one day in which every State, and not only every State, but every town and village, almost every family, is indissolubly interested. The Government has decided to invite the heads of the churches to hold a memorial service at some hour to be arranged on April 25 throughout the length and breadth of the State. In Sydney such celebration might be held in Martin-place, or, if that be considered not to afford ample accommodation, in one of our larger open air spaces. All business might well be suspended for an hour on Anzac Day, say from 12.30 to 1.30 p.m., thus enabling the commemoration to be held simultaneously at 1 o'clock. Trains, trams, boats, and, in fact, all traffic might cease for a minute on the stroke of one as a tribute to the fallen dead.

"It has been suggested that during the day subscriptions could be invited and street collections made towards a fund to build an Anzac Memorial Hall, to be used as a permanent Soldiers' Club. The walls would be covered with tablets inscribed with the name of every Australian soldier who had fallen, while bronzes might record the names of men who have earned decorations and other distinctions by their heroic actions.

"After thus marking the solemn nature of the anniversary, attention will be devoted to making Anzac Day a record in the way of recruiting. The city will be illuminated, and offers have been received from 5000 returned soldiers to act as recruiting speakers. In fact, the whole of the arrangements will be in the hands of the Returned Soldiers' Association, the men, above all others, who have a personal interest in the day.

"The official rooms in connection with the commemoration have been established at Anzac Corner, King and Elizabeth streets, and I am sure the proposal has only to be put forward to win the warmest and most sympathetic co-operation of, not only all who are associated by family ties with men who have gone to the front, but of every Australian whose heart has been thrilled by the tale of what our men did on that memorable Sunday 12 months ago."

RIOTOUS GERMANS.

NAVAL RESERVISTS INTERNED.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

As a result of the inquiry by the Defence authorities into the case of the three German reservists who figured in the recent disturbance at Culcairn, the men are to be interned. In referring to the case to-day, the Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) explained that at the outbreak of war instructions were given for the detention of enemy reservists, but later on authority was given to State commandants to release any thought not to be dangerous on condition that they reported to the police every week.

THE V.C.

LONESOME PINE HEROES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Lance-Corporal Alexander Burton, of Euroa, was one of the small band of Australians who worked with Captain Tubb and Sergt. Dunstan to hold a trench at Lonesome Pine against the Turkish fire. When Captain (then lieutenant) Tubb called for volunteers to go back with him, young Burton, who was only 22 years of age, sprang instantly to the call. Time after time he was thrown down by falling sandbags, but was on his feet again the next moment, rebuilding the parapets. At last he was struck by a shell, and was killed instantly.

For his gallantry the Victoria Cross was conferred upon him, and the following autograph letter has been received from King George by his father:—"It is a matter of sincere regret to me that the death of Corporal Alexander Stewart Burton has deprived me of the pride of personally conferring on him the V.C.—the greatest of all military distinctions. George, R.I."

The Victoria Cross was sent to Mr. Burton with the letter. It will be remembered that Captain Tubb and Sergt. Dunstan have also received the V.C.

"KEEP TRUCKS MOVING."

APPEAL TO THE RAILWAY STAFF.

A direct personal appeal has been made by the Railway Commissioners, through the Secretary for Railways, Mr. J. S. Spurway, to every railway employee in the State, to "keep the trucks moving." A circular issued yesterday enjoins the whole railway staff in the following terms:—

"In view of the fact that over 12,000,000 bags of wheat are stacked in country depots, to be despatched to the seaboard; that the goods business continues brisk; and that, owing to drought conditions, starving stock in great numbers must be moved from their home pastures to areas where feed is obtainable, every railway employee is again directed to use his utmost effort to keep trucks moving.

"All loaded waggons must be unloaded without delay, and empties not immediately required despatched without loss of time to stations where loading is available.

"Traffic in transit must not be delayed by any unnecessary shunting.

"Goods waggons used for departmental purposes must be immediately reduced to the lowest possible number.

"Every possible effort must be made to prevent delays to trains in motion."

WAGGA SEAT.

FARMERS FAVOUR MR. BEEBY.

WAGGA, Tuesday.

There would appear to be every prospect of a split between the Liberals and Progressives in connection with the proposal to have Wagga grouped with the seats to be contested by the Liberals. Strong feeling prevails amongst farmers in the matter, and it was heatedly discussed at a meeting of the Wagga branch of the F. and S. Association. A motion was carried, "That this branch requests the district council to collaborate with the district council of the Liberal Association for the purpose of calling delegates from their various branches to Wagga, requesting whether Wagga should be proclaimed a Liberal or Progressive seat, and that the executive in Sydney be asked not to take further action until the local bodies had considered the matter." The opinion was expressed at the meeting that unless the electorate was declared Progressive, and Mr. Beeby nominated, it would mean another triumph for Labour.

QUEENSLAND PREMIER.

VISIT TO AMERICA.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

The Premier (Mr. Ryan) left Brisbane to-day by mail train for Sydney, where he will board the steamer Ventura for San Francisco. A meeting of the Cabinet was held to-day to deal with routine business during the Premier's absence. The position of Chief Secretary will be separated from the Premiership, and Mr. Hunter will act as Chief Secretary in the Works Office. Mr. Theodore will be Acting Premier and Acting Attorney-General, in addition to carrying on the administration of the Treasury and Works Department.

BULK HANDLING.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The introduction of a system for the bulk handling of wheat in Victoria is recommended by the experts of John S. Metcalf and Co., Ltd., who were appointed by the Government to submit a report on the question.

THE WEST

BRITISH GAIN.

GENERAL ACTIVITY.

SALONICA.

GERMAN AIR RAID.

General Sir Douglas Haig states that a successful assault was made on a German salient at St. Eloi, second-line trenches being taken by the British on a front of 600 yards.

A French communique states that there is great activity all along the line. An attempted coup-de-main by the Germans between the Somme and the Aisne failed.

There have been intense bombardments of the positions on both sides of the Meuse, in the Verdun region.

Desperate fighting is reported from the eastern front. There is increased aerial activity on the part of the Germans on the Dvinsk front.

An Amsterdam message states that 112 trains passed through Liege in a single day, with troops for the Russian front.

Sanguinary fighting is taking place on the Italian front, with varied success.

Five enemy aeroplanes made an early morning raid on Salonica. Eighteen civilians were killed and 21 wounded.

Several more vessels have been sunk by German submarines, including the Atlantic liner Minneapolis.

The Allies' War Congress has opened in Paris. Thirty-seven delegates, representing eight nations, are taking part.

ITALIAN FRONT.

HEAVY LOSSES.

SANGUINARY FIGHTING.

ROME, March 28.

The following communique has been issued: We captured strong entrenchments at Solleto, Freikofel, and Cavallo Pass, taking prisoners. A sanguinary 30 hours' fight at Palpiccolo led to the temporary loss of a position which our infantry recaptured at the bayonet's point. Hundreds of enemy corpses strewed the ground.

Our anti-aircraft guns on the Isonzo brought down three aeroplanes, and five airmen were made prisoners. The commander of the squadron was killed.

AUSTRIAN STATEMENT.

An Austrian communique states: After severe fighting at the Gorizia bridgehead, we captured the whole of the enemy position on the front of the northern portion of the Podgora heights, taking 525 prisoners.

SALONICA.

AN AIR RAID.

EIGHTEEN CIVILIANS KILLED.

SALONICA, March 27.

Five aeroplanes at dawn raided the city and ceased for half-an-hour. Eighteen civilians were killed and 21 wounded. Many of the inhabitants became panic-stricken and fled into the country.

Two of the raiding aeroplanes were brought down.

A large Bulgarian munitions depot in the Middino district was blown up. One hundred and fifty persons were killed or injured.

PRINCE BUELOW.

RECALL TO HEADQUARTERS.

IS THE CHANCELLOR RESIGNING?

LONDON, March 28.

The "Daily Chronicle's" Geneva correspondent states that the hasty recall of Prince Buelow to the German Emperor's headquarters is regarded as confirming the report that the Chancellor (Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg) is resigning owing to a grave dispute with the Emperor.

TURKEY'S IMPENDING RUIN.

The correspondent further states that the Turkish Minister o' Finance announces the imminent bankruptcy of Turkish banks and the total ruin of Turkish financial and commercial undertakings.

Turkey's requests to Germany for financial aid, it is added, have been ignored.

WESTERN FRONT.

BRITISH LINE.

IMPORTANT GAIN.

GENERAL HAIG'S REPORT.

LONDON, March 28.

General Sir Douglas Haig reports: We have carried out successful crater fighting near Hohenzollern redoubt. The enemy opposite Hulluch exploded mines, damaging our trenches. There were some casualties. We established ourselves in the crater.

The Northumberland Fusiliers and the Royal Fusiliers after a mine explosion assaulted a German salient at St. Eloi successfully, taking second line trenches along a front of six hundred yards. The enemy sustained heavy casualties. We took 169 prisoners.

GERMAN REPORT.

A Berlin wireless message says: A British mine damaged our position at St. Eloi, blowing up over 100 yards of trenches and causing casualties. The English again shelled Lens.

INTENSE BOMBARDMENTS

GENERAL ACTIVITY.

PARIS, March 28.

A communique has been issued as follows:—

After an intense bombardment between the Somme and the Aisne, the enemy attempted a coup-de-main on our front line, but it completely failed.

Our big guns dispersed marching troops in the direction of Ekermont and Chatel, in the Argonne, and blew up an ammunition depot.

There was an intense bombardment west of the Meuse, between Bethincourt, Morthomme, and Camieres, also east of the Meuse, in the region of Vaux and Douaumont.

Further south we bombarded, at long range, enemy depots at Heudicourt, south of Vigneulles, and demolished a string of trucks, and ignited a building.

A French communique issued last night stated: There were no infantry actions to-night. There was a vigorous bombardment, with mining activity, in the Argonne and Woevre.

VERDUN.

ANOTHER RHEIMS.

Mr. Simms, correspondent of the United Press of America, who visited the Verdun front, states that the Germans are bent on the destruction of the city. They daily hurl 350 of the largest incendiary shells on business and residential districts, where several fires are raging simultaneously. Verdun is becoming another Reims and Arras. The scene was gripping in its awfulness, the conflagration of the city being accompanied by a deafening roar. The crest of Douaumont, which the French are shelling resembles Vesuvius. German shells exploding on the southern slopes flash out like smoke geysers. The officers say they ask for nothing better than that the Germans will continue their attacks, as each attack increases the losses. The Verdun sector is like a gigantic ant hill, on which men and transports swarm unceasingly day and night. French guns and munitions seem to be unlimited.

THE AIR RAID.

SCHLESWIG-HOLSTEIN ATTACK

COPENHAGEN, March 27.

The "Politiken" estimates that five German cruisers, twenty destroyers, five battle aeroplanes, and a Zeppelin took part in the engagement in connection with the British air raid on Schleswig-Holstein. The crew of the Siedding flightship state that aeroplane shells destroyed a British torpedo boat.

Travellers from Schleswig-Holstein state that the British burned a granary at Randerup, and smashed up a large German battle-plane. They also dropped bombs on Hoyei (near Tondern) and also on Tondern.

GERMAN VERSION.

A Berlin wireless message says: The British naval forces carried out an aeroplane attack on the North Frisian coast, but it failed completely. Two armed German fishing steamers on outpost service fell victims. Our naval aeroplanes attacked and scored a number of hits, seriously damaging a British destroyer. We immediately sent out a few torpedo destroyers, but they only came into touch with the retreating enemy. One of these torpedo destroyers has not yet returned.

THE GREIF.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION.

SUPPOSED CARGO OF MINES.

LONDON, March 28.

The Andes, one of the Alcantara's consorts, participated in the fight with the German light cruiser Greif.

The Andes was dexterously handled. She evaded the torpedoes and rained shells upon the raider. When the latter was beaten a British light cruiser appeared, and at a long distance picked up the range with precision.

The raider was soon afire fore and aft, and blew up with a terrific noise. It is supposed that she was carrying a cargo of mines.

[The Andes is a vessel of 15,620 tons, and is the largest of the Pacific Steam Navigation Company's fleet. When she was completed in 1913 by Messrs. Harland and Wolff, of Belfast, she was the largest mail steamer engaged in the South American service. Like the Alcantara, she contained elaborate passenger accommodation, the dining saloon seating 370 people.]

GERMAN DENIAL.

Germany officially denies the loss of a submarine in the Greif engagement.

MERCHANT SHIPPING.

LONDON, March 27.

The R.M.S. Medina, which left Sydney on February 16, has arrived at Marseilles. The brigantine Geneva has left Puget Sound for Sydney.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LONDON, March 28.

Thirty thousand jute workers at Dundee have struck work for an increase of 15 per cent. in their pay.

DUBLIN, March 28.

The military authorities have ordered the expulsion from Ireland of three prominent members of the organisation Sinn Fein.

EASTERN FRONT.

DESPERATE FIGHTING.

GERMAN AERIAL ACTIVITY.

PETROGRAD, March 28.

A communique reports increased German aerial activity on the Dvinsk front. We dropped twenty bombs on Dvinsk. We captured after a desperate struggle two lines of trenches west of Postavy. The enemy is obstinately resisting our offensive between the Narotch and Vischenevskoe Lakes.

One of our submarines, under battery fire at Zunguldak, sank a steamer which was towing a string of coal-laden barges.

GERMAN STATEMENT.

LONDON, March 27.

A Berlin wireless message states: The Russians with unprecedented numbers of men and munitions violently attacked Marshal von Hindenburg's armies north-west of Jacobstadt. The Russians suffered enormous losses. Similar unsuccessful attacks were made at Postavy (50 miles south of Dvinsk). After strong attacks by portions of three Russian army corps south of Narotch Lake, the West Prussians in a counter-attack recaptured artillery observation positions lost on the 20th, capturing 21 officers and 2,140 men.

War experts in London point out that the Berlin wireless speaks of the Russian advance at Jacobstadt without claiming that the attack was repulsed. They suggest that the communique is preparing the Germans for news of a Russian success.

FOR RUSSIA.

GERMAN TROOPS FROM WEST.

AMSTERDAM, March 27.

One hundred and twelve trains passed through Liege towards Russia in a single day. Practically all the Landsturm troops in Belgium have gone to assist in repelling the Russian attacks.

THE CAUCASUS.

PETROGRAD, March 28.

A communique states: Our troops on the coast dislodged the Turks and crossed to the left bank of the Baltatchi Darassi, which falls into the Black Sea.

PARIS CONGRESS.

HISTORIC MEETING.

EIGHT NATIONS REPRESENTED

PARIS, March 28.

Thirty-seven delegates, representing eight nations are participating in the War Congress which has been opened here.

Intense interest is evinced as the conference is expected to evolve co-ordinated plans of supreme importance to future operations.

At the conclusion of the Paris conference Mr. Asquith will go to Rome, where a further conference will be held next week. Possibly Mr. Lloyd George will accompany him.

The "Daily Telegraph's" correspondent at Paris says that what will prove a historic conference is being held at the Quai d'Orsay, in the same room as the congress of Paris in 1856, where the Crimean War Treaty was drawn up. It is understood that the conference will provisionally consider the economic war question, thus laying down broad lines for the purely economic conference next month.

MR. BONAR LAW.

LONDON, March 27.

Some express the opinion that the sending of Mr. Bonar Law (Secretary for the Colonies) to the Economic Conference in Paris is part of a concession to Mr. Hughes's demand for a colonial representative. Others think that it was intended to cut away Mr. Hughes's claim to attend.

Ministerial circles declare that all along it was intended that Mr. Bonar Law should attend the Economic Conference. A misapprehension arose through Mr. Lloyd George stating that Mr. Runciman (President of the Board of Trade) would be the principal delegate.

CANADA AND AUSTRALIA.

LONDON, March 27.

Sir Samuel Hughes (Canadian Minister for Defence), when interviewed, recalled his pleasant visit to Australia in 1897. "Yours is a grand country," he went on "and it has produced great men. The Canadians knew your boys would come along. We are all in it heart and soul. The whole purpose of my visit to England is to look after our boys. They are keen on trimming the Germans. We gladly welcomed my namesake, your Prime Minister, when passing through Canada. We agree with his outspoken remarks on Empire questions. Canada in many respects looks to Australia, and is eager to learn any lesson, especially about the defence of your big island, that Australia can teach us. When the war is over and the process of welding the Empire closer together is going on, it is just possible I may visit Australia."

AN AIR BOARD.

ADVOCATED BY LORD SYDENHAM.

LONDON, March 28.

Lord Sydenham, in the "Times," advocates the appointment of an Air Board on the lines of the old Ordnance Board.

The air service, he says, should be able to act as a separate arm and develop its own school of scientific thought and systems of strategy.

TWENTY VESSELS SUNK.

SINCE GERMANY'S OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

LONDON, March 27.

Since the 16th instant, when the German official statement—"our submarine campaign is now in full swing"—was made, twenty vessels have been sunk, apart from the Sussex. Of these vessels 10 were British, two French, two Dutch, four Norwegian, and two Danish.

SUBMARINES.

ATLANTIC LINER SUNK.

ELEVEN LIVES LOST.

LONDON, March 27.

The Atlantic Transport Company's steamer Minneapolis has been sunk.

Eleven persons were killed. The rest were rescued.

The 25 Americans aboard are safe. One hundred and sixty-three of the crew have been landed at Malta.

[The Minneapolis was built in 1900 by Harland and Wolff, Ltd., Belfast, for the Atlantic Transport Company, Ltd. She was a steel twin-screw, four-masted steamer of 13,543 tons. She was 600ft 7in long, 65ft 8in beam, and 29ft 7in draught. She was fitted with wireless and submarine signalling apparatus. Her port of registry was Belfast.]

OTHER VESSELS SUNK.

Lloyd's report that the steamers Hebe and Cerne, and the fishing boat Khartoum have been sunk. It is believed that nine persons aboard the Khartoum and eight on the Hebe were drowned.

LONDON, March 28.

The sailing ship Harriet has been sunk. The crew were landed safely.

The steamer Manchester Engineer has been torpedoed and sunk. The crew were saved.

[The Manchester Engineer was a steamer of 4302 tons, owned by the Manchester Liners, Ltd. She was built in 1902 by the Northumberland Shipbuilding Company, Ltd., Newcastle.]

THE SUSSEX.

AMERICAN'S STATEMENT.

An American passenger testified at the inquest on the Sussex victims that many of the lifebelt tapes were rotten and useless.

The mails on the Sussex, half of which are believed to have been lost, included Australian and New Zealand matter.

GERMANY'S ATTITUDE.

WASHINGTON, March 28.

The Associated Press correspondent announces authoritatively that Germany believes the Sussex was mined. If she was torpedoed, Germany is prepared to disavow the act, and punish the commander.

The correspondent states that Count Bernstorff had a good deal to do with the retirement of Grand Admiral von Tirpitz, whose views on submarine warfare conflicted with his own.

INSTANT ACTION.

DEMAND BY AMERICAN PRESS

The American press demands instant action against Germany, but the State Department refuses to be hurried. It is not thought that President Wilson will take any action beyond sending a Note of protest to Germany.

WASHINGTON, March 27.

If it is proved that a submarine sank the Sussex the State Department will ask Germany to disavow the act, offer reparation, and punish the submarine commander. The Republican newspapers describe this as farcical.

ACUTE SITUATION.

The Paris edition of the New York "Herald" asks President Wilson respectfully how many Americans must be killed before the United States declares war on Germany. The journal orders the immediate seizure of ships interned in United States ports.

It is reported from Washington that the situation is acute. The Government is endeavouring to determine beyond doubt how the Sussex and the Englishman were destroyed. Following a conference between President Wilson and Mr. Lansing (Secretary of State), a high official stated that diplomatic relations would probably be broken off if it is proved that the Sussex was torpedoed. Before taking any action, President Wilson will lay the situation before Congress, as the breaking off of diplomatic relations would probably mean war.

NEUTRALS INDIGNANT.

There is growing disgust in the United States, Holland, Denmark, and Scandinavia owing to the revelation of Germany's intentions to stop British trade regardless of neutral nations.

Danish telegrams describe a German submarine of a size and speed hitherto unknown, which was seen after the torpedoing of the Norwegian barque Lindfield. It took the crew of 30 aboard for four days until another Norwegian barque was sighted. The submarine's crew totalled 80.

Scandinavian newspapers point out that Germany has destroyed 96 Norwegian steamers during the war, of which 20 were torpedoed. Germany has only compensated Norway in respect of four vessels. Sweden has lost 40 ships, and 128 Swedes have lost their lives.

The indignation has been increased by reports of rejoicings in Germany over the torpedoing of the Sussex, on the ground that it is the first time a submarine has penetrated that part of the Channel and escaped.

RESCUE SHIP.

AMSTERDAM, March 27.

The Dutch Government has stationed the Atlas a specially equipped rescue ship, near the Noordhinder lightship.

THE TUBANTIA.

AMSTERDAM, March 28.

Experts have conclusively proved that the Dutch liner Tubantia was sunk by a German torpedo.

ROBBERIES.

The residence of Norah Cavanagh, 34 Lauder-street, Redfern, was entered between 1 and 2 p.m. on March 27 by forcing the lock on a back door, and jewellery and money, valued in all at £18, was stolen.

A diamond ring, valued at £10, was stolen from off a dresser in the kitchen at 18 Grafton-street, Balmain, on Sunday. Entrance was gained through a kitchen door left open.

ABSORBING UNEMPLOYED.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

In connection with his recent announcement that work would be found for 1000 men, Mr. Adamson (Minister for Railways) said yesterday that 495 were absorbed in various works last week, and another 400 were to be engaged in various places in the southern and central districts. All these men would be engaged in works which would be ultimately reproductive, and some of them almost immediately.

WAR NOTES.

A LOCAL BRITISH SUCCESS.

There has been a break in the long spell of artillery work and bombing forays on the British section of the western front. General Haig reports that "the Northumberland Fusiliers and the Royal Fusiliers, after a mine explosion, assaulted the German salient at St. Eloi, and took the first and second line of trenches over a front of 600 yards." For a local operation this is an important result—but it must not be regarded in any other light than a purely local affair. There is nothing in it to suggest that the British are about to take up the offensive, and are going to attempt to make a big eastward advance. St. Eloi is a couple of miles south of Ypres, and is just at the point where the Ypres salient ends and the line resumes its general southward trend. Thus, St. Eloi is itself in turn the apex of a small German salient. There has always been more or less danger of the Germans attempting to squeeze in the British line at the northern and southern extremities of the Ypres salient, thus tending to make the curve of our line which swings round Ypres more and more acute, and rendering our position within the curve quite untenable. The way to avert such a danger is, of course, for ourselves to seek to widen the flanks of our salient, and the St. Eloi fight was entered upon with just such an object. The farther General Haig can drive back the German line here the less chance has the enemy of catching Ypres between the jaws of a great pair of pincers as it were. No details of the fight are accorded us, but it seems to have been well planned, and the fact that such a length of the second line of trenches was taken clearly shows how successful it was. A section of front trenches can generally be taken by either side if it cares to make the effort; but such an effort, stopping there, is more or less an unprofitable business, the position won being always extremely difficult to maintain. If, however, the first and second line can be taken on a fairly wide front there is a good chance of consolidating the new position and sticking to it; but the taking of the second line is naturally an infinitely more difficult proposition than the first. The German report in this case, by the way, seems to be literally true as far as it goes. It says that the British blew up over 100 yards of their trenches, and "caused casualties," but it says not a word about the infantry attack and the loss of either first or second line trenches that followed. This half-truth is a frequent characteristic of official reports—and we are sadly afraid is not confined to the German side alone.

CANNONADING ELSEWHERE.

As for the remainder of the battle-line in the west, nothing of outstanding importance has occurred. Cannonading appears to be still the order of the day all along the front. The Germans, however, have launched one infantry attack south of the Somme. This was a complete failure, but, in any case, such an effort would be of no more than local significance. The infantry lull at Verdun continues, though we have no reason to believe that the final German effort has been made there. In the meantime the enemy are unmercifully battering the town of Verdun itself. Their big guns have been within range of the place for a good many weeks now, and it was reported some time ago that they had commenced to pitch shells into it. Doubtless a desultory bombardment has been in progress ever since, the object being to work confusion in the transport of French supplies up to the front east of the Meuse, the whole of which has to go through Verdun. But now, apparently, the Germans are bent upon the complete destruction of the town, and they are hurling great quantities of incendiary shell into it; so that ere long Verdun will take its place with Arras and Ypres, which have been practically demolished by the Teutonic gunners. But, though the town be laid flat, this will profit the enemy but little, and, from all appearances, they will be held well away from its ruins, just as they have, despite their utmost efforts, been kept out of flattened Ypres and Arras.

FROM WEST TO EAST.

An Amsterdam message states that 112 military trains have passed through Liege towards Russia in a single day, the suggestion being that very big German reinforcements are hurrying to the east. It is added that practically all the landsturm troops in Belgium have gone to assist in repelling the Russian attacks. We have long since grown suspicious of the reports of big transfers of German troops eastward or westward. If we were to believe half of them the German army would be spending its time flitting from place to place, and we would be rather at a loss as to who was doing all the big fighting on their side. Many of these reports about the shifting of troops have been deliberately set on foot by the Germans themselves; but others have been the outcome of quite explicable exaggerations by unmilitary observers. The movement of a comparatively small body of troops by railway makes a very considerable display, and it is apt to impress people who are not acquainted with the carrying capacity of military trains. A German division, for example, would require something like sixty trains for its conveyance, and if an ordinary civilian witnessed the transport of such a body of troops he would as likely as not greatly overestimate the number of trains, and he would certainly overestimate the number of troops involved. If the Germans really were despatching army corps to the eastern front, then we could reasonably assume that their offensive in the west was drawing to a close, for, with the losses they have sustained in their long-drawn-out and bloody efforts at Verdun, they are certainly not in a position greatly to depiete their western numbers if a continuance of the offensive on anything like its original scale is contemplated. The position in Russia may be growing critical for the Germans, but the cabled reports do not suggest that any sweeping movements are yet beginning to develop there. The general assumption is that the Russians are not yet quite ready for a really big offensive; and, if they are, then it comes as a very pleasurable surprise from our point of view.

MISLEADING REPORTS.

This morning's cables bring us no nearer a definite idea of what actually took place off the German coast on Friday and Saturday; so we must still await some authoritative and connected story. Turning to another recent event in the North Sea, it would now appear that the account issued by the Press Bureau in regard to the naval action in which the Alcantara and the Greif were sunk, was distinctly misleading. If this morning's cables are to be believed, then it was not a case of a duel at all. The Greif, through the main portion of the action, fought not only the auxiliary cruiser Alcantara, but her sister ship, the 15,300-ton Andes, and, towards the end, a regular British cruiser came up and "picked up the range with precision"—and soon after the Greif blew up. A message received on Monday, which was passed by the English censorship, said: "A fantastic German version of the affair states that the Greif fought three British cruisers and one destroyer; the Grief torpedoed a great 15,000-ton cruiser and finally blew herself up." In the light of this morning's news there is very little that is fantastic about this version. The Greif actually was engaged with three cruisers—two of them were certainly converted cruisers, but cruisers they were—and we have already been told that immediately after the action a British destroyer sank a German submarine, so that one of our small craft was actually on the scene. It is to be regretted that the German communique was not allowed to stand just as it was, without the comment about it being fantastic. There are very many occasions when that adjective can with truth be applied to German official reports; but this was not one of them, and if the English censors were in possession of the broad facts of the action, as presumably they were, they might well have deleted the comment, which conveyed a wholly wrong impression. And in this case also the Official Press Bureau is certainly to be blamed for telling only half the story, for incidents of the kind only lead to distrust of their communiques generally.

THE SOUTH POLE.

RELIEF EXPEDITION.

MEETING IN LONDON.

LONDON, March 27.

A meeting of the officials representatives of the Shackleton expedition, at which Lady Shackleton and Mrs. Mackintosh were present, considered Lieut. Stenhouse's report, and decided that steps must immediately be taken to organise a relief expedition to rescue the explorers left in the Ross Sea. Attempts are being made to send wireless instructions to Lieut. Stenhouse to forward, at the earliest moment, details of stores and sledging equipment landed from the Aurora.

Until the Endurance has been spoken, and it is ascertained whether the Shackleton party are aboard or whether they landed in the Weddell Sea for the trans-continental march, it could not be decided whether a second relief ship would be required.

It was announced that the news of the disaster was immediately communicated to the King, and the fullest facts were placed before the Government and the Geographical Society.

Many messages of sympathy have been received from all over the world.

MESSAGE FROM THE AURORA.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Acting Prime Minister (Senator Pearce) received the following wireless message to-day from Commander J. R. Stenhouse, R.N.R., chief officer of the Aurora, which is returning from the Antarctic:—"Greetings to yourself and the Australian people from the Aurora." The message was despatched at 4 o'clock this morning from Awarua.

A reply was sent by Senator Pearce in these words: "Greetings reciprocated. Trust soon to welcome you."

BREAD AND FLOUR.

FEDERAL BOARD.

APPLICATION BY BAKERS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Commonwealth Prices Adjustment Board sat to-day at Federal Parliament House, and gave consideration to applications by the Master Bakers' Association of Victoria and the Victorian branch of the Federated Bread Carters' Union to be heard at an early date in regard to the price of bread. The master bakers asked that the over the counter price should first be determined.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the chairman (Mr. J. H. Catts, M.P.) stated it had been decided that the board should hear the evidence of the master bakers, commencing to-morrow. The bread carters had signified that they had no objection to the over the counter price for bread being determined before the price of delivered bread was fixed. The board would fix the over the counter price first, but the evidence of master bakers would be taken under both headings. It was resolved that meetings of the board should be open to the press, confidence to be respected where asked for. The secretary of the Master Bakers' Association requested that he should be permitted to act as agent or advocate for the master bakers. The board decided that no representatives or advocates would be allowed to appear before it, but that it would hear evidence from any material witness.

Attention was given by the board to a scheme submitted by the chairman for expeditiously dealing with the work of fixing the prices of flour and bread throughout Australia. The board decided to make a recommendation to the Government in this respect. This—the first report of the board—was submitted to the Minister in time for the Cabinet meeting held during the afternoon.

It is considered by the board that if this scheme is adopted its work will be appreciably advanced. Sittings of the board will be continued during the week in Melbourne.

AFTER THE WAR.

AUSTRALIA'S FUTURE.

SPEECH BY SENATOR PEARCE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In the course of a speech at the A.N.A. social at Camberwell to-night the Acting Prime Minister (Senator Pearce) said that when the war closed new possibilities would be open to Australia—possibilities of advancement and of peril. The people must set about the utilisation of their resources. If this were done they would get the population that would hold this country for the British people. They must extend their industries, both in number and in the directions in which they had already been established. Great Britain had failed to recognise that it was a national duty to organise her commerce so as to make her independent. The war found the British nation absolutely unorganised. Australia was to some extent organised. Some people were saying that as Australia was before the war so it should be afterwards. He did not think that Australians would agree to that, but that they would continue to be an organised nation. If they were going to be an organised nation it followed that some of the people were going to lose some of the privileges which they possessed before the war. If there was disorganisation it meant that some people would have advantages for private profit which they could not obtain under organisation. The keen-brained man looked round for a field of enterprise, and found it in disorganisation. Did they think that after the marvellous organisation which Mr. Lloyd George had built up in Great Britain the people would go back to the state of affairs that existed before the war? (Hear, hear.)

There was a lesson to be learnt from Germany, he said, so far as its commercial and industrial organisation was concerned. All nations were keen on organisation, and some of them would be competitors with Australia. Australia should be fitted to stand up against them, whether it was in commercial or military warfare. There were two or three lines of development which appeared to stand out. As to the railways policy of Australia, no one could claim that it had been directed on national lines. Germany's railways had been built not merely for the purpose of developing the country, but for its defence. With the lessons of the war staring them in the face, they could not disregard this question as well as those relating to land and mines. (Hear, hear.)

Capital and labour, the Minister added, would be required to develop the country. Was the nation to stand by and leave it to the will of those who had capital to say when, where, and how development should take place? It was obvious that Germany had utilised her commercial power to buttress her military power. When the war came along there was no disruption. Commerce and industry were linked up for military purposes. Of course Australia could say that it refused to follow these lines. Then it would pay the penalty. Clearly they would have to face an entirely new set of economic facts after the war. The nation that did not set its compass to the new conditions was going out. The nation that did this most effectively would be the nation of the future. (Hear, hear.)

PETROL SCANDAL.

Royal Commission.

ALLEGED CORRUPT OFFER.

MR. JUSTICE PRING TO INQUIRE.

What the Premier referred to as "an astounding development" occupied the attention of the Legislative Assembly yesterday afternoon as soon as the House met.

According to Mr. Holman's speech, an allegation had been made that there had been an attempt to illicitly obtain large sums of money from the British Imperial Oil Co., Ltd., with which the State Government has been negotiating in connection with the establishment of a proposed State monopoly for the supply within the State of petrol and such spirit. Part of the scheme was that the company's local plant and machinery was to be purchased, and that the company should make regular supplies from across the seas of such petrol as was required from time to time by the Government in carrying on the monopoly.

The supplies by the company each year would run into a considerable figure, and the payment in question is alleged to have been demanded from the company over and above the fair market value of their products, and was ostensibly to be applied for purposes of bribery. The scheme contemplated that the company should have a contract for the supply of petrol for ten years, and the secret commission demanded would have run into several thousand pounds sterling during the period of the contract.

The Premier said that the company had, as soon as its representatives were apprised of the nature of the purpose for which a 4 per cent. surcharge was wanted, repudiated the overtures made to them, and gave warning that the matter would be made public. Mr. Holman said that the whole Government had been under suspicion in the eyes of the British Imperial Oil Company until an accidental circumstance revealed to the solicitor for the company that an alternative explanation of the matter was possible. The documents in the case were then placed first before the Attorney-General, and then before himself and Mr. Cann. As the whole matter affected something that had been allotted to the jurisdiction of Mr. Griffith, the Minister for Education, the Ministers waited till he returned from a visit to the country yesterday morning. The whole narrative of the incidents, involving a serious charge against somebody acting apparently as agent for Mr. Griffith, was made to Mr. Griffith, and Mr. Holman said his colleague had not only instantly demanded a full inquiry, but had tendered his resignation as well. The resignation had not been accepted, but, pending an inquiry, Mr. Griffith had been relieved of all administrative duties.

The inquiry, the Premier announced, would be by Royal Commission, and Mr. Justice Pring would conduct it as soon as a law suit in which he was now engaged terminated. Mr. Holman asked the House to suspend its judgment on the whole matter till the inquiry closed. Towards the end of his speech, the Premier was visibly affected, and said that, as members could understand, the task that had devolved upon himself and Mr. Cann, in putting a recital of the disclosures made to them, before their colleague, had been most painful.

In a short speech to the House, Mr. Griffith said that the disclosure of what demands had been made on the company, had come that morning as a thunderclap to him, and he joined with its chief in asking the House to suspend judgment till the whole facts were made clear at the inquiry.

PREMIER'S STATEMENT.

I desire (said Mr. Holman) to make a most important statement directly concerning the honour of the House and its members, and to put before them the position in which the Government has found itself to-day. Members will be aware that for some months past—for some two years, as a matter of fact—it has been the intention of the Government to establish a monopoly of oil and petrol in the State of New South Wales. In pursuance of that, certain negotiations have been set on foot, none of which has materialised. The negotiations have been for some time past in the hands of my colleague, Mr. Griffith (the Minister for Public Instruction), and some three or four days ago—five or six days perhaps—a communication reached me, through the medium of the Attorney-General, from a gentleman in Melbourne (Mr. Wagstaff), who has been the principal representative in Australia of the British Imperial Oil Company. The manner in which this reached me, and what led up to it, I will explain in a moment.

It appeared that Mr. Black, the Sydney manager of the British Imperial Oil Company, and the Melbourne manager, Mr. Wagstaff, had been approached by Mr. J. B. Reed (Government Superintendent of Stores), and by Mr. Henry A. Morgan, who is not an officer of the department, but who is connected with the trade in petrol and oil, and who had been retained by the Government on Mr. Reed's recommendation as advising expert. These two gentlemen had in the first instance approached Mr. Black and made certain overtures. They had then been invited to go to Melbourne and discuss the proposition with Mr. Wagstaff, who was eventually my informant in the matter. It appears that at a certain stage of the conversation, when the question of price had cropped up, Mr. Reed said something to the effect that the question of price did not concern him, but was a matter entirely for Mr. Morgan, and that he would leave that to be discussed between Mr. Wagstaff and Mr. Morgan.

FOUR PER CENT. ASKED FOR.

A second interview was arranged, at which Mr. Reed was not present. Mr. Morgan explained to Mr. Wagstaff that in the fixing of the price to be asked from this State he was to add 1 per cent. to the net price which the firm's principals in London would require—that would be Mr. Morgan's brokerage—and another 3 per cent., making a total of 4 per cent. in all, the destination of which was not explained, and which apparently was to be used for purposes of bribery in carrying the scheme through this House, either to go to the Minister, or to the Minister and his colleagues, and such members as could be induced to support the scheme in Parliament. I should pause to say that as far as I can ascertain Mr. Wagstaff, who is a gentleman in a very high position, and has been a representative of the British Imperial Oil Company in Australia for 12 years, and is a gentleman of the highest repute, received this overture from Mr. Morgan. Mr. Reed's position in the matter, however, will be the subject of full inquiry. Mr. Wagstaff agreed to write of the whole proposition to his directors in London, and did so. A copy of his letter has been supplied to me. Mr. Wagstaff asked that his directors should cable him their decision upon this proposition, and obtained their cabled decision three or four weeks ago. That decision was to repudiate the whole proposal, and to warn those who had been a party to it that any seat of confidence under which the matter had been conducted must be lifted, and that the directors were free to give publicity to the matter. It would appear that the attitude of Mr. Wagstaff and his London directors was everything that commercial probity would suggest.

FURTHER INFORMATION.

Mr. Wagstaff arranged to convey to Mr. Reed and Mr. Morgan a message he had received from London requesting further and fuller information on the subject of this one per cent. brokerage, and the three per cent. other commission. These two gentlemen again came to Melbourne and had a second interview with Mr. Wagstaff and Mr. Black. The matter was gone over again, and the Government officer, Mr. Reed, at a certain point said, "Well, the question of price is not my affair. That is a matter for Mr. Morgan," and again proposed to leave the interview. This time, however, the two commercial gentlemen said "No; you stay here and tell us all about it." This is the very point our London people desire information upon.

The conference was carried through to the bitter end this time in the presence of Mr. Reed as well as Mr. Morgan. The same proposal was made, the three per cent., however, being reduced to 2½ per cent., which was to be a fund placed in Mr. Morgan's hands for purposes which he was not able to define too closely. The question was raised whether this money was to be paid to Mr. Morgan himself, and he said that as far as he could say it would be, though this would be subject to any further arrangement that might be made.

HOW THE GOVERNMENT LEARNED.

I can only say, added Mr. Holman, that at the moment Mr. Wagstaff was fully convinced that these two were acting with the connivance of this Government, and speaking with the knowledge of this Government. A chain of exceptional circumstances, however, led him to alter that opinion and communicate with the Attorney-General and myself. There was a short strike on the wharfs two or three weeks ago, directed particularly against the handling of kerosene, the products of the Vacuum Oil Company and the British Imperial Oil Company being alike affected. The solicitor to the Vacuum Company was Mr. Waxman, of Melbourne, and, acting for that company, he had occasion to come over here and meet the Minister of Industry and the Attorney-General in connection with the strike. At a slightly later stage the Imperial Oil Company also put their interests as far as the strike was concerned with Mr. Waxman.

CABINET APPRISED.

Mr. Waxman was, therefore, for some time acting for both companies—the British Imperial Oil Company and the Vacuum Company—in connection with their troubles over the strike. He saw the Minister for Labour and Industry, Mr. Estell, and the Attorney-General, Mr. Hall, and obtained a satisfactory advancement of the difficulties—I won't say a settlement—but something was done which would substantially advance towards a settlement, and he returned to Melbourne. Discussing there with his new clients, the representative of the British Imperial Oil Company, the interviews he had had with the Ministers of this capital, he was then told for the first time by the representative, Mr. Wagstaff, what a conception he held of this Ministry and of the deep-seated belief that Mr. Wagstaff held that this Ministry had been endeavouring corruptly to gain some personal advantage out of these negotiations with the company.

Mr. Waxman, who had formed a favourable impression of his treatment at the hands of Mr. Hall and Mr. Estell, was good enough to remonstrate, and suggest that there might be a possible alternative explanation of the circumstances, and ultimately persuaded his new clients to put the documents they had received before us.

NOTES OF INTERVIEW.

When I say "us" I mean primarily before the Attorney-General and afterwards before myself and Mr. Cann, my deputy leader, whom I called into my assistance the moment I heard of the matter, and Mr. Waxman laid the documents before us. Those included the first letter Mr. Wagstaff had written to the directors in London, the cabled answers from London to Mr. Wagstaff, and a memorandum drawn up by Mr. Wagstaff and Mr. Black immediately after their second interview with the representatives of the Government, because, it appears, after these two gentlemen had met our two representatives in Melbourne they had sat down and written out a joint recollection of the interview, placed it in writing signed for permanent record, as far as they could, of what had taken place while the whole of the incidents were still fresh in their memory. These gentlemen's memorandum was submitted to us with the other papers in the case. The papers also included the authorisation by Mr. Griffith of Mr. Morgan's action—I do not mean any substantive action—but a general authorisation of Mr. Morgan acting in conjunction with Mr. Reed for the Government in this matter.

That, said the Premier, was the state of affairs that was disclosed to us one day last week. I arranged at once to see Mr. Black, the Sydney representative of the British Imperial Oil Company, and I saw him at my office in Sydney. Mr. Black, however, was not able to advance the matter at all materially beyond what I had already gathered from the documents, because he had not been present at the first interview in Melbourne, which was carried on between Mr. Wagstaff and Mr. Morgan, though present at the second one.

PREMIER AND MANAGER.

I then arranged for an interview with Mr. Wagstaff, who was good enough to come over from Melbourne at the close of last week, and he saw myself and the Attorney-General here. Mr. Wagstaff very largely supplemented the statement which had appeared on paper, and gave us a narrative of events which, somewhat condensed, amounts to the narrative of the interview just put before the House.

SEEING MR. GRIFFITH.

That was the state of facts as known to me and my colleagues, the Attorney-General and Mr. Cann, up till this morning. Hon. members will be aware that the Minister for Education, Mr. Griffith, was in the country last week enjoying a short rest preparatory to commencing to answer a call on his services by the Government during the next two or three weeks. We felt we were in duty bound to see him and put the whole matter to him immediately on his arrival.

Mr. Cann and I had the difficult task of seeing our colleague on this matter and placing the charges before him which were made, and pointing out to him the very grievous way in which these charges affected himself. He had undoubtedly written and made Mr. Morgan his agent. Mr. Morgan had, apparently, I won't say "undoubtedly," made these demands. I say "apparently," but I think that any one who heard Mr. Wagstaff tell the incident would feel very little doubt, as I feel; but I will not set up my judgment—but, apparently, Mr. Morgan had made these demands. Mr. Morgan clearly told Mr. Wagstaff and Mr. Black these demands were demands on the instructions and under the authorisation of the Minister, and that they were for the Minister and his colleagues and associates in Parliament.

All this, continued the Premier, was put by us to Mr. Griffith on his return from the country this morning. Hon. members may imagine the very painful nature of the task. Mr. Griffith met this accusation, I am bound to say this in justice to my colleague, with the utmost frankness. He told us—and I will not do him any injustice by stating what he said—he had only seen Mr. Morgan once in connection with this matter, and that Mr. Morgan had no authority from him to make any such demand, that he did not appoint him himself, and did not know him, but that Mr. Morgan was appointed on the recommendation of Mr. Reed, who has been—I won't say is—a trusted officer in the Public Works Department, the appointment being actually drafted by Mr. Reed and signed by Mr. Griffith—all of which are facts, as far as they go, borne out by the official papers.

MODE OF INQUIRY.

Mr. Griffith has gone further, and demanded that the whole matter should be the subject of a full and searching inquiry. (Cheers.) We have taken legal advice as to the proper way to start such an inquiry, whether by prosecution in the police court or by other steps, and after full consideration of this evidence we have decided that in the first instance (and I ask hon. members to note this) that the matter shall be submitted to a full inquiry by royal commission. The royal commission has been appointed this afternoon, and Mr. Justice Pring has been set free by the Chief Justice, and at the close of a case in which he is now engaged, will then immediately undertake to conduct this inquiry. The reference that has been made to Mr. Justice Pring is, we believe, of the fullest nature to permit him to inquire into every aspect of this most distressing development, but if at any stage it should be found not to be full enough, if the Judge himself can suggest that a wider scope should be allotted to him, or we, watching the course of the inquiry, should come to the conclusion that there should be a wider scope, we shall not hesitate to pass an additional reference increasing the area covered by the Judge's investigations.

I need hardly say should any necessity for action of a legal character be disclosed (I wish now to pre-judge nothing) we shall act upon it. After full consideration and full legal advice, we concluded that the proper course to take at this moment, so as to prejudge no one, and so that the Government should not set itself up as prosecutor, was to appoint a Judge who was in the general confidence of the community to carry through the inquiry rather than that we should prosecute anybody and to that extent declare our prejudgment of the facts and take sides. We do not wish to do that.

These steps have been taken by us this afternoon, but I cannot say that the royal commission will commence the inquiry tomorrow, but so soon as his Honor is free to take up the inquiry.

RESIGNATION TENDERED.

I wish to say this, proceeded the Premier, speaking under the stress of great emotion, that my colleague, Mr. Griffith, this morning, after hearing and fully realising the nature of the narrative which it was the painful duty of Mr. Cann and myself to make to him, not only demanded this inquiry, but in the frankest possible way immediately tendered to me his resignation as a member of our Ministry. I called a meeting of the Cabinet this afternoon, and after consideration we have felt it is not desirable at this moment that any step of this kind should be taken. Mr. Griffith will be relieved of all share of administrative work in the Administration until the inquiry is ended, but we do not wish him to take any definite step which would sever his connection with his colleagues forthwith. (Cheers.)

An Opposition member: That is a very fair suggestion.

Mr. Holman: I am glad that it meets with the approval of hon. members. I will say further that there will be ample legal assistance of eminent legal counsel secured for the conduct of the inquiry by the royal commission. I believe that hon. gentlemen generally will bear me out that in securing the services of Mr. Justice Pring we have made an appointment that will command the confidence of this House.

ASTOUNDING DEVELOPMENT.

I shall at this stage beg hon. members to extend us their consideration. My colleague, Mr. Griffith, has asked to say two or three words to the House himself, and I think that hon. members will bear with him on this most astounding development. (Cheers.)

I have passed lightly over the conversation which passed between Mr. Griffith and myself and Mr. Cann, because hon. members will understand it is a painful matter for me to have to dwell upon, but I wish to impress upon hon. members that the action we have taken to-day has been entirely at the request and upon the initiative of Mr. Griffith himself. I ask hon. members to accept that statement without qualification as an unreserved and candid statement. I do not think there is anything further I can say at this moment of advantage to the House or the country. The whole matter will now be skilfully, and, I trust, swiftly probed to the bottom. The truth will be discovered, and I can only beg that hon. members on both sides of the House will be good enough to keep a suspended judgment and an open mind until the results of the inquiry are made known. (Cheers.)

MR. GRIFFITH'S SPEECH.

Mr. Griffith, the Minister for Education, made a short speech. As to what has been said by my chief, he said, I had no suspicion there was the least bit wrong in these investigations until this morning it came upon me as a thunderclap. Of course, my first impulse was to suggest criminal proceedings at once, but the other scheme, a full, open investigation, seemed to me much the wiser course. All I have to ask of hon. members is that hon. members and the country will suspend judgment until the whole of the facts are made clear, and then for a judgment apart from party considerations. (Cheers.)

MR. WADE'S ATTITUDE.

Mr. Wade, leader of the Opposition, said that undoubtedly the situation was very painful. He only rose to assure the Government, if such assurance was necessary, that whatever might have been the acute differences between the two sides of the House, or between individual members composing the two parties, they were all imbued with sufficient spirit of fairplay to suspend judgment until this case was definitely and finally concluded, and the cloud that rested over the public life of New South Wales was lifted. (Cheers.) They recognised, of course, that public men were always open to attacks by individuals, perhaps baseless. Even were that not so, they all appreciated the gravity of the present situation, and the obligation lay upon everybody inside and outside the House to wait until the case was concluded before passing any judgment, and they did not need any stimulus to do that. (Cheers.)

Mr. Holman then moved the adjournment of the House. The whole affair had, he said, entirely interfered with the work of the Government, and he and his colleagues were hardly ready to present any business, having been engaged on this other matter all that day and some days previously. Personally, he did not feel equal to going on, and he thought other members would not care to go on with ordinary business under the circumstances.

The House accordingly adjourned till this afternoon.

THE COMMISSION.

SCOPE OF INQUIRY.

The Commission is addressed "to the Honourable Robert Darlow Pring, a Judge of the Supreme Court of New South Wales," and invests his Honor with full powers. The operative powers are to inquire into the following matters:—

"(1) The negotiations, arrangements, or proposals made, instituted, or proposed, on behalf of the Government of New South Wales, for the acquisition of the works, plant, and business of the British Imperial Oil Company, Limited, and more particularly proposals made by one Henry A. Morgan as to the amount, or price, or consideration to be fixed for the purchase of the said business, and as to the amount, or price, or consideration to be paid for future supplies of oil spirit petrol and the like.

"(2) In connection with the aforesaid matter, whether the demands or requests of the said Henry A. Morgan were prompted or instigated, authorised or endorsed by any Minister of the Crown or any other person.

"(3) In so far as you may deem it essential to inquire generally into the said matters, having regard to any public interest involved, and the conduct of any official or person connected therewith."

His Honor is given power to call for the production of books, articles, and documents, and is directed to report within a month, his report being sent to the office of the Premier, and all Government officers are required to assist.

It is also set out that all sections of the Royal Commission Act of 1914 are applicable to the purposes of this inquiry. That Act clothes the Judge with tremendous powers to compel witnesses to speak or produce documents. It gives power to the Judge to compel a man to incriminate himself if necessary.

ROYAL SYDNEY APOLLO CLUB.

Opening their 35th year under a new title, the Royal Sydney Apollo Club also transferred the scene of their concert to the State Conservatorium, a chamber which comfortably seats a thousand people, and also enables a choir of moderate proportions to be heard to more advantage than in the Town Hall. His Excellency the Governor, Sir Gerald Strickland, was present, and a programme of frequent contrast proved stimulating.

Mr. W. Arundel Orchard first conducted Bishop's "Hark! Apollo Strikes the Lyre," in allusion to the change of name, the rolling harmonies of which were richly voiced, but a second song of exactly the same pre-Victorian period by T. Cooke, "Fill me, boy, as deep a draught," reached the ear as a trifle out of date. The solo quartet threw too great a burthen upon the tenor, the music demanding a more polished art, and the elaborately conventional style of the music at once became only too apparent. One of the club's best efforts was their rendering of Percy Fletcher's "The Sailors' Return," in which the voices finely suggested the rushing storm in strenuous passages of harmony and dissonance. Amidst the turmoil of the tempest the inmost thoughts of the sailor at sea "Love, on thy pillow, art thou dreaming of me?" completely changed the atmosphere of the music. At this point the singers achieved a passing effect of languishing pathos. Hegar's choral ballad "The Phantom Host," was remarkable for the remoteness and solemnity of its effects, emphasised by the use of unisonal passages, precisely rendered by the singers, Mr. Orchard was especially successful in securing from the choir a suggestion of cumulative horror in the third verse, whilst the f.f. in the fourth, followed by the awed dropping of the voices, carried out the composer's quest after the supernatural. The dramatic appeal to the North Wind at the close, with the final hushed pianissimo, excited so much enthusiasm that it had to be repeated.

The choice of soloists in Sydney so often runs in a groove that the reappearance of Mr. George Whitehead and Mr. Gladstone Bell, and the debut, with the club, of Miss Vera Bedford, proved doubly welcome. Mr. Whitehead sang (in French) the recit. and the arioso "Viens Charmer," from Massenet's opera, "Le Roi de Lahore." The baritone rendered this fine music with passionate expression and richness of tone. The encore was Tchaikowsky's fascinating "Don Juan Serenade" in which, but for the undue forcing of the voice at the close, the singer was equally successful. The difficult bravura accompaniment was brilliantly played by Mr. Harold Whittle. Miss Vera Bedford demonstrated her capacity for a purposeful interpretation in Brahms' dramatic song "Love Eternal." The young mezzo-contralto sometimes revealed a momentarily harsh thread in the voice, but this was eliminated in her clever rendering of "My Love," and "Love's Philosophy," both composed by Arundel Orchard, and both worth hearing. The latter is a highly imaginative, and withal melodious, setting of Shelley's often-quoted poem, and should make the composer widely known. A number of pieces were well played by Mr. Gladstone Bell, more especially the plaintive Hebrew music of "Kol Nidrei," in which both tone and style were artistic. The encore was Popper's "Vito." Mr. Harold Whittle was the accompanist.

CASUALTIES.

VERDICT OF SUICIDE.

On Monday the Parramatta Coroner, Mr. H. Richardson Clark, held an inquest touching the death of Albert Edward Marsden, whose body was found on Wednesday morning in the Parramatta Park, with a bullet wound in the head, and a revolver lying beside the body. A letter was also found on the deceased, bidding farewell to his wife and family. The Coroner returned a verdict of suicide.

FOUND DEAD.

GOULBURN, Tuesday.

Yesterday the body of a man was found hanging from a tree in a paddock a short distance from the city. On the body was a union ticket with the name Robert Lawson.

WOMAN'S LEG INJURED.

WOLLONGONG, Tuesday.

On Monday Mrs. W. W. Smart met with a serious accident at her father's residence, Spring Hill. It appears she was hanging out clothes on the clothes line when a blast was fired in a cutting on the new railway line to Port Kembla, about 200 yards away. A piece of stone, hurled by the violence of the explosion, struck Mrs. Smart on the leg, inflicting injuries.

STATE SESSION.

LIQUOR REFERENDUM.

BILL IN ORDER.

TRADES UNIONS BILL.

Both the Assembly and Council sat last night, the Lower House only long enough for formal business to be transacted, and for the House to hear an important announcement by the Premier that a Royal Commission had been appointed to inquire into a scandal connected with the proposed establishment of a Government petrol monopoly in the State.

In the Legislative Council the Trades Union Amending Bill and the Liquor Referendum Bill were discussed. A point of order directed against the validity of the proposed referendum was not sustained by the Acting President (Mr. B. B. O'Conor), and the second reading of the measure was carried by an overwhelming majority. An amendment in the system of voting was forecasted by Mr. Garland.

STATE BAKERY.

The Attorney-General, replying to questions by Mr. Fitzpatrick, said that no calculations had been made as to the number of bakers, bakehouse hands, carters, grooms, etc., who would be thrown out of employment if the State baking scheme comes into operation, but employment can be found for all displaced men. The Minister admitted that he had stated at a picnic "that an establishment which cost £12,000 had made a sufficient profit to pay off the whole of the original outlay in two years." Asked why, if this were so, he had not been able to reduce the cost of bread to consumers, he replied that so far only State Government institutions and military camps were being supplied, and that the price to those had been largely reduced. The Attorney-General further said the State bakery had no advantage over outside bakers. So far it only turned out one class of bread, which was sold by the hundredweight, and not by the loaf.

"THE CALL TO ARMS."

The Premier, in answer to a series of questions by Mr. Fitzpatrick in reference to the publication "The Call to Arms," stated that it was first published by the authority of the Government on February 14, 1916. Further, it was issued, edited, and managed by Mr. J. H. Catts, M.P., and was printed by the Government Printer. He had authorised the Government Printer to produce the paper as an experiment. The weekly expenditure was £163, and the weekly revenue £100.

NAME OBJECTED TO.

Mr. Haynes asked the Colonial Secretary if the name of the Prince Alfred Hospital could not be changed, because it was named after a prince who deserted his flag and became a German, and whose sons are now fighting under the German Emperor against the British; and if so, could it not be named after the great King Edward? The Chief Secretary replied that the matter would be referred to the directors of the institution, and suggested the object might be attained by substituting the word "King" for that of "Prince."

STRIKES AT BROKEN HILL AND COBAR.

The Premier was asked a number of questions by Mr. Fitzpatrick concerning strikes at the Broken Hill and Cobar mines. The Premier, in reply, said that £1175 was granted for the relief of distress at Cobar. He denied that it was a fact that workers at the Cobar mine were now on strike for higher wages, or that it was part of the policy of the Government to encourage workers to strike by finding them relief funds whenever they reach the distress stage after having ceased work.

MR. NIELSEN'S OFFICE.

The Premier, in reply to Mr. Fitzpatrick, stated that the Public Service Board had approved of the services of Mr. Gilelland, chief clerk of the N.S.W. Government office, at San Francisco, being retained until May, 1916. He had no information as to whether Mr. Gilelland was related by marriage to Mr. Niels Rasmus Nielsen. Mr. Fitzpatrick also asked if Mr. Nielsen had carte blanche to appoint officers and incur any expenditure he thought fit without reference to the State Government. In reply, the Premier referred the questioner to his statement made in Parliament on the 16th inst.

ADJOURNMENT.

The House, after hearing a statement by the Premier regarding the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire into a scandal in connection with the proposed Government petrol monopoly, which is reported in another column, adjourned till to-day.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

EIGHT-HOUR BILL CONFERENCE.

The Vice-President of the Executive Council said it would meet the convenience of the Minister in another place if the committee appointed to confer with the Assembly on the Eight-Hour Bill would meet the committee of the other House on the following day.

NATURALISED SUBJECTS' FRANCHISE BILL.

This bill was read the third time.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND PROPERTY TRUST ENABLING BILL.

Leave was given to Mr. Garland to introduce this bill, and it was brought in and read the first time.

TRADE UNION (AMENDMENT) BILL.

This bill was recommitted for further consideration of clause 7, "Additional powers of trade unions." On the motion of Mr. Garland, who said that during last night's discussion the question was raised whether sub-clause "f" of the clause should not be omitted altogether, or some modification made in it, in order to meet the views of those who thought the sub-clause should not apply to trade union newspapers which were non-political, he moved an amendment so as to make it read "On the maintenance and publication of a newspaper other than a non-political trade journal." By such an amendment the conscience clause would not apply to non-political trade newspapers.

The Vice-President of the Executive Council (Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald) opposed the amendment, and pointed out that under it trade unions would be put to the expense and trouble of going before the Court to satisfy it as to the nature of the newspaper proposed to be published.

Mr. Garland said that the amendment would make the conscience clause applicable only to political newspapers.

The amendment was carried by 20 votes to 6, and the clause as amended agreed to. The third reading of the bill was made an order for to-day.

LIQUOR REFERENDUM BILL.

The Vice-President of the Executive Council, in moving the second reading of this bill, said there were three matters which had to be considered, and the first was as to whether there should be a referendum on the liquor question bearing on the time of closing. Then came the question of the persons who should vote, and the third point upon which the real discussion would take place would be over the different precautions to be taken to see that every person possible had an opportunity of expressing his opinion on the question. There was one other question which would also cause some discussion, and that was the proposed proportional or preferential voting, which, though not well known in ordinary politics was familiar enough to Labour bodies. Provision was also made fixing the time within which the vote should be taken, so as to give every qualified person an opportunity of voting, and the writ would be made returnable in 88 days.

Mr. Robson said the bill was one which, as far as he could understand it, might well have the support of the House, and he congratulated the Government on the introduction of the measure. As to preferential or proportional voting, he thought it would have been better to adopt the South Australian system rather than that now proposed.

Sir Joseph Carruthers said he regarded the bill as a sorry attempt on the part of the Government to evade their responsibilities. There was no more justification for a referendum on this subject than upon many others that came before Parliament. They might just as well relegate the cost of the war to a referendum. But if the Government thought it necessary to refer the liquor question to a referendum, he did not see why the matter should not be decided by the people for all time, and not merely for the period of the war and six months afterwards. (Hear, hear.)

MODE OF VOTING.

Mr. Garland said that under the circumstances it would ill become this House as a nominee Chamber to take up the position that it was going to stand between the measure and the people, and in its own interest he hoped it would not do so. He should vote for the second reading of the bill. He, however, thought there was an objection to the mode of voting. Before the result of the referendum could become law there must be a majority of the votes cast in favour of one particular hour. There was a grave danger in the proposal which permitted a voter to plump for one hour only, and he would suggest that the plumping provision should be done away with, and that it be insisted upon that the voter should indicate at least three hours to which he would give preference. It was only because he felt there was a grave danger of the referendum being made nugatory that he suggested to the Government that the method of voting be altered.

Mr. Heydon felt it would be more dignified if the proper representatives of the people had dealt with this question; but, now that the action of the Government had forced on the people to call for a direct vote on the question of early closing, he should vote for the bill. The action, or rather inaction, of the Government in refusing to deal with the hour for closing which led up to the deplorable military mutiny, which in its turn led to a thousand young men being dismissed from the forces with ignominy, was the cause for the demand of the people. He would prefer to see the six hours mentioned in the bill treated as six candidates for election would be—the people being allowed to plump for any of them, and then the one which received the greatest number of votes would be chosen, but as he was privately informed that the authors of the bill were wedded to the preferential principle he accepted it, and would prefer the scheme suggested by Mr. Garland to the one mentioned in the bill. As it was, there was likely to be confusion.

BILL OPPOSED.

Mr. C. J. Roberts was opposed to the bill, and could not see the utility of wasting £30,000 on a referendum. It would be throwing money away. He would accept 9 o'clock as the closing hour, and that would be satisfactory to the trade generally. It was an absurdity to close at 6 o'clock; it would lead to the ruin of the thousands upon thousands of people. The hour would cause great inconvenience to the people in the suburbs and in the country, and would cause general confusion.

Mr. Wilson was prepared to trust the people, and would support the bill.

Mr. Pilcher submitted that the bill was out of order, as a bill on this subject had been already considered during the present session.

The Deputy-President said the previous bill had not been passed, and he overruled the point.

The second reading was agreed to by 15 votes to 5.

The Council rose at 10.50 p.m. till the following day.

DANGER IN OYSTERS.

MR. BLACK'S WARNING.

The Chief Secretary and Minister for Public Health warns the public of the danger attendant on the consumption of oysters purchased in the bottle from some vendors.

"Without doubt," says Mr. Black, "some of the oysters which some hawkers vend are obtained from the prohibited area embracing the southern portion of Middle Harour, where the oysters are contaminated with typhoid germs. The Fisheries Act provides for the imposition of a penalty of £20 for the taking of oysters from a prohibited area, and, with a view to minimising the complaint, heavy fines are being imposed on all persons taking oysters from the area mentioned and any other prohibited area. As showing the gravity with which the offence is regarded, a fine of £20, or in default six months' gaol, was recently imposed on a person for taking oysters from the Middle Harbour prohibited area."

It being obviously impossible to prevent some contaminated oysters being taken, the Minister desires to impress upon the public the necessity for its co-operation. This can be done by refraining from purchasing oysters from vendors other than those who are of good standing, and whose oysters may be relied upon to have been obtained in a lawful manner from unaffected areas.

VESSEL AGROUND.

A MISLEADING CHART.

FREMANTLE, Tuesday.

The Court of Marine Inquiry appointed to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the stranding of an oversea steamer near the entrance to Fremantle Harbour on the night of March 8, delivered its finding yesterday. The Court said it had come to the conclusion that the cause of the vessel taking ground was the careless navigation of pilot Williamson in bringing his vessel into such a position outside the river channel, contrary to the recognised practice of the port of Fremantle, and also contrary to specific instructions given him by the chief pilot before starting. The Court also stated that it would appear that the official chart was somewhat misleading, because on its soundings in the vicinity of the place where the vessel grounded was shown to vary from 30 to 32 feet at low water, whereas investigation had since shown there was only 28 feet 2 inches at low water.

EXPORT OF GOLD.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Federal Treasurer (Mr. Higgs) has reimposed his embargo on the export of gold from Australia.

COURT-MARTIAL.

The Court-martial, presided over by Lieutenant-Colonel J. J. Paine, V.D., sat at Victoria Barracks yesterday, when Private Thomas Henry Willson was charged with having committed the offence of fraudulent enlistment, in that he, at Casula, on January 24, 1916, when belonging to the Australian Imperial Force, without having fulfilled the conditions enabling him to enlist, enlisted into the Australian Imperial Force for service abroad, thereby obtaining a free kit, valued at £8 12s.

Accused pleaded not guilty.

The president said that he could not understand how the accused was ever brought before the Court. It was quite clear that the accused had informed the enrolling officer that he had been discharged for misbehaviour, and the officer in those circumstances should not have accepted him.

The Court found the accused not guilty, and ordered him to be discharged from custody.

FAIR RENTS COURT.

Mr. Jamieson, S.M., heard two cases yesterday, but in neither case altered the existing rent.

Adeline Warner, by Mr. John Dwyer, applied for a reduction of rent in respect of a five-roomed dwelling, at 55 Green-road, Paddington, standing on land 15ft by 69ft. The owner, T. J. Cope, of Riley-street, Surry Hills, was represented by his agent, C. R. Gadd. The valuation of the land accepted by the court was £10 per foot, and the Government Architect valued the building at £450, less £170 depreciation. The annual allowance for outgoings was set down at £6 15s, and the depreciation as far as it affected the rental value of the property, was given as £9 7s 6d. The magistrate held that on the evidence no case was made out for a reduction, and the rent was accordingly fixed at 22s 6d per week for 12 months.

Charles Kelly, of Queen-street, Marrickville, applied to have his rent (18s) reduced on a four-roomed cottage standing on 20ft by 50ft of land, of an unimproved value of £4 10s per foot frontage. The Court found that the building was worth £440 after reducting depreciation, and after making allowance for the owner's outgoings, the Magistrate again decided the present rental charged was a fair one under the law, and accordingly fixed it at 18s for 12 months. The owner was Mrs. Collins, who was represented by her agent, A. G. Board. The tenant appeared in person.

SLY-GROG CASE.

At the Central Police Court yesterday, before Mr. J. L. King, Edith Englehardt, aged 33 years, was charged with selling liquor without a license, while her husband, Emil Englehardt, 39 years of age, whose nationality was given as German, was charged with aiding and abetting her.

The police evidence set forth that on Monday night two policemen went to 36 Carrington-street, Sydney. Here they bought four bottles of lager, for which they paid 2s 6d a bottle. Thirty-five full bottles of lager, two bottles of champagne, some whisky, and a number of empty lager bottles were found on the premises. The defendants, who pleaded guilty, were each fined £30, in default three months' gaol.

Ruby Tracey, 20 years of age, and Elsie May, aged 26 years, who were charged with drinking on the unlicensed premises kept by the Engleharts, were each fined 20s, with the alternative of 14 days' imprisonment.

THREE MEN MISSING.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Three men journeyed from Geelong to Williamstown in a motor launch on Saturday afternoon, and, since leaving Williamstown on the return trip, have not been heard of. The names of the men are Frank Farrell, Pearcy Young, and Stanley Richardson.

RECRUITING.

Yesterday at Victoria Barracks 123 men offered their services and 93 were accepted.

Among those who came up for enrolment yesterday were a number of men from Mort's Dock and the Government Dockyard at Cockatoo Island. They included three men with only one eye apiece, but though the eyesight test has recently been modified, it has not been modified to the extent of accepting men with only one eye. Others at the recruiting office included an electrical engineer, a boilermaker's mate, a launch hand, a ship-painter and docker, a fireman from the A.U.S.N. Co., and the master of a Balmain Ferry Co.'s boat. There was also an actor from the Adelphi Theatre, a clerk from the A.M.P., and another from the Water and Sewerage Board, and a railway employee from Eveleigh workshops. A belt-repairer, also from the railways, a master mariner, and a civil engineer, applied for enrolment, as did a steel presser, a fitter, a clerk, a chemist, several wharf-labourers, a dentist, an offalman from Glebe Island Abattoirs, a master hairdresser, a boxmaker, a navvy, and a postman.

IN OTHER STATES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Of 190 men who volunteered for active service to-day 126 were accepted.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

In Brisbane to-day 40 men volunteered, and 27 were accepted. In the country 60 were accepted. The total number accepted to date in the State is 33,965.

PERTH, Tuesday.

To-day 40 men volunteered, 30 being sworn-in and 10 rejected.

RANK OF RETURNED SOLDIERS.

The Cabinet has decided it is undesirable that officers who have had rank conferred upon them for, or during active service outside Australia, should be required to forego such rank on their return to Australia. All officers, therefore, who were appointed or promoted for, or during, such active service, shall, on return, retain the higher rank as honorary rank in the military forces of Australia if belonging to corps, until they can receive substantive rank in their corps, on being recommended when vacancies occur. Officers, however, holding such honorary rank shall not be entitled to any pay or allowance of that rank.

Officers will not be required to qualify by examination for promotion to any rank which they have held on active service. Provided that if the higher rank was held in a different arm or branch of the service, an examination will be required in the subjects, relating exclusively to the arm or branch in which the promotion will take effect. Such promotions can only take place when vacancies occur.

Mr. F. G. Crouch, of Randwick, recently received a message from his son, Private H. W. Crouch, 6th Light Horse, stating that he had been invalided to London from Gallipoli, and had received a commission, being appointed machine-gun officer to the 12th Regiment.

Mr. W. H. Hannam, of Hannam's, Ltd., Castlereagh-street, has received information that his son, No. 612, Driver A. T. Hannam, of the 1st Field Artillery Brigade, is now lying ill in the 3rd Australian General Hospital, Egypt. The illness is not serious.

Privates Wallace and Wilton Wurth, G. and C. Wilson, Charles Hungerford, and O. London were entertained at Comleroy, and each was presented with a wristlet watch.

Sports bodies have worked successfully to provide sports materials for recruits at Goulburn camp. A continental was largely patronised, and there is about £200 in hand. A billiard table may be purchased for the Soldiers' Club.

Corporal O. D. Nelson and Private H. P. Ryan were each presented, on behalf of the residents, with a gold medal and chain, at a public reception at Molong, by Mr. J. C. L. Fitzpatrick, M.L.A., in commemoration of their services at Gallipoli.

Dr. J. Kerr, of Wollongong, has been appointed senior medical officer in charge of one of the medical camps in the Maitland district.

On Saturday evening a smoke concert was tendered by the carters employed by Anthony Hordern and Sons, Ltd., to Gunner T. Cassidy, who is leaving for the front. Mr. S. H. Abrams occupied the chair, and a presentation of a wristlet watch was made to Gunner Cassidy by Mr. Alex. Brown on behalf of employees.

Mr. Cameron, who has been an assistant at the Marrickville West Public School, and who has enlisted, was given a send-off by the staff and pupils. Mr. Thorne, headmaster, presented him with a wristlet watch.

The District Commandant will hold two inspections of reinforcements this week—the first on Friday, and the second on Saturday—both at 4 p.m., in the Outer Domain.

The commercial and office staff of the Neptune Oil Company, Ltd., on Saturday presented their fellow-employees, Gunners Combe and Grierson, of the R.A.F.A., with a wristlet watch and a folding photographic camera respectively. The presentations were made by Mr. C. S. Pearson, the company's Sydney manager.

Signaller Alexander Eddie, who is shortly leaving for the front, was entertained by his friends and presented with a luminous wristlet watch and other articles.

Private H. Daddon (formerly Captain of the Salvation Army Corps at Millthorpe) was presented with a wristlet watch by the local Recruiting Association.

NORFOLK ISLAND CATTLE.

NOVEL SHIPPING METHOD.

The steamer Makambo, which arrived from the New Hebrides, via Lord Howe and Norfolk Island yesterday, brought a consignment of 11 head of Norfolk Island cattle.

The novel loading method of swimming the cattle from the island to the ship's side was again adopted, and the animals were safely hauled on board.

On Monday night the vessel encountered a gale and a heavy sea worked up. The cattle, which were in temporary stalls on the forward 'tween decks, had an exciting time. An inspection of the animals yesterday morning showed that they were all alive and well, but had become somewhat mixed during the storm. The animal which had previously been in No. 1 stall was in No. 10, and each of the others had changed positions. "We don't know how they did it," said Captain Wetherall yesterday, "but they all changed places during the night."

SOLDIERS' DEPENDENTS.

PREMIER FAVOURS STATE TAX.

PERTH, Tuesday.

At the annual congress of the Salvation Army, the Governor (Sir Harry Barron) stated that he had just received a letter from General Bramwell Booth, suggesting that the widows and children of English soldiers killed in the war should be sent to oversea dominions. The scheme wanted careful thought, but on the face of it, it appealed to him. The Premier (Mr. Scaddan) expressed the opinion that the right way to provide for wounded soldiers and their dependents was not by queen carnivals or such methods, but by a State tax.

GENERAL COURT-MARTIAL.

The General Court Martial sitting at Victoria Barracks to try Privates Sutcliffe and Short on a charge of joining in a mutiny, was concluded yesterday.

The Court reserved its decision, which will be forwarded to the convening authorities.

QUEENSLAND MEAT.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

The agreement between the State Government and the meat companies for the supply of meat for Imperial and domestic purposes has been practically arranged. Prices agreed upon are 4½d per lb for beef for Imperial purposes, 3¾d for frozen, and 3¼d for "hot" beef for local consumption.

COMMONWEALTH SHIPPING.

LONDON, March 27.

The High Commissioner's Office has taken over the Commonwealth shipping business formerly done by brokers. Recently the exports of raw material have reached unprecedented quantities, and it is expected that the change will save over £1000 yearly.

PRICE OF FLOUR REDUCED.

LONDON, March 28.

Flour is quoted at 46/, the lowest this year. The price of the quartern loaf has been reduced to 8½d.

VOLUNTARY WORKERS.

HOMES FOR RETURNED SOLDIERS.

PUBLIC HELP URGED.

"I would make a strong appeal to those who cannot fight to be up and doing—to do more than they have done to show their appreciation of bravery, and their sympathy with suffering."

The speaker was his Excellency the Governor, at the luncheon of the Millions Club of New South Wales yesterday, at Baumann's Cafe.

Mr. Arthur Rickard, president of the club, in proposing "Success to the Voluntary Workers' Association," said the Millions Club was anxious to assist the practical movement which was started a few months ago to provide homes for disabled Australian soldiers and their dependents; and homes for the widows and orphans of brave men who had fallen while fighting for their country and their King. (Applause.) The movement, which had the State Governor at its head as patron, would enable those who were not able to give cash to assist by their labour, or by their gifts of bricks or timber. The settlement of returned soldiers in homes or on small farms would be greatly helped if those who could afford to give a block of land did so.

Sir Gerald Strickland, in responding as patron of the Voluntary Workers' Association, said that great as was the need to provide homes for disabled returned soldiers or for the widows of soldiers who had fallen, there was a more pressing need, and it was that opportunities should be provided so that those who could not go out and fight might be able to show their loyalty in some practical way, and thus help in bringing about the speedy and complete defeat of the enemy. (Cheers.) The feeling of every noble-hearted Australian was that Australia had not done enough in the direction indicated by the chairman. (Applause.) The women of the country had set the men a fine example both in organisation and in enthusiasm. (Hear, hear.) See how they were working day by day, and week by week, knitting, sewing, packing, and active in various patriotic industries which had sprung up in war time. (Cheers.) In the Red Cross organisation society people had set aside their frivolities to work for the soldiers. Other sections of the community ready and willing to help would have done more, he was sure, if there had been a wider organisation. The women of all sections of the community had done magnificently. The men should now get to work. The clearing and fencing of land would be a most useful organisation of labour in the scheme for the settlement of returned soldiers. And in this work women could join. (Applause.)

"The end of the war," his Excellency went on to say, "was not in sight, and the objective of the Voluntary Workers' Association was not merely to assist returned soldiers, but to get more men for the Imperial Australian Forces. (Cheers.) It was their duty to encourage men to enlist and go to the front."

Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald, M.L.C., president of the Voluntary Workers' Association, said that Dr. Arthur, M.L.A., was at the head of the movement, and Mr. George Fitzpatrick was the energetic hon. secretary. The association, he was pleased to say, had received assistance from all ranks in society—from King's representative to the wharf-labourer. (Applause.) The first step of the association was the experiment at French's Forest. "Despite all the criticism it had aroused, French's Forest is a testimony to Dr. Arthur's capacity for doing things now." (Cheers.)

Dr. Arthur, M.L.A., said the best way to help disabled soldiers, or widows who had nothing but a scanty pension, was to make them in a sense independent and safe from the stings and arrows of misfortune.

CASE AGAINST MINING COMPANY

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In the Arbitration Court yesterday, before Mr. Justice Powers, leave was asked on behalf of the Federal Mining Employees' Association, to institute proceedings against the New Normanby Quartz Mining Co. for an alleged contravention of section 6 of the Commonwealth Conciliation and Arbitration Act, 1904-1915. It was stated that the company, at Ballarat East, locked out certain employees, and the association claimed the right to proceed against it for penalties. The case relates to the decision of the mining company to insist on contract labour in future. The matter was adjourned to Chambers on Friday.

WYONG PARK RACING CLUB.

SIR HOWARD WINS PARK HANDICAP.

The Wyong Park Racing Club's meeting yesterday was held in fine, pleasant weather, and the attendance from both ends of the line was excellent. The track was in first class order, fields were large, and speculation on all the events was particularly keen. Backers began well by selecting Petrograd to win the Maiden Handicap, and 2 to 1 was accepted about his chance just before the books closed. The Novice Handicap produced a great finish, only a short head separating Lady Clarit and Lord Garde. The latter was always favourite, and 4 to 1 was on offer against the filly when the barrier was released. Sir Howard, a 5 to 1 chance, won the Park Handicap, and North Woodleigh, who was supported from 20 to 10 to 1, accounted for the Welter Handicap. Details:—

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Pony and galloway racing will be the attraction at Victoria Park this afternoon. Special trams from the Circular Quay and the Railway Square loop land visitors at the racecourse gates, and the first race is timed to start at 1.30 p.m. The results may be anticipated as under:—Flying Handicap: First division, Loud Report or Moving Picture; second division, Fertile or Porter. Maiden Handicap: First division, Devotive or Your Palm; second division, Zythum or Doody. Hurdle Race: Boree Goya, Little Trent, Lord Haven. Fourteen-one Handicap: First division, Barbaradale or Wee Loch; second division, Cheeky Boy or Pigwiggin. Encourage Stakes: Gunner Bill, Lady Poseidon, Euchulla. Victoria Park Handicap: Wherry, Arakoon, Lady Whitton. Fourteen-two Handicap: First division, Miss Myra or Melton Maid; second division, Maythorn or Lady Fortune.

In consequence of so many visiting racehorses, together with the presence of something like 900 thoroughbreds, who are to be sold during race week, stabling at Randwick and Kensington is at a premium. T. Payten is called upon to accommodate the 463 yearlings in Messrs. William Inglis and Son's catalogue, as well as a large number of mixed thoroughbreds from Victoria, England, and this State. Among them are the dams of the Caulfield Cup winner Levando, and that fine English horse Moncello. Mr. R. C. Allen, who has some 50 yearlings to offer, is building about 50 boxes on a block of land opposite Payten's house, in order to have them under one roof.

Rouard has, inadvertently, been included in the first acceptors for the Sydney Cup.

J.P. (Gresham-st).—The starting price of Celluloid in the Opening Handicap at Goulburn on Friday was 4 to 1 against.

RANDWICK TRAINING NOTES.

SOME INTERESTING GALLOPS.

CETIGNE SHAPES WELL.

A rapid change from warm and somewhat humid conditions to a brisk, cold breeze from the south yesterday morning was much appreciated by the few Victorians who have put in an appearance at Randwick. P. T. Heywood's team of six arrived on Sunday morning, and put up at Duggan's stables. The trainer himself is expected over to-day. His lot consists of Wishing Cap, Marculfus, Traquette, Gold Brew, Caracre, and the Maribyrnong Plate winner Ettefred, a half-sister to Traquette. A pony hurdler named Jack Watson accompanied this party, not so much with the view of winning races, but by reason of Traquette being exceedingly fond of him, and travels contentedly in his company. Traquette is not singular in this direction among turf celebrities. Another turf queen, Pretty Polly, was a wilful beauty, who would not even go to the post quietly unless accompanied by a pony friend.

Gold Brew has developed into a fine horse, and Caracre, who is by Linacre, is a cleanly-built bay, not unlike old Eric. Marculfus and Wishing Cap—Heywood's Cup candidates—are both in splendid health. It was generally expected at Randwick that Victoria would be more strongly represented at the coming meeting than it has ever been since racing rivalry began between the two States. Eurobin has been nominated freely, and F. Musgrave has taken stabling at the Royal Hotel for half a dozen horses. Among his lot will be the Newmarket Handicap winner, Amata, and the Western Australian cracks—Pilbarra, Tom Castro, and Corstep, the last-named a notable stayer. Walter Hickenbotham has secured accommodation for Red Signal, and it is rumoured that Messrs. A. and G. Tye are sending over two of their importations, Sweet Slumbers and King Marco. Fred. Burn, who trains Manaro, Capintesta, and others, has taken accommodation for three horses, and Mark Whitty is fetching two—Prince Bardolph and, probably, The Lintie. James Scobie's charges may not extend beyond Tringa, Daius, Cyklon, and Deneb; and Ewart is expected with Burrabadeen and Hush Money. Morton's Cooltrim filly, Kunegetis is expected through the week; but nothing definite is known concerning Adam Skirving, trainer for Mr. "S. A. Rawdon," who has entered The Vet in the jumping races, for which other Victorians—Jack Watson, Capintesta, Strifeness, Bibbenluke, Gilead, Lord Dudley, Lempriere, Manatta, Weenobah, Wisconsin, Dinizulu, Londonderry, Canadium, Gold Vale, Flash Jack, Ballista, Artillery Bill, and Yaralla have been nominated. Queensland is to be represented by Watts, Indicator, Irish Colleen, Frasca, Dear Laddie, Hopoast, and San Thome.

Traquette and Ettefred, who landed in the best of health, both throw to the Simmer style, though the younger one may never quite reach the height of her distinguished half-sister. Their dam is by Simmer, and she is one of several mares who have produced two Maribyrnong Plate winners, and assisted in making a splendid "plate" record, begun by their great grand-dam Nellie, in 1878. In 1890-1891 her son Yarran succeeded in the same event, as did her daughter, Etra Weenie. Subsequently Etra Weenie's grandchildren, Gold Brew, Beragoon, Traquette, and Ettefred won the classic race. Ettefred is engaged in the A.J.C. Sires' Produce and Champagne Stakes.

The Victorians, Green Cap and Patrobas, worked separately yesterday morning on the middle grass track, which was in splendid working order; but a fall of rain the previous day made it unfavourable to the watch. Green Cap ran a mile and a quarter in 2m 15s, and was followed by Patrobas over the same course in 2m 18s. Royal Rufus and Common Law covered a similar distance in 2m 16¼s, while Frasca and Ulva's Isle each worked at a useful pace, as did Two Blues; and Kelso being absent in the country, his team was restricted to cantering exercise. King Mostyn ran a mile in 1m 47½s; but this was put in the shade by Cetigne, who, with the assistance of Prince Mimer, traversed that distance in 1m 45½s, and pulled up well. Woorak did a working gallop, and First Principle cantered, while that fine-looking Englishman, Sydian, did some half-pacing.

Kandos, assisted by Mountain Black over the last seven furlongs, ran a mile in 1m 48s; while Dear Laddie did a useful task, and Ladur Queen some pacing work. Bhanavar traversed seven furlongs in 1m 35½s, and Plasticine six in 1m 23s. Alasco and Roman Queen were on the easy list, and Fend worked usefully. Irish Colleen slipped over six furlongs in 1m 20s, and Limelight seven in 1m 33½s, which was half a second better than Bandeliero and La Penna registered. A working gallop was San Thome's task, and easy pacing went down to The Christian Brother, Westcourt, Taunter, and Little. Three Star knocked off a half-mile in 52½s, and Cilialambi went six furlongs in 1m 20s. Lineage beat Kenzil and Gal over a mile in 1m 48s, and Fairway travelled seven furlongs in 1m 35s. Canzone and Ickle Lass (separately) covered six furlongs in 1m 19½s, a distance which Clydeside ran in 1m 21½s, and Repulation accomplished it in 1m 21s. Gigandra got over seven furlongs in 1m 34s, and a sound working gallop went down to Quairnsta and Crosska.

Among the two-year-olds out was that strapping big son of Varco, Ambitious, who worked at a sound pace, as did Silk Tress, and half a mile in 52s was run by Earldom and Pro Tem. March On went five furlongs in 1m 8s, with Herringbone and Treadwell; and six furlongs in 1m 24s went down to Colbert and Certes. Royal Dude and Lass o' Gowrie covered six furlongs in 1m 20½s, and half a mile in 53s was run by Vauntress, Tonio, and Amadis. Lord Linnet beat Bruck over five furlongs in 1m 5½s, and Good Trim, Irish Comedy, and Earl King ran half a mile in 55s. Brilliants got over five furlongs in 1m 6s, a distance which Carine and Courante ran in 1m 6½s; and Comedia and Bonne Chance slipped over six in 1m 20s.

El Badir and King Albert covered six furlongs in 1m 22s; Indicator and Gloucester Castle spurted half a mile smartly; while The Mogul and Golden Ale finished a similar distance up the running. The English mare, Fantarie, traversed a mile nicely in 1m 49s; and Maraiomeda left six furlongs behind in 1m 21s. Hopoast and Lady Minnie each worked steadily. Gira, Carlita, and several others worked easily on the tan, on which Briarberry ran a mile and a qurter in 2m 19s.

LATEST SCRATCHINGS.

MR. HUGHES.

INFLUENZA ATTACK.

ENGAGEMENTS CANCELLED.

LONDON, March 27.

Mr. Hughes's temperature to-night was 101.

All Mr. Hughes's engagements for many days have been cancelled. His visit to Paris and the western front will probably be abandoned. It will certainly be postponed for a week or ten days. Even an engagement for April 6 has been cancelled. Doctors George Cathcart and Russell Wells issued a bulletin stating that Mr. Hughes passed a fair night, but the influenza symptoms were more pronounced, and his temperature was 102. Later in the afternoon his temperature was 101. At present Mr. Hughes is not allowed to read the papers or to see visitors. It is expected that he will be unable to resume work of any kind for at least a week. Messages of sympathy have been received from Ministers, the Duke of Norfolk, and Admiral Sir G. F. King-Hall.

Mr. Hughes's illness is unfortunate, because he has been endeavouring to settle the wheat and metal problems. The wheat question is unsatisfactory, owing to the great difficulties which have to be faced. Mr. Hughes has considered the possibilities of getting the necessary ships, selling the wheat where it is now located, or persuading the British Government to lend money. While there is a great discrepancy between Australia and River Plate freights, it is difficult to get more ships for Australia. Mr. Hughes was seriously dealing with the problem when he fell ill. The metals question was opened, but was not advanced far.

Mr. Hughes's speeches will probably be published in book form. Several tempting offers have been made.

The Lord Mayor of Cardiff has telegraphed the citizens' regrets to Mr. Hughes in connection with his illness.

LONDON, March 28.

A bulletin states that Mr. Hughes passed a fair night, and his temperature is only slightly above normal. The doctors are convinced that he is only suffering from an ordinary attack of influenza, which must run its course.

MAY EXTEND VISIT.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

It was stated a few days ago that Mr. Hughes had cabled to his colleagues in Australia asking their opinion on the proposal that he should extend his stay in England. The Acting Prime Minister (Senator Pearce) stated to-day that a cable message to this effect had been received. Mr. Hughes said that he might stay in England a week or two longer than he had originally intended, and the Cabinet had replied intimating that it left the matter entirely to Mr. Hughes's judgment, feeling sure that he was doing good work.

DOUBLE INCOME TAX.

LONDON, March 28.

The Chamber of Commerce and the Double Income Tax Protest Association have prepared a memorandum setting forth the arguments in support of their case, and replying to the Treasury's view of the matter that this is only one of the many points that ought to be considered after the war, by the committee which the Government promises to appoint. The memorandum contends that by postponing consideration of this matter irreparable injury will be caused to British commerce and trade, and the development of the Dominions' resources will be seriously retarded. The plea that property and profits within the Empire should be taxed only where they are situated or earned is regarded as the logical sequence of the closer consolidation and mutual support of various portions of the Empire, but the full application of the principle may necessitate a revision of the methods of taxation that would require time for consultation with the Dominions. The committee suggests the adoption of General Botha's proposal at the Imperial Conference in 1911, that when income has already been taxed in the Dominion where it was earned the amount paid should be deducted from the tax payable in Great Britain.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

STOCKS AND SHARES.

The speculative energy of the Sydney Stock Exchange yesterday was largely concerned with the investment side of the market, and the result was that a considerable number of shares changed hands, mostly on the firm side.

The variations in values were as follow:—

RISE.		FALL.
Pitt, Son, and Badgery	2/5	Arthur Rickard	/5
Australian Wood Pipes	/6	Standard Waygood	/6
N.S.W. 4 P.C., 1917	15/
Allen Taylor	/4
Wickham Coal (ord.)	/4

STOCK EXCHANGE SALES.

The following sales were reported:—

Morning: Mercantile Mutual, 20/6; I.O.A., 4/3; Electric Light Shares, 26/3; Wickham Coal (ord.), 20/4; Allen Taylor, 26/.

Noon: Union Bank, £51; Electric Light shares, 26/3.

FINANCIAL.

STATE INCOME TAX.

INTEREST A DEDUCTION.

"Syd" writes:—

Sir, in my income tax return, under the column "Interest Paid to Bank" I showed the sum of £40, which is the amount paid on my overdraft, and included it in my deductions. The Income Tax Department now query that amount, and wish to know in what manner the principal sum was expended. Seeing that the interest was actually paid, and that the bank will include it in its return, I would like to know is there any limitation in the income tax regulation as to the particular way in which the principal may be expended before the interest actually paid is included as a deduction.

Interest is only allowable as a deduction where the loan was instrumental in earning the taxable income. If a trader borrowed money and used it in furtherance of his business, interest would be a valid deduction. If money were merely borrowed to tide over a rainy day, then interest would not be allowed as a deduction.

PERDRIAU RUBBER COMPANY.

The twelfth annual report of the above company shows a net profit of £33,936, which, with £6277 brought forward, made £40,163 available. In September the directors paid members a dividend for the six months ended June 30, absorbing £6500, leaving a balance available of £33,663. Appropriations are recommended as follows:—To machinery and plant reserve account, £2000; to general reserve, £10,000; to depreciation of furniture, etc., £1583; to dividend, making 12½ per cent. for the year, £9750; leaving £9330 to be carried forward. The following comparison may be made:—

STAMP DUTY ON PROXY.

"Stamps" writes:—

May I ask you to indicate in your commercial column whether a proxy intended for use at one meeting and stamped with a 3d duty stamp, could be legally used for any adjournment of the meeting referred to, as is commonly practised by some of the big companies, banks, etc.

Yes. It is for the same meeting.

STAMP DUTY ON RENEWED LEASE.

F.H.W. writes:—

Regarding the Stamp Duties Act. I have a lease to pay, say, £500 per annum, duly stamped. On the expiration of the term I renew for, say, three years at £560 per annum. What additional stamp duty am I required to pay?

Stamp duty is payable on £560 that is to say, 2/6 on every £50 or portion of £50, which would be 30/.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

At the wool sales yesterday 7361 bales were catalogued, and 6749 bales were sold.

Good wools were firm at late rates. Difficulty was experienced in placing faulty sorts.

Farmer and Co., Ltd., has declared an interim dividend of 5 per cent. (1/ per share) to the ordinary shares.

The Coodra Vale Co., Ltd., is being wound up by resolution passed on March 3, 1916. Mr. Leslie G. Saunders has been appointed liquidator.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

Groceries were quiet yesterday. The Lenten demand was increasing, and there were strong inquiries for the cheaper fish, or what used to be considered the cheaper fish—herrings and sardines—with little hope of being satisfied. Some of the American herrings were selling at 10/ per doz. lb for fresh and kippers, both of which were difficult to obtain. American herrings in sauce were in more plentiful supply. Some brands from the United States were not favoured, and the same may be said of some Canadian brands. Salmon was distributing well, but merchants were disinclined to do parcel business. Sheeps' tongues were being brought from New Zealand to fill the demand. Local tongues were extremely scarce. Bovril was wanted. Dried fruits were going out freely, and good orders were being booked. The first of the new season's lexias arrived yesterday. Rocksalt was advanced to £6/15/ a ton. Latest freight is quoted at £5/10/ a ton for April-May shipment, and not firm at that. On this freight rocksalt would cost £7/10/ to land. There was very little rocksalt on the market yesterday. Brown paper was selling at £45 per ton. The grocers were paying 6d per lb for it. Hence they were looking round for substitutes. Waste newspaper was generally favoured. Grease-proof paper was selling at 10/ a ream, and it could not be laid down for the money.

Oil was quiet yesterday. Blundell Spence's showed a further decline in English quotations, being quoted at 3/ to 3/1½ f.o.b. This was a penny lower than Saturday. Rosin was asked for. G grade sold to the extent of 300 barrels, partly to arrive, at £20.

Stocks of cornsacks available for immediate delivery were light, and it was impossible to obtain supplies under 10/6 net to rails. In fact, some holders wanted 10/9. April-May-June shipments of woolpacks were quoted at from 4 1½ to 4/2 net, but ex store 4/ would have been accepted. Branbags brought from 8/2 to 8/3 net.

DRAWBACK ON EXPORTED GOODS.

The Collector of Customs advises that, subject to the compliance with the requirements of the Customs Act and regulations, drawback of the import duty paid will be allowed on such of the goods bearing suspended enemy trade marks as are enumerated in order dated February 21, 1916, published in Commonwealth Gazette No. 27, of February 23, 1916, provided exportation takes place before May 23, 1916.

The amount of wool which was manifested to arrive at Darling Harbour and suburban stations yesterday was 358 bales.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 2447 tons of wheat and 173 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

LONDON MARKET CABLES.

METALS.

LONDON, March 27.

Closing quotations to-day were:—

Copper: Cash, £113/10/ to £114 per ton (10/ up).

Tin: Spot, £201 to £201/10/ (£1/10/ up); three months, £195 to £195/5/ (£1/5/ up).

Spelter: Spot, £96 (£3 up); three months, £88 (£3 up).

SILVER.

Bar silver was quoted to-day at 28 7-16d per ounce standard, a fall of ⅛d.

DELIVERY OF WOOL.

At a meeting of Bradford woolbuyers and the Colonial Woolbuyers' Association, a resolution was passed in favour of an extension of time being granted for the delivery of wool purchased at the sales at 28 days. The importers' committee will consider the matter to-morrow.

WHEAT.

The wheat market is nominal.

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

Wheat is still based on 5/5 for shipping parcels. Flour, nominal, £12 net at Port Adelaide, £12/10/ delivered at Adelaide. Bran, /11¼ net, 1/ delivered. Pollard, 1/1¼ net, 1/2¼ delivered. Oats, nominal, 2/1½ to 2/2 aboard for April parcels. Barley, steady around 4/ for good English, 4/3 for choice; Cape held up for 3/ for best samples; feed lines, around 2/6. Chaff, unchanged, £3/7/6 on trucks at Mile End, bags included. Cornsacks firmer, on spot, 10/2½ to 10/3; Melbourne still inquiring for spot supplies. Branbags, 8/3 at auction. Butter slightly easier; factory, 1/4 to 1/6; dairy, 1/3 to 1/4; stores, /11 to 1/. Eggs, 1/4½. Cheese easier, /9 to /9½. Honey, from /3½. Almonds, /8 to /8½ for Brandies, /7 to /7½ for mixed softshells, 1/4½ for kernels. Bacon, sides 1/2 to 1/3. Hams, 1/3 to 1/5.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Bran steady, £4/10/. Pollard, good demand, £4/15/. Barley firm, but quiet; Duckbill, 4/3 to 4/5; Chevalier, to 4/10. Oats, easier tone; milling Algerians, 2/1½ to 2/2, occasionally 2/2½; feed, 2/ to 2/1. Chaff steady, £2/17/6 to £3/2/6. Straw steady, £1/10/ to £1/15/. Potatoes quiet; Carmens and Brownells £7 to £7/10/. Onions dull, brown Spanish, £3 to £3/5/. Butter, best grades quiet, 138/ to 140/; others neglected. Eggs advanced /1; light supplies, now 1/7 to 1/10. Bacon declined /1; sides 1/3, middles 1/4. Moderate business in fine Ceylon and Indian teas. Tartaric acid firmly held; Sydney inquiring, but few sellers. Cornsacks, spot 11/, ex Obra 10/9. Branbags dull, 8/.

MELBOURNE FRUIT MARKET.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In Queen Victoria Market to-day almonds sold at /10 to 1/ lb; apples, 1/ to 3/6 per case; figs, 3/ to 3/6 half-case; grapes, 4/ to 8/ case; lemons, local, 12/ to 15/ case; peaches, 4/ to 7/ per case; pears, dessert, 2/ to 5/; plums, 2/6 to 4/6; strawberries, /8 to 1/ box; walnuts, /10 to 1/ lb; quinces, 2/6 to 3/6 case.

MELBOURNE LIVE STOCK MARKET.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In the live stock market to-day, 26,000 fat sheep were penned, including an increased proportion of merinos, mostly of good to prime quality. There was a large attendance of the trade and of graziers, but the market was very irregular. Biddings on the whole were brisker, and occasional early sales revealed a tendency to harden, but the demand, which was not evenly sustained, weakened towards the close, and no material alteration from late values can be quoted. A number of truck-loads missed the turn of their sale through delays in transit, and had to be sold at the end of the day to a much reduced attendance of buyers. Quotations:—

Prime crossbred wethers, 34/ to 38/6; extra, to 44/3; odd pens, to 45/3; odd wethers, to 49/; good 31/ to 33/; seconds, 27/6 to 30/; inferior, from 24/3. Prime crossbred ewes, 31/3 to 33/9; extra, to 40/; odd ewes, to 44/6; good, 26/6 to 29/6; seconds, 23/ to 25/6; inferior, from 17/6. Prime merino wethers, 26/6 to 34/3; extra, to 37/; good, 24/ to 25/6; seconds, from 22/; inferior, lower. Merino ewes, from 23 to 30/3; extra, to 34/7; low conditioned ewes, from 17/.

Fat lambs, 10,600 penned, including a good proportion of prime in both shorn and woolly [illegible] demand was brisk throughout, and with few exceptions the extremely high rates which marked the close of last market were well maintained.

Quotations:—Shorn lambs, prime, 26/6 to 31/; extra, to 35/3; odd pens, to [illegible]; seconds, 20/ to 22/6; inferior, from 17/. Woolly lambs, good to prime, 24/ to 30/; extra, to 36/; odd lots, to 38/; others, from 17/9.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

NEW-LAID EGGS, 1/10.

"The public have gone right off new-laid eggs." Once again the old familiar wail is heard from end to end of Sussex-street. Last week there was a really strong demand for the best quality eggs, and selling agents, despite the lessons of the past, forced the price to 2/2. But the majority of housewives now keep a stronger hold on their purse strings than they did a couple of years back, and when they were asked by the local grocer to pay 2/5 and 2/6 a dozen for eggs, they flatly refused. The result is that big stocks have accumulated in Sussex-street, and agents have been forced to reduce prices considerably. River consignments were unchanged at 1/7. Parcels from the railway and South Coast commanded from 1/7 to 1/8. Large new-laid duck eggs realised from 1/10 to 1/11 a dozen.

Bacon was unobtainable for delivery earlier than the end of April.

Quotations were:—

DAIRY PRODUCE.

Butter, at Sydney (proclaimed price).—First grade, 126/; second grade, 121/; third brand, 116/ per cwt., including 1/6 charge on boxes and usual cartage, not exceeding 6d per cwt.

Suburban Consignments.—Fowls, young roosters, small 3/9 to 4/6, medium 5/ to 6/, prime to 7/, extra to 8/3; fat hens, 4/6 to 5/, heavy to 8/, extra heavy to 7/6 per pair; ducks, English 4/3 to 5/, choice suburban to 5/9, Muscovy 5/ to 5/6, choice suburban to 6/; drakes, Muscovy 5/9 to 6/9, choice suburban to 8/3; turkeys, hens, young to 7/, good to 9/6, choice to 15/; turkeys, gobblers, small, young to 9/, good to 20/, prime to 27/6, extra choice 35/ to 40/ per pair; geese, to 7/6; guinea fowls, to 5/9; pigeons 1/9 to 2/3 a pair.

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

HEAVY SUPPLY OF ONIONS.

Over 6000 bags of onions were yesterday received from Victoria, and the best samples were to be had at from £4/10/ to £4/15/ a ton.

Tasmanian potatoes were unchanged at the opening rates. A parcel of 3000 bags of Carmens was to hand from Victoria, and the best samples brought £9/10/ a ton.

The market for maize was weak. Prime dry yellow African grain was offered at from 4/11 to 5/; yellow maize from the rivers was to be had at 4/9. Stocks of white maize were small, and holders generally asked from 4/10 to 4/11 a bushel.

Quotations were:—

VEGETABLES.

Potatoes.—Tasmanian: Redskins and Plunkets, £10/10/, Brownells £10, Bismarcks and Pinkeyes £9/10/; Victorian Carmen, £9/10/; local, £5/10/ to £10 a ton.

RAILWAY MARKET.

WEAK DEMAND FOR LUCERNE.

A small yarding was again presented at the Redfern sales yesterday, and consisted in all of 80 trucks. A representative crowd of buyers attended, and sales very much the same as on Monday were effected. The usual demand for oaten and wheaten chaff was still existent, and for choice lots in both lines 4/ per cwt was paid. As usual, wheaten chaff constituted the bulk of the yarding, and was chiefly of good quality, being worth 3/6 to 4/8 per cwt. Oaten chaff was of good quality throughout, and realised 4/ to 4/6 per cwt.

In lucerne fodder, however, a diminishing demand was manifest. At the beginning, choice green hay made 6/3 and 6/4 per cwt, but thenceforth would attract no active buyers, and rates from 4/7 to 5/6 were paid. Chaff, in like manner, was dull, and among many passes only one sale was effected at 6/4 per cwt, while dust sold at 7/9 per cwt.

Potatoes made dull sales. Buyers were fully represented, and lots were mostly of choice character, and further, higher prices in the markets built up hopes of better rates, but no more than 9/ was procurable.

Trucks in position comprised 74 of hay, straw, and chaff, 4 of grain, 2 of potatoes, and outstanding are manifested at 90 trucks hay, straw, and chaff, 5 of grain, and 8 of vegetables.

The following business was transacted:—

Wheaten Chaff.—Ex Yerong Creek (1727), 3/9; Lyons, Mandurama (18882), 4/3; ex —— (6821), 4/2; Jacobs, Woodstock (19245), 4/5; Kember, Ganmain (5847), 4/1; ex Leeton (15264), 4/3; do (19203), 4/4; Bullock, Uppingham (1898), 4/2; Bullock, Wattamondara (5354), 4/6; ex Bomen (5782), 3/6; ex Wagga (18421), 3/8; Clements, Mogongong (5684) p, 3/11; ex Yanco (16584) p, 3/11; (17807), 4/1; do (12796) p, 4/; ex Darling Harbour (18032) p, 4/; Crouch, Crowther (3066), 4/1; Ellis, Brocklesby (7216), 4/2 per cwt.

Oaten Chaff.—Ex Alexandria (9825), 4/; Bullock, Blayney (9781), 4/; ex Crowther (14277), 4/6; ex Forest Hill (18825), 4/1; Rowlands, Wangoola (6604), 4/ per cwt.

Lucerne Chaff.—Ex Alexandria (14295), 6/4; balance, 15 bags dust, 7/9; Hoggarth, Nemingha (4837) p, 6/2; balance, 30 bags, 7/3; ex Nemingha (19296) p, 6/2; balance, 9 bags dust, 7/; Chaffey, Nemingha (2762), ex truck p, 4/7; balance, 19 bags dust, p, 5/3 per cwt.

Wheaten Hay.—Honeyman, Kelso (6480), 3/6 per cwt.

Lucerne Hay.—Tomkins, Mount Frome (6067), 6/4; do (1615), part green, 6/3; brown, no offer; Smith, Mudgee (17884), no offer; Welley, Mudgee (13082), 5/6; Lea, Tamworth (14465), 4/7; ex Scone (4982) p, 4/9; ex Scone (15555) p, 5/2 per cwt.

Oats.—Sendry, Newbridge (1655), 92 bags Algerian oats, 2/7 per bushel.

Potatoes.—Grant, Black Mountain (15625), 80 bags Satisfactions, 9/; balance 30 bags Brownells, 8/10; ex Black Mountain (5474), 33 bags Brownells branded, W. Simpson, 8/10; 60 bags (small), 6/3 per cwt.

FRUIT MARKET.

ANOTHER TASMANIAN SHIPMENT.

Grapes.—Local: Black and white muscats, 3/6 to 7/6; Black Hamburg, 2/6 to 4/6; white Sherry, 3/6 to 6/ a half-case.

VEGETABLE MARKET.

PRICES MUCH FIRMER.

BETTER DEMAND.

Large supplies of bunch vegetables and more moderate supplies of seasonable household vegetables were floored at the city vegetable markets, and business was on a sound basis. Cabbages, on account of smaller supplies, were on firm prices, and met a full demand. Beans and peas were also selling well. Most vine fruit showed slower tendencies at late rates, and watermelons particularly were very dull and are going out of season.

A slight rise occurred in potatoes, but very little trade was effected. Swedes were selling cheaper, but onions were firm.

The market generally came in for a fair amount of trade, and brisker business is expected for household vegetables in the near future.

Quotations were:—

Cabbages, local very choice to 4/6, prime 2/6 to 3/, medium 1/6 to 2/, small /6 to 1/. Lettuce /9 to 1/3 per dozen.

Carrots, /6 to 1/6; celery, 2/ to 2/6; beetroot, /9 to 1/3; eschalots, 1/ to 2/; herbs, 1/ to 1/6; mint, 1/ to 1/6; parsley, 1/ to 2/; parsnips, 1/6 to 2/; radishes, /9 to 1/; rhubarb, 1/6 to 2/6; spinach, to 1/; white turnips, 1/ to 2/; leeks, 1/ to 2/ per dozen bunches.

French beans, local, choice 2/, good 1/6 to 1/9, medium, /9 to 1/; peas, local, choice 5/6; good 4/ to 5/, medium 2/ to 3/6; Tasmanian, 3/6 to 4/6 per bushel.

Chillies, 4/ to 6/ per bushel; 1/ to 2/ per half-bushel case; garlic, 1/ per lb.

Tomatoes, choice to 3/, coloured 1/ to 2/6, green 1/ to 3/; egg tomatoes, 2/; pickling tomatoes, 1/ to 2/ per half-bushel case.

Pumpkins, very large, 24/ to 30/ per dozen, local 4/ to 12/ per dozen, /1 to /1½ per lb, 4/ to 10/ per cwt; Queensland 10/ to 12/ per bag. Vegetable marrows, 1/ to 2/6; watermelons, large 8/ to 9/, good 6/ to 8/, medium 4/ to 5/, small from 2/; jam melons, 6/ to 12/ per dozen; cucumbers, /6 to /9 per dozen, local, 1/ per half-bushel case, 2/6 per gin case, and 3/ per bag; prickly South African, 1/ to 1/6 per half-bushel case; rockmelons, 2/6 to 4/ per case; grammas, 6/ to 12/ per dozen; squashes, 1/ to 2/ per dozen.

Potatoes, Tasmanian Bismarcks, 10/6 to 11/; Tasmanian Redskins, 11/6; Victorian Pinkeyes, 10/6 to 11/; Brownell's, 11/; Melbourne Carmens, 11/; sweet potatoes, 10/ to 12/; Manhattans, 11/.

Onions, local Silverskins, good 4/ to 4/6 per cwt, inferior from 2/; brown Spanish, 6/ to 6/6 per cwt; Swede turnips, 5/6 to 6/6 per cwt.

PIG SALES.

HEAVY SUPPLIES.

BACONERS AND BACKFATTERS EASIER.

A particularly heavy supply of 1625 pigs was penned at the city yards yesterday. A large proportion were baconers, while stores were well in evidence. Only a moderate supply of porkers was available. The quality of offerings was generally good, and buyers were in full attendance. For baconers and backfatters competition was somewhat restricted, and values lower, while for porkers full rates at late prices were paid.

The ruling prices were:—

Best backfatters to £9/10/, good £6 to £7/10/, medium £5 to £6 light from £3/15/. Best baconers to £5/15/, good £4/8/ to £5, medium £3/15/ to £4/3/, light from £3/10/. Best porkers to £3/10/, good £2/15/ to £3/5/, medium £2 to £2/10/, light from £1/10/. Stores, £1/8/ to £2/15/ per head.

MELBOURNE.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

At to-day's wool sales 4580 bales were offered. The selection was an indifferent one. Anything good in the shape of merino met with full attention, and prices for these were unchanged. Crossbreds, however, hardly maintained their position.

The King is drinking Lipton's Tea. Are you drinking with the King.—Advt.

MINING.

TIN IN THE LEAD.

BARRIERS AND COPPER QUIET.

WESTONIAS FLUCTUATING.

The market opened yesterday morning with a decided leaning towards tin stocks, and after the first call it was "tin first, and the rest nowhere." Barriers did not look at all cheerful, because early rush wires stated that Melbourne was selling, and as Adelaide was silent on the silver section, local operators thought there was "something in the wind," and kept off silver, or neglected it very much.

Speculative energy in copper shares was at zero, but there was nothing limp about the manner in which they were held. It was the firmness of scrip-holders that caused the lack of business. The Edna May group of gold mines opened with less vigour, and continued so until it was learned by a telegram from the manager of the Edna May Deep Mine, stating that the drill-hole which tapped the underground lake of water that flooded the mine had been plugged, and that it was a question of a day or two only when the mine would be cleaned up and operations resumed as usual. This had the effect of firming the market.

In the meantime, tin stocks dominated the situation, both as regards the amount of business transacted and the solid prices paid for them. Kampongs, Trong, and Ratrut Basin again sold on the up grade, whilst offers for Austral Malay failed to draw sellers. There were buyers of Tin Bentong, but no declared sellers; the opposite being the case with Malaya Tin Corporation.

The copper section was again in the background so far as business was concerned, but there was nothing flabby about the way in which the scrip was held.

Tin interests again dominated the situation in the afternoon. Silver and copper stocks were in the doldrums, but Edna May Deep finished up firm.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

The Antarctic disturbance has been forced away from our coast by the oncoming "high," and is at present to the south of New Zealand. This high pressure advanced about 600 miles eastward during the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. yesterday, and has gained slightly in barometric values. It has also extended northwards, with the result that it now covers the greater part of the continent. The central barometric readings, which are centred about Cape Northumberland, read as high as 30.48 inches. These high readings denote the first of the cold weather type of pressure systems, which usually govern our weather during the colder months of the year. A new Antarctic disturbance has made its appearance in the extreme south-west corner of the continent. A monsoonal dip is in evidence off our North Coast and in the extreme south-east corner of Queensland. Further showers may be expected along the coast, chiefly north of Sydney, and more thunder in the extreme north-east.

Ocean Forecast.—Fresh to strong south to south-east winds on New South Wales and Queensland coast; fresh westerly winds around the Leeuwin.

£1000 FOR ILLUMINATIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I have just been reading the Lord Mayor's suggestion of spending £1000 on decorations to commemorate Anzac Day. Now, as the wife of a working-man and the mother of a soldier boy, I would raise my voice in protest against such a wicked waste of public money. We are told to study economy, and it is the working class who are doing all they can to help in all the calls that are being made, so as they can feel they are doing their bit in this terrible time of suffering. Let the Lord Mayor give the £1000 out of his private purse to the sick and those of the boys who are maimed for life through their noble and unselfish efforts in doing what they could do for their homes and Empire.

I am, etc., J.L.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I am quite sure the whole community will be shocked to read in your paper this morning that the motion of the Lord Mayor to spend £1000 on illuminations on April 25 has been carried. It is quite evident that neither the Lord Mayor nor those who supported his motion have sacrificed anyone near and dear to them at that memorable landing, or they would certainly realise that even happy-go-lucky Australians are not accustomed to celebrate the first anniversary of a death in the family with jubilations and illuminations. Leaving out altogether the question of expense, celebrations and illuminations always tend to attract crowds into the city; and, bearing in mind the fact that riots of soldiers, assisted by civilians, have occurred during the last two years, and also that the liquor bars are still open till 8 p.m., those who invite crowds to congregate—well, to say the least of it, they are looking for trouble.

I am, etc.,
March 28. LINDA P. LITTLEJOHN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The proposal to celebrate Anzac Day by illuminating to the extent of £1000, though in spirit well-intentioned, will, I hope, not be carried out. The public in the main are dreadfully against fireworks just now, particularly against a thousand pounds' worth, and the hose of common sense should be turned on before the matter goes any further. It is all so shallow and unsuited to the pressure of the time—the stern, grim time of war, when fireworks of quite another kind are dealing out death and destruction amongst the nations. The pride of race engendered by memories of the 25th of April, 1915, will live in our hearts for ever without the swish of the toy rocket, or the coruscation of an electric sign, and alongside the achievement itself, even spread-eagled oratory and the politician's platitude is an empty, futile thing. If £1000 must go bang, in the name of our new nationhood, born of the valour which moved the world on that splendid day, let it be devoted to something practical—to the amelioration in some degree of the sufferings of the wounded men themselves, or the dependents of those who are gone, whose changed lives and saddened homes are the inevitable outcome of the sacrifice. I am, etc.,

March 28. C. L. DOHERTY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I should suggest that Anzac Day (the never-to-be-forgotten 25th April) should be set aside as a day of humiliation and prayer in memory of our brave soldiers who have left home and dear ones behind to fight for King and country. We who have lost our nearest and dearest do not think of illuminations at such a time, but to bow in humility and prayer, and ask God to grant a speedy termination of the war. The £1000 proposed by the Lord Mayor for illuminations could, I am sure, be put to some better purpose for the benefit of our brave returned soldiers and those depending upon them. Let the Lord Mayor have the Town Hall draped with flags flying half-mast, and the hall thrown open for united memorial services, which would, I am sure, be more fitting for the occasion.

I am, etc., ELSPETH.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Evidently the Lord Mayor has not lost anyone in the war, or he would not be so insistent on celebrating so light-heartedly the anniversary of the death of so many of our heroes. As one who has given a brother to the cause, I express the hope that any commemoration of Anzac Day will be of the most solemn and reverend character, if only out of respect to the hundreds to whom the day will be perhaps the saddest of their lives.

I am, etc.,
March 28. GALLIPOLI.

GOVERNMENT NOTICES.

Commonwealth of Australia,
Department of Trade and Customs,
Spring-street, Melbourne,
25th March, 1916.

TENDERS will be received until noon on FRIDAY, 7th APRIL, 1916, for the IMMEDIATE SUPPLY OF A STEAMER, fully equipped, and in seagoing order, of about 150 to 200 tons d.adweight capacity, speed about 10 knots, and loaded draft about 8ft.

The vessel must have good cargo-handling appliances, a large hatchway, and roomy, well-lighted, well-ventilated accommodation for officers and crew.

Tenderers must submit a specification, together with a statement giving the name of the vessel, date when built, draught and dimensions, particulars of machinery, boilers, bunker capacity, coal consumption per diem, hold capacity, and complete inventory of equipment.

If any tender is accepted it will be conditional on the vessel undergoing satisfactory speed trials in loaded trim, and passing a satisfactory survey of hull and machinery, all docking and slipping expenses to be paid by tenderer if tender is accepted.

If any vessel offered is built of wood, the tenderer should state whether sheathed with copper or other protective material.

Tenderers to state when and where inspection can be made, and port at which vessel will be delivered.

Tenders to be addressed to the Comptroller-General, Department of Trade and Customs, Melbourne, and be marked on the outside, "Tender for Steamer."

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

FRANK G. TUDOR,
Minister for Trade and Customs.

THE NEW PUNT AT SANS SOUCI
MAKES TAREN POINT ESTATE A NEW LIVE-IN-ALL-THE-YEAR
WATERSIDE SUBURB FOR SYDNEY.

TAREN POINT IS NOW THE KEY TO CRONULLA; the new punt cuts off three miles—and Cronulla is daily drawing nearer.

A LINE OF COACHES and MOTOR COACHES will ply between the two in a few days—
AND A TRAM MUST FOLLOW.

TAKES ONLY A FEW MINUTES MORE NOW THAN TO TAREN POINT THAN IT DOES TO GO TO COOGEE. Go by train to Kogarah, tram to Sans Souci, and via the new free punt. . . . Time of journey right through, minutes. . . . Combined train and tram tickets between Sans Souci and Sydney, 2/7. . . . trains to and fro daily.

TAREN POINT ESTATE,

3rd SUBDIVISION—207 LOTS,

FOR AUCTION, ON THE LAND,

SATURDAY, APRIL 8, AT 3.

SPLENDID ABSOLUTE WATER FRONTAGES, gentle slopes, even graded, and free from rock.

SOME LOTS WITH FRONTAGE TO THE PARK AND WOOLAWARE BAY.

MAIN ROAD SITES FOR HOMES AND SHOPS.

CHOICE WEEK-END AND RESIDENTIAL LOTS.

AND A FEW BLOCKS OF GOOD SOIL, SUITABLE FOR POULTRY FARMS AND GARDENS.

SPECIAL EASY TERMS:

ON WATER-FRONTAGE LOTS, £5 down, and balance in 48 monthly payments.
ON SECTIONS 3 AND 4, £3 down, and balance 48 monthly payments.
FOR ALL OTHER LOTS, £1 down, and 10/ per month.

INTEREST in all cases at 5 per cent. per annum.

Being so close to Sydney—under 12 miles—and in such beautiful surroundings—with aquatic pleasures at your door here . . . land values must go up. Now the punt is running—AND STILL HIGHER WHEN THE TRAM TO CRONULLA IS OPEN. So this is the time to buy—enjoy your purchase for a year or two, and then your profit.

HARDIE and GORMAN PROPRIETARY, Ltd., Auctioneers, 133 Pitt-street, in conjunction with MUNRO and CO., Epping.
F. C. PETRIE, Esq., Solicitor to Estate, Pendennis-chambers, George-street.

UNDER INSTRUCTIONS FROM THE COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS' ASSOCIATION OF N.S.W., WITH A DETERMINATION TO REALISE.
PITT AND CASTLEREAGH STREETS, between Market and Park streets, in one of the most progressive and improving sections of the city.
A MAGNIFICENT BLOCK
OF CITY PROPERTY, suitable for the erection of a LARGE BUSINESS EMPORIUM, AMUSEMENT, PICTURE OR THEATRE PURPOSES, or others requiring large ground-floor space, with exceptionally big depth through from 2 main thoroughfares, with trams passing to and from the railway, etc., etc.
The Dimensions are as follows:—
64 FEET 2½ INCHES TO PITT-STREET.
48 FEET TO CASTLEREAGH-STREET.
with through depths of about 279 feet on the north side and about 275 feet on the south side.
TITLE TORRENS.
The present buildings, which are unworthy of so fine a site, comprise:—
Nos. 244, 246, and 248 PITT-STREET, 3 Shops with offices over, known as INGLIS-CHAMBERS.
Nos. 169 and 173 CASTLEREAGH-STREET, 2 Shops, and 1 story over.
In the centre is very large open space, occupied as a garage, etc. APPROACHED BY ENTRANCE FROM PITT and CASTLEREAGH STREETS.
LITHO. READY.

HARDIE AND GORMAN PROPRIETARY, LTD., have received instructions to sell by Public Auction, at the Sale Rooms, 133 Pitt-street, Sydney, at 11.30 o'clock on WEDNESDAY, APRIL 19, 1916,
THE ABOVE-DESCRIBED LARGE BLOCK OF CITY PROPERTY, FRONTING PITT and CASTLEREAGH STREETS.

THE CITY OF SYDNEY is GROWING TREMENDOUSLY in important business houses, and GREAT DIFFICULTY IS EXPERIENCED IN SECURING LARGE SITES with DOUBLE FRONTAGES and very large depths for special business uses.
THIS SITE was purchased by the Commercial Travellers' Association for club uses, but having made substantial additions to their present premises it is no longer required by the association.

KIRRIBILLI,

THE GEM SITE OF SYDNEY HARBOUR

Ask any tourist the ideal scene in the whole world and he will answer—
SYDNEY HARBOUR.
And the Home-lover will tell you that the best aspect is the EASTERLY.
HOLBROOK MANSION ESTATE,
KIRRIBILLI,
FILLS THESE TWO GREAT IDEALS.
And it is practically the ONLY ESTATE ON SYDNEY HARBOUR with an EASTERLY ASPECT THAT TAKES IN THE BEST PART OF THE HARBOUR.
This fine Estate is situated right at and adjoining the KIRRIBILLI FERRY WHARF, the first call, on one side, and the beautiful CLUB-HOUSE AND GROUNDS OF THE ROYAL SYDNEY YACHT SQUADRON, on the other, and is only 5 MINUTES FROM THE CITY.
The Subdivision comprises 12 CHOICE RESIDENTIAL SITES, of which
5 HAVE ABSOLUTE DEEP WATER FRONTAGES.
On LOT 7 IS THE MANSION HOLBROOK (for many years the home of the well-known Pitt family), of solid dressed stone, and containing some 20 ROOMS AND OFFICES. A truly magnificent pile that would LEND ITSELF SPLENDIDLY FOR CONVERSION INTO MODERN FLATS
that would readily find tenants. A SOLID INVESTMENT.
TORRENS TITLE.
ADMIRALTY HOUSE, which is near by, was sold 38 years ago for £5000; some years later it was resold to a Mr. Cadell for £8000; and six years later it was again resold for £21,000.
THAT IS THE WAY VALUES GROW AT KIRRIBILLI.

NO MORE BEACHES.

Sydney is blest beyond all the cities of Australia; and, indeed, of the world, in the large number of beautiful beaches within easy distance of its G.P.O. But, after all, the number of these is limited, and every man who desires a lot near one of them should get in early. Values are rapidly rising. Now, consider the following, obtainable on our easy terms:—

CRONULLA.

HOUSES AND LAND FOR SALE.

HABERFIELD.

It is now over 12 years since Haberfield was … thought of, and the scheme that was then propo… has been carried out in its entirety and conducted … all sides with very great success.

SUCCESS ATTENDED THE BUILDING up of Haber… field because, firstly, the buildings at all times and … all descriptions have been of a most substan… character. Secondly, the properties were highly fin… and at the same time with artistic treatment. Third… large areas were ensured for all time round the prope… ties, and only buildings of a certain class allowed. Fourthly, our terms have always been on a

FIVE PER CENT. BASIS,

and we have been able to meet the financial require… ments of almost any buyer. In this direction every… thing has been made extremely easy. Fifthly, the sanitation and general lay-out of the Suburb have been conducive to the healthiest conditions.

WE CAN GO ON GIVING MANY OTHER REASONS, but we think those mentioned above are sufficient for the present.

TO DAY WE HAVE A FINE ASSORTMENT of Cottage Homes, ranging from, say, varying in size, some three bedrooms and 4 bedrooms, some two bedrooms and breakfast-room, etc. In all cases large rooms, wide verandahs, well-fitted bathrooms, etc., gas, water, sewerage, and electric light are installed. The roads are all metalled, all footways kerbed, and the Municipal work is up to a high standard of perfection.

OUR OFFICES AT HABERFIELD AND SUMMER HILL are open all day Saturday, and we have Salesmen in attendance, who will be glad to take you round.

DO NOT MISS THIS OPPORTUNITY.

It is quite an acknowledged fact that building operations in the future will be much more expensive than in the past, so buy the properties while you can get them at a reasonable figure.

OUR PRICES WILL COMPARE WITH ANY PROPERTIES of similar size in any suburb close to the city.

HABERFIELD IS APPROACHED by electric tram from George-street, or from Summer Hill and Ashfield Railway Stations, and is within four miles of the G.P.O.

THE TITLE IS TORRENS.
We are prepared to allow ANY AMOUNT TO REMAIN ON MORTGAGE AT 5 PER CENT.

ACCOUNTANCY INSTRUCTION GUARANTEED.

If you want instruction in Accountancy it will be worth your while to learn about our GUARANTEED COURSE OF INSTRUCTION. OUR methods are so certain, and have been so successful, that we are prepared to undertake that students will pass their examinations at the first attempt. If they fail we coach them WITHOUT FURTHER CHARGE UNTIL THEY ARE SUCCESSFUL. Could we make a fairer or more convincing offer?

METHODS.—Personal and individual correction of all students' work by Mr. C. Bartle, A.C.P.A. Students receive MODEL answers to all questions, and WRITTEN lectures, which render the purchase of text books unnecessary.

FEES.—No more than those usually paid for class instruction. All our students receive individual attention.

Whether you require personal or postal instructions WRITE TO-DAY for our booklet, entitled "How to Study Accountancy." Merely attach your name and address to this advertisement and post.

THE AUSTRALIAN BUSINESS INSTITUTE (C. Bartle, A.C.P.A., Manager), 805 Culwulla-chambers, Castlereagh and King streets, SYDNEY.

ACCOUNTANCY.
ACCOUNTANCY.
ACCOUNTANCY.

The popularity of the Accountancy Examinations as a means of proving efficiency in business has grown at an extraordinary rate during the past few years.

To-day the young business man is compelled to qualify if he wants to do any good for himself at all.

Over 1600 candidates sat for their Examinations last year. Were you one of them?

If not, are you studying this year?

For YOU cannot afford to stand aside.

You will be in competition with those 1600 young men for the high-class positions—and your application will not receive consideration.

Business men demand trained, qualified men—and WILL HAVE them. Make up your mind to-day to join the ranks of the qualified.

Why remain an "outsider?"

Under our method of teaching you are bound to succeed.

Write for full information.

Our "Guide to Accountancy" is free.

It clearly explains the whole proposal.

Don't delay any longer.

Write first opportunity.

THE REAL RUST-PROOF CORSETS.

It is easy enough to claim that a Corset is Rust-proof. But here is a proof—visualised—that are actually Non-rusting. As one who wears Corsets, you know that Brass Eyelets will sooner or later stain the undergarments with rust marks.

KABO,
THE Live Model
CORSETS,

Kabo Corsets have fine white-cord Eylets. These are fastened between two layers of the fabric to prevent them ever tearing away. Thus, you may wash your Kabo Corset with complete confidence after removing the Suspenders.

Kabo Corsets are sold by Leading Drapers everywhere. You pay nothing extra for these priceless features. Ask for Kabo Corsets, and accept no substitute.

DAVID JONES' DRESSING GOWNS

ARE EXCEPTIONALLY MODERATE IN PRICE.

Displayed in Underclothing Dept. (2nd Floor).

This is another instance of the advantage David Jones' are enabled to offer the shopping public through having a particularly keen London buyer, who anticipates the fluctuations of the market, and when a rise in price is imminent, places orders and ships immediately before the increase.

These Dressing Gowns, at last year's prices, represent exceptional values at this time, as there is a continual rising. Our advice is—"Come and inspect them at once to secure the economical benefit we are able to offer, for the next shipment will undoubtedly be at higher rates."

A FEW TYPICAL VALUES.

MOLLETON FLANNELETTE DRESSING GOWN, Oriental trimming on neck and sleeves. Belt at waist. In grey, Cardinal, or Saxe. Lengths, 54 to 58 ins. ..... 16/9.

"BUSY-NESS."
Yes! "Busy-ness" explains the atmosphere of Farmer's many departments.

That word may not be academic English—it may not be English at all. But it expresses what we mean. And we trace the busy-ness of our staff to the attractive values that characterise the stock.

Economy is the very essence of this huge business. Economy in our buying, and economy in selling prices—these are features nationally important and studied by Farmer's in every detail.

THREE POPULAR BLOUSES,

AT NINE AND ELEVEN.

AN ABSOLUTELY NEW STYLE JAP SILK BLOUSE, in our famous extra heavy quality. Well-made and finished in every detail; set-in sleeves, neat high roll collar with picot edge and turn-back cuffs to match. PRICE 9/11.

ANOTHER NEW MODEL in our famous EXTRA HEAVYWEIGHT JAP. SILK BLOUSE, with high collar, which is now so fashionable, fastening with two buttons at throat, and neat turn-down pieces, block shoulders; sleeves and front set in with hemstitching. PRICE 9/11.

VERY SMART JAP. SILK BLOUSE, designed high collar, with Moire ribbon around throat, silk tab falling over block shoulders, set-in sleeves, all neatly hemstitched, turn-back cuffs, plain shirt-finished front. PRICE 9/11.

LADIES' TAILORING DEPARTMENT.

OUR SPECIALITY:
LADIES'
RIDING HABITS.
LADIES'
RIDING BREECHES.

We have pleasure in informing our customers and friends that we have re-opened our Ladies' Tailoring Department under the direction of Mr. S. R. Du Mughn who is so well and [illegible] known in Sydney as a successful artist in the Designing, Cutting, and Perfect Fitting of Ladies' Tailor-made Garments.

We have been fortunate in securing the services of this gentleman, as we feel assured that his wide experience, gained through many years' connection with some of the foremost Ladies' Tailoring Houses in Paris and London, will—when combined with our fine stocks and well-known moderate prices—immensely increase the prestige of this favourite section.

All materials and colourings of our stock will be found correct to fashion's decree, and we request, in your own interest, the favour of an early visit.

SPECIAL SHOWING OF MILLINERY TO-DAY.

To-day we announce the arrival of further supplies of Autumn Millinery, Costumes, Blouses, Dress Goods, etc., to swell the already abundant collections of new goods at M'DOWELL and HUGHES. The Millinery comes in for a specially fine, big show in the large Arcade Island Window, in George-street, and is, in addition, displayed in rare manners in the Dept. (first floor). Come and feast your eyes on the good things provided, and note the wonderful buying advantages that offer at every step—and WELCOME.

THESE HATS ARE NEW.

THE POPULARITY OF VELVET HATS IS UNDOUBTED.

SEE THE BIG SELECTION AT M'DOWELL AND HUGHES!

As low as 6/11 we have a smart little Sailor Shape, in Black Velvet, blocked crown, with soft top of Black and White Fancy Stripe Silk. Just the Hat for wear right now.

ANOTHER LINE AT 6/11, in Black Velvet, has blocked crown and rolled brim. Top is finished with Velvet and Fancy Striped Silk Trimmings of Buttons and Pleating in front.

A COMFORTABLE VELVET HAT is swathed with self round crown, and is smartly finished with Buckle and Knot of Velvet. In Mole, Navy, Brown, or Black, and exceptionally cheap at only 12/6.

A LOVELY LITTLE HAT is in Tagel Straw, close-fitting, crushable shape, with small slightly upturned brim; finished Corded Ribbon, Band, and Bow, also Buckle; in White, Nattier, Black, Nigger, and Navy. Price 17/11.

BLACK SILK VELVET, 2/6 YD.

Come and handle the material—note the deep pile, the rich Black colour, and its perfect appearance. Never again can we offer it at such a price. Purchase all your Winter requirements while this doubly welcome opportunity for economising is here. Width 18in. Worth 3/6 yard.
EXTRA SPECIAL PRICE, ONLY 2/6 yard.

GABARDINE COSTUMES.

IN FIVE NEW STYLES. PRICE, 4½ Gns.

The popularity of Gabardine as the material "par excellence" for Autumn and Winter wear is beyond all question, and many people will welcome this announcement, featuring as it does five new styles in ALL-WOOL GABARDINE, at the extremely Economical Price of 4½ Gns. each. Styles include Plain Tailored Sac Coat, with roll or step collars, trimmed buttons, etc., and fully lined with good quality White Jap. Silk. Some have plain pockets, finished with feather tacks. Skirts are well flared, in accordance with the foremost fashion ideas. Indeed, each style typifies the leading modes to a characteristically high degree. In three sizes, S.W., W., and O.S., and show in Khaki, Reseda, Brown, Mole, and Grey. Come and see them To-day and WELCOME.

VALUES MUCH ABOVE USUAL, AT ONLY 4½ GNS. EACH.

TO-DAY AT SNOW'S AMID GREAT THINGS.

"I should like to come back to Sydney fifty years after my death to see how it has grown," said one Sydney Citizen to another.

"Yes," said number two, "I believe you would be glad of any excuse to come back." Anybody who has returned to Sydney after a few years' absence is almost certain to remark the change in this Corner of the City.

The old, low-looking shops have gone, and in their places are well designed modern [illegible] of which is not the least.

Good, Reliable Merchandise, Freshly Bought in, and always quickly sold—that is the secret of the "busyness" of this Store.

READY-TO-WEARS,
NEW, NEW, NEW.

Hardly a day passes but something New comes to light in Snow's Specialty Millinery Shop. Here is a FELT-CLOTH HAT, with the new Railroad Stitching skirting the sides and top of brim—not round the brim—but lengthwise. The underbrim is of Tagel—inside is nice band lining. Trimming consists of Faille Ribbon. The Shades are:—
Black, Brown, Navy,
Also Saxe with Black Under;
Vieux Rose with Nigger Under;
Black with Pink Under;
Grey with Vieux Rose Under;
White with Black Under;
White with Pink Under;
White with Sky Under;
Navy with Pink Under.

SNOW'S PRICE, 8/11.

7/6 gives a Fine Selection in STITCHED SATIN SPORTS HATS. These are underlined with Tagel, trimmed with Band and Bow of Faille Ribbon. In White and Black; Black and White; White and Pink; All White, All Black, Navy and White, Navy and Pink, Saxe and White, Cerise and Emerald.
AT 5/11 are Smart STITCHED HATS, three kinds of Stripes in Black and Silver Grey. They are trimmed with Band and Bow.
AT 6/11 are PANNE VELVET HATS, in two shapes. One has six-piece crown, and stitched brim. The other is a flat shaped crown, with stitched brim. Black, Navy, and Saxe.
A SPORTS SHAPE with the Six Pieces in Crown, cut like a Catherine Wheel, and piped with Velvet, is only 6/11. Shades are Saxe, Nigger, Wine, Navy, White and Black, Grey, Black. At the same price similar styles in fine Grey and White Stripes, or Navy and White. 6/11.
The GLACE SILK HATS at 6/11, with the gathered brims and frilled edges, also with the gathered rises to the Crowns, and with plain [illegible] are right in keeping with the Victorian Styles of Dressing. They are soft pull-on shapes.
Also a variety of Shapes in Glace and Corded Silks—some gathered, others rucked—Shades of Navy, Nigger, Saxe, and Violet—from 6/11, 10/11, 11/9.
